BY PERCY WOOD.

Attorney Wayland Brooks was unanimously indorsed for governor last night by a cheering, enthusiastic crowd of more than 5,000 Republican precinct captains and party workers who jammed the Grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman and overflowed until the adjacent corridors were also packed.

The meeting was attended only by the organization workers responsible for bringing in the vote and their enthusiasm was considered significant. Mr. Brooks definitly regarded it so. He spoke briefly after the resolution pledging support to him had been adopted with a roar.

Pledges Honest Elections.

Reserving most of the issues of the present campaign to the other speakers—all precinct workers—Brooks devoted his remarks to pledging that he would merit the support offered him. Among the few important political topics on which he touched was the subject of "honest elections." This he referred to as "a pledge that we Republicans will keep."

Brooks gave an enthusiastic indorsement of the honest election bills calling for permanent registration in large cities of the state. These bills were defeated by Democratic strategy in the senate Wednesday.

Ready to start his downstate campaign next week, Brooks told the captains and workers that he would report to the downstate Republicans that "the battle here goes well."

Assail "Block Brooks" Group.

Grenville Beardsley of the Thirteenth ward and Elwood Graham, a colored captain in the Sixth ward, were two of the other speakers.

Beardsley assailed a group of Republican ward committeemen, many of whom are supporting H. Wallace Caldwell for governor. He charged them with an attempt to inaugurate a "Block Brooks" movement.

Identifying them only by their ward numbers, he quoted figures showing the Republican returns in their wards in the 1932, 1934, and 1935 elections, pointing to differences between the primary and the election votes. And in each case he cited the election vote was smaller.

Hints at Kelly-Nash Hookup.

"In those wards," Beardsley declared, "the leaders do not want Brooks nominated. They are for other men, and I will tell you why. They are against Brooks because the Nash-Kelly leadership in this county and state knows that if Brooks is nominated there will be a smashing Republican victory in November."

Graham drew applause with the use of several phrases which were to the crowd's liking, among them his characterization of Gov. Horner as "a radio crooner of Roosevelt propaganda."

Goodwin L. Dosland, precinct worker in the 19th ward, was chairman of the meeting. Besides the Brooks resolution, which was offered by John Dillon of the Thirtieth ward, the meeting also adopted another, presented by Benjamin Zatz of the Thirteenth ward, indorsing the Brooks-Harding county and judicial slate.

Calls Brooks Man of the Hour.

The Dillon resolution praised Brooks in warm terms.

"If the Republicans of Illinois hope to rescue our state from the clutches of the all-powerful Tammany machine," it read, "if it is our aim to relieve the people of the unconscionable and unbearable tax burden they loaded upon us; and if we are to gain the sovereignty of our state we must present to the voters of Illinois a vigorous, youthful, popular, courageous, tried and true Republican candidate for governor who enjoys the confidence, admiration and respect of our entire citizenry. In this grave emergency the Republicans again turn to Wayland Brooks for leadership.

NEW DEAL SPIES GET TELEGRAMS OF CHICAGOANS

Black Inquisition Assailed Anew.

It was revealed yesterday that numerous individuals and companies in Chicago—in addition to the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw—have been subjected to the New Deal's inquisitorial tactics. Confidential telegrams sent to and by Chicagoans are among the messages seized wholesale by the senate's lobby investigating committee headed by Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.]

The Black inquisition has compelled the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies to surrender to its snoopers millions of telegrams. In most instances it appeared that the sender or the receiver [or both] was a person, a society, or a company which had evinced disapproval of New Deal policies—or which, from the nature of its business, was suspected of entertaining such a feeling.

One Chicago Firm Fights.

This situation came to light last Monday when Winston, Strawn & Shaw won a restraining order in the District of Columbia Supreme court to prevent the senatorial committee from getting its hands on the firm's telegrams. Another prominent law partnership is found in the list of those whose personal messages have been seized.

This firm is Cutting, Moore & Sidley. The senior partner, William P. Sidley, former president of the Chicago Bar association, assailed the Black committee's tactics when informed last evening that all telegrams sent or received by the firm between Feb. 1 and Sept. 30, 1935, had been subpenaed.

Attorney Sidley Protests.

"I protest," Mr. Sidley said, "against the atrocious nature of such activities by a governmental body. The actions of the committee are calculated to intimidate people.

"I do not have the slightest idea why they should want our telegrams. We have had nothing to do with lobbying. It is just a wholesale fishing expedition to see if they could find something."

In 1934 Mr. Sidley was chairman of the resolutions committee at the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, a group which has ventured to cite imperfections in governmental policies of the New Deal.

Victims Reluctant to Talk.

With few other exceptions, the individuals and officials of concerns here whose messages have been seized evinced little disposition to discuss the matter. Some said they were "on the spot," an expression that reflected an apparent fear of New Deal reprisal.

Industries here whose telegrams were reported subpenaed include the United Light and Power company with its subsidiaries or affiliates, United Light and Railways, Continental Gas and Electric, and Panhandle Power and Light; Cribben & Sexton Stove company [E. R. Guyer, executive vice president], Utah Power and Light company, Empire Oil and Refining company [of which H. L. Doherty is president], Federal Public Service corporation with its successor, American Utilities Service corporation, and the American Utilities president, P. O. Crawford; the B. B. Robinson company, and Bozell & Jacobs, advertising [M. E. Jacobs and Leo B. Bozell].

Individuals and Organizations.

Individuals whose telegrams were said to be in the hands of the Black committee are Attorney Donald F. McPherson, Ernie Lundgren, J. E. Davidson, Clarence Martin, and Elby Rominger.

Organizations affected are the American Liberty league, Sentinels of the Republic, and the Chicago Crusaders and the Crusaders National Organization, Inc., with Fred G. Clark, national commander; Seymour Wheeler, vice commander; and F. W. Blaisdell, director of central division.

HALT GAMBLING IN NIGHT SPOTS AT MIAMI BEACH

Miami, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Wide-open gambling in Miami Beach's night spots halted abruptly tonight as owners of elaborate establishments heeded police threats to confiscate law violators' equipment. Reliable investigators reported places where gambling was known to have existed previously had removed expensive roulette wheels, dice tables, and other gaming apparatus from their premises and stored them in Miami warehouses to prevent possible confiscation.

The order silencing the whirr of the wheels and the click of the dice came suddenly from Police Chief H. V. Yocum today at the peak of this crowded winter resort's tourists season.

Visitors to night clubs and other Miami Beach amusement places reported throngs of persons nightly wagered money on games of chance, some of the stakes running into thousands of dollars.

NAVY STATION AND WAUKEGAN TO GO ON EASTERN TIME

The Waukegan city council voted, 9 to 5, last night to adopt eastern standard time for the city, effective at 2 a. m. tomorrow. The action was taken after Mayor Mancel Talcott read fourteen letters from north shore industries requesting the change.

The Great Lakes Naval Training station also will follow the example of Chicago and most of the suburbs and go on eastern time tomorrow morning. This announcement was made yesterday by Rear Admiral John Downes, commanding the station. Fort Sheridan already has changed to the new time.

$1,000 BUDGETED TO THAW PIPES; BILL IS $137,877

The thawing of 12,466 frozen water pipes, hydrants, and meters during February cost the city water pipe extension department $137,877 and this figure may be increased to $239,096 before cold weather is over, Oscar Hewitt, city commissioner of public works, said yesterday. Hewitt pointed out that in the 1936 city appropriation $1,000 was allowed for the thawing of frozen water pipes. "The cost may be met with part of the estimated $13,000,000 in water fund collections for this year, or we may ask for a special appropriation by the city council," Hewitt said.

WPA Tackles a Big Problem in the Suburbs

The federal Works Progress administration made considerable progress yesterday [so it was reported] in taking surplus fat off seven stout matrons living in Flossmoor, Homewood, and Hazelcrest.

The government's earnest endeavor to make women sylphlike is part of the $30,000 recreation project which the WPA has promulgated for the three southern suburbs. It is being carried on under the supervision of a paid instructor in the old Standard schoolhouse on the Dixie highway, near Ridge road, in Homewood.

This building was abandoned as a school last spring because the school district was unable to pay the teachers or furnish heat with the funds gathered by local taxation. Since then the children of Homewood have all been attending the Central school, with resultant crowding so great that pupils in the first four grades can attend for only a half day each.

Stout Mammas Replace Three R's.

The ironical situation—seven stout mammas rolling on the Standard schoolhouse floor to reduce their hips while the youngsters have their three R's cut in half—has not escaped the attention of Homewood folk.

"This is an upside down world," said Dr. Peter J. Teeling, a village trustee. "Here's the government reducing women and preparing to teach golf, skating, boxing, acrobatics, toe dancing, and nature study—just to give jobs to some people who probably need them. At the same time the government refuses to lend money to the school board so it can give the children education. Our program would make jobs for teachers, too. It's tough on the kids, who are being deprived of their education."

Ex-Acrobat Presides.

Gardner Watkins, supervisor of the $30,000 recreation project, said that the WPA paid for lighting and heating the Standard schoolhouse, but paid no rent. It will also pay to have the fence painted, but it can't, he said, lend the school board any money.

The seven reducers first to appear were given a good workout by Joe Sells, a former circus acrobat, who explained that he quit teaching his stuff privately and took the relief job because it was "more secure."

Sells even made some of the women try back bends and handsprings. The seven were somewhat inept at these exercises and the instructor had a pulley and belt rigged up to prevent their being hurt when they plopped.

"It's a small class and you can't expect 'em to be good at the start," Sells commented. "But we'll have more soon. This will be good for 'em."

More Flesh Reduction.

Wheaton also is having its WPA flesh reduction program. It is carried on in the Whittier school each Monday from 7 to 10 p. m. The Wheatonians, however, have a choice; either they can battle to get slimmer or they try to become tap dancers or folk dancers. These additional subjects are taught by Mrs. Catherine Coates and Miss Janet Campbell.

Donald E. Brown, the Wheaton recreational supervisor for the WPA, said that there were about 25 ambitious tap dancers, but only a handful of straight reducers.

In the Holmes school at Wheaton boxing and wrestling are taught under the same auspices on Mondays and basketball and volleyball on Tuesdays. For Wednesday nights there will be ping pong, checkers, chess, and indoor horseshoes.

2 Others Die in Gun Fight; 3 Are Injured

Sioux Falls, S. D., March 6.—(AP)—Three were dead tonight and three wounded following a sensational break at the South Dakota penitentiary here late this afternoon. A hitchhiking gunman who sought to release his brother from the prison was the principal actor and tonight lies near death in the institution's hospital.

Warden Eugene Reiley, 72, and Phil Ray, St. Paul desperado serving 30 years for bank robbery, were killed in a running gun fight with a posse. Berlan Meisel of Webster, S. D., died in a hospital early tonight from wounds suffered when he and his fiancee, Miss Freda Rausch, also of Webster, were ordered from their car by the fleeing convicts.

Girl Wounded in Face.

Miss Rausch was slightly wounded. Claude Carrier is the 18 year old Kansan who engineered the escape. George Collins, a deputy sherif, suffered gunshot wounds. The convict brother, Harold Carrier, was unhurt.

Meisel was shot over the heart and Miss Rausch wounded in the face when the gunmen ordered them from their car and took the machine in a wild dash for freedom.

Reiley, warden at the prison since Aug. 1, 1933, may have been a victim of officers' guns. He was found shot in the back in the rear seat of the gunmen's car and died en route to a hospital.

The sensational attempt at prison delivery came with startling suddenness. Less than an hour later Ray and Reiley were dead and Claude Carrier and his brother, Harold, serving 30 years for bank robbery, were back inside the prison walls. The younger Carrier was shot in the head and shoulder.

Own Story of the Break.

Blood-soaked and weak, Claude Carrier, who said he hitch-hiked here from Kansas City, gave police a vivid account of the prison break in which he and his brother held up a dozen guards and trusties, released Ray and kidnaped Reiley as a hostage. They stole three automobiles in their brief mad dash for freedom which ended in a hail of lead only five miles from the penitentiary.

"The break was my own idea. I figured it out myself," the lanky Carrier told police as they steadied his swaying form before a news reel camera.

"I stuck two gats under my belt and went up to ask the warden if I could see my brother," Carrier said. "I talked with my brother for about ten minutes and told him what the plan was. He said, 'Okay,' and when I got through talking I pulled out a gun and covered the guy nearest me. I gave the other gun to my brother."

Raid Arsenal for Guns.

Claude told how Harold then went into a cell block to release Ray before the trio took the turnkey's rings and raided the arsenal, taking a machine gun and some rifles. Seizing the warden, the gunmen stole a car from two women in front of the prison and fled northward.

"We wanted to get on to a side road as soon as possible," Carrier said, "so we turned off, but the warden said we would stand a better chance of getting away if we went back to the main road.

"So Phil turned back and we went on north. We came on the officers and their first blast hit me.

"I don't remember what happened after that."

A waterhole on the highway proved their undoing as moisture soaked the car's wiring and disabled the machine, permitting the posse to overtake them. Harold Carrier was captured when he attempted to flee, but Claude was unable to leave the auto

HITLER SPEAKS TODAY; ALARM SWEEPS EUROPE

Fears Fuehrer Plans to Scrap Treaties.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 6.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler threw the capitals of Europe into consternation tonight by suddenly calling a special session of the German reichstag to meet at noon tomorrow to hear a speech by himself on foreign affairs. Indicating the importance with which he considers the speech, he ordered arrangements made to have it broadcast throughout Germany.

At the same time the fuehrer requested the ambassadors of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Belgium to call upon him at 10 a. m., two hours before he addresses the reichstag. Those four nations, with Germany, are signatories of the Locarno treaty, which guarantees the present frontiers of Europe. It was reported that Hitler had also invited the minister of the Netherlands to call upon him, although that country is not a signatory of the Locarno pact.

Army and Navy Chiefs Meet.

Immediately following the brief official announcement of the calling of the reichstag to "consider administrative explanations," a flood of rumors swept through Berlin. They ranged from reports that Hitler intended to denounce the Locarno treaty, on grounds that it already had been violated by France and Great Britain, to reports that the fuehrer would proclaim Germany free from those provisions of the Versailles treaty which forbid the fatherland to maintain troops in the demilitarized Rhineland.

It was recalled that it was just about a year ago, on March 16, 1935, that Hitler dramatically freed Germany from the "fetters of shame" by repudiating the clauses of the Versailles treaty which disarmed the country. That repudiation came on the eve of a day of commemoration of the war dead. A similar day of commemoration will be held this Sunday.

The excitement was heightened when generals and admirals were seen converging at the war office for a big meeting. They did not emerge until many hours later. Brown shirted Storm troopers and Schutzstaffelmen [picked Hitler guards] added to the commotion when they suddenly swarmed into the streets in greater numbers than have been seen in many months in the German capital.

Seeks "Place in Sun."

While Nazi officials refused to discuss what Hitler will have to say in his speech, leaders close to the fuehrer declare his statement will be of extraordinary importance to the future of Europe. He is expected, among other things, to make a last minute effort to prevent ratification by France of the mutual assistance treaty with Russia, which is conceded to be aimed at Germany.

He is also expected to make a supreme effort to bring Germany back into international conversations. For weeks Great Britain, France, Italy, Russia, and even the smaller states of Europe have presented a rather cold shoulder to Germany, or even ignored her in political conversations.

More positive but less dominant officials assert Hitler will make a renewed peace gesture, including concrete proposals for the formation of new pacts to revise and partly supersede the league of nations and the Locarno pact. The purpose would be to eliminate Russia and undermine the position the soviet government has tried to obtain in the league through coöperation with France.

Talk of Army Increase.

Well informed diplomats understand that the war ministry has completed plans to increase the size of the German army by at least two army corps. This, it is declared, would make it easier for Germany to occupy the demilitarized Rhineland as soon as Hitler issues an order or reaches an agreement with the Locarno treaty partners on the subject.

Hitler's more conservative friends have been urging him to pave the way for a return to the league provided the other powers agree to scrap provisions of the Versailles and other treaties which are considered dishonorable in Germany, such as those prohibiting armed forces in the Rhineland and those barring

Germany from the right to have colonies.

The question of colonies is the greatest obstacle to his plan, since Germany wants at least New Guinea, which belong to Australia, and German East Africa, which is under British control and one of the main links in the Cape Town to Cairo route. New Guinea, with its copper, rubber and other wealths, is coveted by Japan, but German leaders declare they have been assured by Japan that it would not object if the league took New Guinea from Australia and gave it to Germany. It would provide the Germans with a foothold in the Pacific.

FRANCE IS ALARMED

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 6.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler, according to a report received by the quai d'orsay tonight, will inform the ambassadors of France, Belgium, Great Britain, and Italy tomorrow that Germany no longer considers herself bound by the clauses of the Versailles treaty stipulating demilitarization of the Rhineland.

Hitler will announce his intention of sending militarized green police into the forbidden zone, according to the quai's report.

Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French foreign minister, and other foreign officials, pored over texts and burned up telephone wires between Paris and the various French embassies in Europe late into the night, trying to organize a French diplomatic counter-attack to the expected German offensive.

Await Duce's Action Today.

The atmosphere of suppressed hysteria prevailing in official circles in Paris is all the more intense because the Berlin development was preceded by a dramatic conversation today between Flandin and Vittorio Cerruti, Italian ambassador.

Cerruti, it is understood, while not definitly indicating that Mussolini would reject the league of nations' appeal for peace in Ethiopia, struck a very pessimistic note. He told Flandin bluntly that Italy looks upon the league sanctions committee as a cabal headed by Britain. The British, he declared, are incapable of understanding Italy's legitimate pride and consequently Rome had no hopes of ever obtaining satisfaction from the league.

Cerruti declared Italy will never relinquish one inch of Ethiopian soil conquered by her armies.

Premier Mussolini is scheduled to reply to the league tomorrow.

EXCITEMENT IN BRITAIN

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 6.—Europe faces the most crucial week-end since the world war, it was believed in London tonight when word reached Whitehall that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had summoned the ambassadors of the countries signatory to the Locarno treaty for what is believed an announcement that he is going to tear up the clauses of the Locarno pact and the Versailles treaty prohibiting German fortification of the Rhineland.

Uneasiness over the German Nazis' intention was intensified by expectancy over what Premier Mussolini will reply to the league of nations' peace proposal.

CAPTURE A BANK ROBBER 3 YEARS AFTER HIS CRIME

Fred Bartholomae, 32 years old, was arrested in his home at 635 Belmont avenue last night and confessed shortly afterward at the detective bureau that he was one of three robbers who held up the Kent, Ill., State bank on Sept. 26. 1932, and fled with $200.

"I only got $20 out of that stickup," Bartholomae declared, "and I've never done a crooked thing since. I only wonder who could have turned me up."

The police said they had received information from a man who claimed to have recognized Bartholomae from a description published in a detective magazine.

Evanston Home Looted of Jewels and Clothing

BRITISH PROTEST NEW RED CROSS BOMBING BY ITALY

Airplane Raid Stirs Up a Diplomatic Row.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, March 6.—The British government tonight curtly called Premier Mussolini "on the carpet" for the bombing by Italian flyers of a British Red Cross unit in Ethiopia and the killing of Maj. Gerald Burgoyne, a Briton serving with the Ethiopian Red Cross, in a second air raid.

The British unit was bombed near Quoram, on the northern war front, Wednesday. Three wounded Ethiopian soldiers were killed.

Britain Is Indignant.

The incidents have caused indignation in Great Britain, coming on top of five other cases of Red Cross bombing in the last two months. The British anger is heightened because Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador to Rome, had kept the Italians carefully informed of all movements of the British ambulance unit.

Consequently tonight Drummond was ordered to lodge a strongly worded protest note with the Italian government which demands, first, an immediate investigation of the bombing and, second, orders to Italian military authorities in Ethiopia to see that such bombings are stopped.

The foreign office acted after receiving reports from Dr. Andre Melly, in charge of the bombed Red Cross unit at Quoram, which said the Red Cross camp was two miles from the nearest troops and on open ground. Dr. Melly reported that the Italians repeatedly flew over the camp, dropping forty bombs. In addition to the three patients killed several were wounded.

Bombing Called Deliberate.

Dr. Melly's report, transmitted through the British legation at Addis Ababa, said a big red cross was plainly visible, indicating that the bombing was done deliberately. This indication was borne out in the protest sent to the International Red Cross in Geneva by Dr. Brown, its delegate in Ethiopia.

Italian flyers bombed the American Red Cross hospital at Dessye on Dec. 6, a Swedish ambulance unit on Dec. 30, an Egyptian ambulance on Jan. 5, and on Jan. 15 they bombed the Ethiopian Red Cross unit to which Maj. Burgoyne, who was killed yesterday, belonged.

The British protest note follows Swedish claims for indemnity by the Italians for losses incurred in the Dec. 30 bombing.

League Receives Protest.

GENEVA, March 6.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government protested to the league of nations today against the Italian bombing of a British ambulance station in northern Ethiopia.

Italy Also Protests.

ROME, March 6.—(AP)—Details of another Italian government protest to the league of nations against the alleged misuse of Red Cross emblems by the Ethiopian army were made public today. The protest was submitted not only to the league, but to the international committee of the Red Cross on Feb. 28.

The government claimed it had sworn testimony from members of the Egyptian medical mission in Ethiopia that captured Italians have been tortured to death. It also stated that the Ethiopians had transformed Red Cross organizations "into a real and genuine arm for military defense and offense."

A continuation of "mopping up" activities in northern Ethiopia was reported today by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander of the Italian forces in Ethiopia. He said Eritrean detachments had occupied Cerbeta, southeast of Amba Alaji and that the third army corps had started a movement upon Fenaroa and Samri.

[The Ethiopian government in a communique said a big battle was under way in the north, with heavy casualties on both sides. Italian claims of victories in the north were denied.]

BRITAIN'S AIR FORCE TO ASK $65,000,000 INCREASE IN BUDGET

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Great Britain's air force will ask parliament to increase its budget for 1936 by £13,013,000 [about $65,000,000] over last year because of special expenditures "in connection with the Italo-Ethiopian dispute," it was announced officially today.

Viscount Swinton, secretary for air, said an appropriation of £39,000,000 [about $195,000,000] will be sought. The proposed increase makes the 1936 budget approximately 1½ times that of 1935.

Viscount Swinton also disclosed that Imperial Airways, subsidized by the government, will begin experimental flights this summer looking toward opening of a trans-Atlantic airline. The air force estimates contained an item of £20,000 for aid to these experiments, and another £75,000 for possible contributions required in connection with the establishment of necessary seaplane and landplane bases.

Lord Swinton asked a grant of £9,000, half the projected annual subsidy to Imperial airways, for a Bermuda-New York air service to be operated jointly by Imperial airways and Pan-American airways.

U. S. BATTLESHIP FIGURES ADOPTED AT NAVAL PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 6.—The London naval conference's technical subcommittee agreed on 35,000 tons and 14 inch guns as the limit for battleships today, figures on which the American delegation has insisted. The committee also fixed a zone in which there will be no naval construction between 8,000 and 17,500 tons.

The committee will meet again Monday when it is expected the draft report will be ready for submission to the first committee of the conference. Formal initialing of an agreement by the United States, Great Britain, and France may take place next week.

Italy's signature remains obscure but German and Russian adhesion to an agreement, through separate pacts with Britain, is thought assured. The final decision today was hastened by intimations from the Americans that they are tired of wasting time here. Norman H. Davis and other delegates had booked passages on the Washington, sailing Wednesday. These are now conceled but the delegation expects to be home by the end of the month.

NAB 2 BANDITS; ONE SHOT DOWN; $40,000 SAVED

Springfield, Ill., March 6.—(AP)—Walter H. Hagler, bank guard, today shot and critically wounded one man and captured another during an unsuccesful attempt to seize a $40,000 bank shipment.

Detective Chief C. W. Jesberg identified the men arrested as Alphonse Del Valley, 42, who was wounded three times, and Arlie Tinder, 32, both of Danville.

During the exchange of shots Roeder E. Tietze, bank teller, recovered the money package, which had been wrested from his hands, and ran into the postoffice. A third man, reported by witnesses to have been waiting nearby, fled in an automobile when the shooting began.

The money was for shipment to the federal reserve bank at Chicago.

26,500 Ton French Cruiser Launched; 30 Knot Speed

BREST, France, March 6.—(AP)—The Dunkerque, France's first 26,500-ton cruiser, was launched today. It is expected to have a speed of 30 knots and to carry a crew of 1,300. The first trial runs will begin in June. In Paris the navy committee of the chamber of deputies approved the immediate construction of three torpedo boats and one tanker for the navy.

ASSASSIN FIRES AT SERB PREMIER ON HOUSE FLOOR

One Bullet Almost Hits U. S. Minister.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 6.—(AP)—Police charged tonight that a spectacular attempt to kill Premier Milan Stoyadinovich in the Jugo-Slav chamber of deputies was the culmination of a political conspiracy.

The premier ducked under the desk of the speaker's rostrum as Damian Arnantovich, 40 years old, a Macedonian deputy, fired four pistol shots at him. One of the bullets struck the railing of the diplomatic gallery where Charles S. Wilson, United States minister to Jugo-Slavia, sat with other foreign representatives.

Officers said they were convinced that Arnantovich was one of a faction determined to use the premier's assassination as a means of achieving its political goal.

Raid Party's Clubhouse.

Moving swiftly after the assault, police raided the clubhouse of the Jugo-Slav National party, arrested four opposition deputies, and issued warrants for several more.

Arnantovich was seized and taken to a cell where police said he was recovering from the effects of a long period of drinking. The deputy was officially reported to have visited a number of night clubs last night with two men known for their bitter hostility toward the premier.

The attempted assassination was the latest of many disorderly scenes in the chamber. On several occasions a group of about 100 opposition deputies have stopped proceedings by slamming the tops of their desks, throwing ink bottles, and even attacking government deputies with their fists.

Assassin Heckles Premier.

Today many of the opposition members decided not to take their places on the floor of the chamber. Arnantovich, one of them, watched the proceedings from the press gallery.

As the premier started speaking, Arnantovich interrupted him with shouted questions. Stoyadinovich invited him to the floor, and he took a seat near the speaker's rostrum.

Arnantovich drew his pistol, but a deputy managed to strike his arm and the shots, fired in quick succession, went wild.

There was great confusion in the chamber. Other deputies brandished pistols and a dozen of them pounced on the assassin, crushing him to the floor.

Comes from Behind Desk.

Amid the shouting Premier Stoyadinovich, his morning coat dusty and rumpled, arose from behind the desk and tried to quiet the disorder.

After a half hour's interruption the premier continued his discussion of the budget and foreign affairs.

Another outbreak threatened when an opposition deputy tried to congratulate the premier on his escape, but he was interrupted by hoots from other opposition deputies. The opposition has been bitter over the premier's refusal to order new elections and revise the election law.

MINE 'HOLIDAY' IN SALINE COUNTY PUT AT END BY UNION

Harrisburg, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Immediate termination of the labor "holiday" called in Saline county by Progressive Mine Workers was ordered by union leaders late today. They also directed 3,000 members of the union to return to their jobs which they left two days ago.

The Progressives went on strike in ten mines in the county in protest against the reopening of Peabody No. 43 with men from their rival union, the United Mine Workers of America. They called on all other unionists in the county to join the movement but were given little support.

The union leaders cited their organization's "contracts with their respective operators which call for continuation of work" and told the "strikers" "our contractional obligations" must not "be interferred with."

This order followed close on a statement from the headquarters of subdistrict 11 of the United Mine Workers exhorting all miners in the county to forget their "passions and prejudices."

It charged that the Progressives had violated their contract with their employers and that the men who quit work were losing $15,000 a day in wages.

Miners' Organizer Shot.

Springfield, Ill., March 6.—(AP)—Dan McGill, 55, one of the organizers of the Progressive Miners of America union in Illinois, was shot from ambush while walking a block from his home here tonight. He was taken to St. John's hospital, where physicians said his wound was not serious. He was shot in the right shoulder. McGill held no office in the miners' union.

CHILD IS KILLED IN WRINGER OF WASH MACHINE

Waukesha, Wis., March 6.—[Special.]—An electric washing machine delivered to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stapleton, of Merton, today attracted Robert Jr., 7, who watched carefully as the salesman showed Mrs. Stapleton how to operate it. A few hours later she went to a neighboring store for groceries and left Robert in charge of three smaller children.

While she was away the child turned the electric switch, put the wringer in operation, got one of his fingers caught, and when he tried to free it both hands were forced between the rollers. When Mrs. Stapleton returned from the store 15 minutes later, she found the machine running, the child's arms were crossed and forced through the wringer up to his shoulders. Robert was dead.

Coroner John Schaeffel reported the death as accidental "due to suffocation and shock."

FEAR OF HITLER WRATH BLOCKS SPY TRIAL ACTION

Defendant Mum on Nazi "Higher Ups."

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Dr. Hermann Gortz quailed under the shadow of Nazi "higher-ups" at his trial for violating the British official secrets act today. He declared he dared not answer questions concerning them because he might be "tried for high treason in Germany."

The hitherto smooth talking, soldierly German declared in shaken tones that he would not continue his defense in England if pressed for details regarding the high Nazis.

R. P. Croom-Johnson, defense attorney, announced at the end of today's session that he expected testimony would end Monday.

Talks Glibly of Novel.

Gortz gave glib and breezy explanations of how he planned to write "the great romantic novel" with an Anglo-German setting which required sketches of British flying fields.

He admitted sketching the Manston airdrome, but denied he had "any idea of supplying that sketch to anybody in Germany."

Regarding the German officials, Gortz said nervously, "Excuse me. I am in a very difficult position.

"I would not defend myself here if I thought I'd be tried for high treason in Germany," he said in response to a question. "I cannot dare to answer. It is impossible for me."

Tells of Girl Aid.

A crown attorney, passing over the matter, declared: "It would endanger this gentleman's position if German authorities took a certain view about it."

Gortz asserted Marianne Emig, also indicted with him on a charge of violating the official secrets act, was a "shorthand typist" to whom he dictated material for his book. She remained in Germany when he came to England and was arrested.

RESCUE INVALID AND HER NURSE IN OAK PARK BLAZE

Mrs. Sampson Rogers Sr., an invalid, and her nurse, Miss Bertha Pyles, were carried by firemen from the Rogers home at 537 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, last evening after a fire broke out in the basement.

The alarm of fire was turned in by Miss Pyles with a telephone call after she had smelled smoke in a hallway on the second floor. The blaze was confined to the basement, but the firemen decided it was safer to take the women out the window of a bed room than to attempt to pass through the dense clouds of smoke on the stairs. The fire was extinguished with a loss estimated at $1,000.

Mrs. Rogers, who is 68 years old, is the mother of Sampson Rogers Jr., stockbroker with offices at 33 North La Salle street. Her husband, who was a veteran hide and wool merchant in Chicago, died in 1929. Mrs Rogers was taken by firemen to the home of her brother, F. E. Hoover, 521 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park.

MILK DELIVERY IN AKRON, OHIO, CUT 85 PER CENT

Threaten Gun Use to Stop Interference.

Akron, O., March 6.—[Special.]—Despite the ultimatum of authorities that any one interfering with the delivery of milk "will face guns," approximately 85 per cent of consumer deliveries were curtailed in Akron today as a result of a strike of milk drivers.

This strike was one of four major labor controversies involving about 16,000 workers which beset the city. Mediators faced deadlocks in all of them.

The curtailment of milk was a retaliatory measure of producers and dairy operators against the union drivers. J. I. Shafer, president of the Summit County Producers association, said his organization and the Independent Producers association had cut off all except 15 per cent of home deliveries. He said milk would be delivered to hospitals and institutions.

The other controversies in which peace negotiations appeared blocked were the 18 day strike at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, the "lockout" of workers at the Palmer Match company, and a three weeks' wage dispute at the Columbia Chemical company.

Dorothy Dickson, Actress, Divorced from Carl Hyson

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Dorothy Dickson, American actress who came to England 15 years ago to star in London plays and musical comedies, was granted a divorce today from Carl Hyson, American theatrical producer. They were married in the United States in 1914 and separated in 1923. Justice Langton granted a decree nisi, which would become final in six months.

EACH SIDE DIGS IN FOR WAR IN BUILDING STRIKE

Two Big Owners Make Separate Peace.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—The sixth day of the strike of building service employés found both the union and the realty interests digging in for a long war. There were no official efforts from any direction to bring the struggle to a conclusion.

The strike today spread to a group of 17 hotels, including the McAlpin, but most of the elevators were kept running and the chief trouble was reported in getting chambermaids and housemen to work. The McAlpin was the only big hotel thus far affected. The union leaders said an effort might be made to call workers out tomorrow at some of the biggest hotels, such as the Waldorf-Astoria, Pierre, Commodore, Astor, and St. Moritz.

Owners Rally Civic Groups.

While the union was seeking to break down the resistance of the owners by concluding individual and group agreements, the Realty Advisory board was rallying its members and civic associations behind its policy of resisting the union's demands, particularly the closed shop.

James J. Bambrick, president of the local union, indicated, however, that his organization was ready to abandon the closed shop for the preferential shop.

This was revealed in an agreement signed by the union with the Prudence company, covering 45 buildings. The contract was signed at city hall, in the presence of Mayor F. H. La Guardia and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor. The Prudence company, not affiliated with the Realty Advisory board, is one of the largest concerns in the city, controling about 150 million dollars' worth of real estate.

First of Big Operators.

The agreement marked the first defection of an important firm from the ranks of the owners in response to Mayor La Guardia's appeal after the failure of his peace efforts early Wednesday morning that the strike be concluded by individual and group agreements with the union.

It was learned that the mayor and McGrady also were in contact with other real estate owners and groups in efforts to prevail upon them to follow the example of the Prudence company.

Among others who came to an understanding with the union today was Irwin Chanin, president of the Chanin Management company, who entered into a "gentleman's agreement" with Bambrick for an increase of $2 a week for its employés.

Will Consider Other Demands.

The agreement was reached after a three hour conference in the Chanin building, 122 East 42d street, attended by Chanin, Bambrick, George Scalise, international vice president of the union, and Edward C. Maguire, counsel for the union. The company agreed to enter into negotiations upon other demands of the union, covering reduction of hours and working conditions.

Police figures showed 1,964 buildings, most of them apartment houses, affected by the strike since it began on Sunday. Of this number 134 have signed contracts with the union, leaving 1,830 still being picketed. A total of 165 arrests since the beginning of the strike was recorded up to tonight.

Police reports indicated that while there were at least 242 buildings in Harlem, Washington Heights and nearby territory where employés joined the walkout, residents in general have suffered little, as most of the apartment houses in the area are comparatively low, seldom exceeding five or six stories.

This is the area where the union called a strike on Thursday following collapse of Mayor La Guardia's peace negotiations.

It was evident, however, that while little territory was added to the strike field, the strikers continued to hold firm. Virtually no desertions from their ranks were reported and systematic picketing continued.

The strike situation in the residential sections of the west and east side and the mercantile area, from Chambers to 42d streets, continued unaltered, with service partially restored but no material relief from the hardships and inconveniences imposed by the strike. Owners of loft buildings complained that their business was being seriously hurt. In the Wall street area only six small buildings joined the walkout. The total number of buildings affected in the district is not more than forty. None of the big skyscrapers has felt the effects of the strike.

Complaints of lack of heat and other emergency needs in apartment houses increased sharply. Health Commissioner Rice attributed much of this to colder weather. He reported considerable progress in the sanitation department's efforts to remove garbage accumulated in apartment houses.

Horan Goes On to Boston.

The strikers held a mass-meeting tonight, to drum up enthusiasm, but a damper was thrown over the gathering by the non-appearance of Jerry Horan, international president of the Building Service Employés union. Horan was supposed to have come to New York by plane from Chicago, but even before the hour set for his speech it was rumored that the city authorities had sent word to him "that his presence was not desired. This was a polite manner of barring him from the city as an undesirable.

At the massmeeting, however, it was explained to the audience that Horan had been "compelled to go to Boston." Meantime there was no confirmation of the rumors that city authorities had barred him.

A telegram was read at the meeting from John L. Lewis, president of then United Mine Workers of America and chairman of the committee on industrial organization, representing more than a million workers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, pledging support of the strike.

ROOSEVELT'S SON FLIES TO MEET ETHEL DU PONT

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of the President, went down the bay today to meet the liner Carinthia, returning from a West Indies cruise. Aboard the ship were Olivia Morgan, Mrs. Eugene du Pont and her daughter, Ethel du Pont, a friend of young Roosevelt. The du Ponts are of the famous Delaware family.

Coast guard headquarters refused information and considerable secrecy surrounded Roosevelt's trip to meet the Carinthia. It was reported that he drove to Floyd Bennett field, Brooklyn, with Commander L. D. Baylis of the coast guard, and that the two boarded a coast guard amphibion plane which took off at once.

Young Roosevelt and Miss du Pont have been seen together a great deal, and reports have persisted that their acquaintance was more than mere friendship. Mr. Roosevelt was among the guests when Miss du Pont made her debut in Wilmington in June, 1934. Last August he passed several days at the family's summer home at Northeast Harbor, Me.

Young Calvin wrote the mayor a letter signed also by his brothers, saying:

"Saturday I worked hard all day selling papers to get a dollar to buy my dog a license.

"I gave it to daddy so he could go get it this morning but they wanted two dollars because it was past Feb. 29. Please have a heart for our little dog."

Mayor Willerton assured them today the dog would be licensed.

ROOSEVELT'S TAX PLAN WILL PASS, DOUGHTON AVERS

Levy on Earnings Surplus Held Certain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—While a house subcommittee continued today its "explorations" in an attempt to find new taxes to meet administration requests for more revenue, Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] of the ways and means committee, gave definite assurance that President Roosevelt's suggested tax on corporation surpluses would be enacted into law.

All talk of revised income taxes, sales taxes, increased "nuisance" and inheritance taxes is merely ballyhoo to bolster the President's scheme for obtaining some 620 million dollars annually by slapping an average tax of about 33⅓ per cent on undisturbed earnings of industries, observers agreed after listening to Doughton, who spoke on the radio.

Doubt New Processing Taxes.

After frightening the public with threats of other taxes, the subcommittee will recommend to the full committee next week the corporation surplus tax and a 90 per cent tax on impounded processing taxes, it was predicted. The new processing taxes on farm products probably will not be approved, it was said. A small exemption may be allowed to permit corporations to retain a modest surplus.

"I am particularly impressed by the wisdom and the timeliness of the President's suggestion for a revision of our system of taxation of corporate profits," Doughton declared. "A revision on the principle he has suggested will not only yield great additional revenue but will in my opinion redress manifest injustices in our tax system."

Terms Plan Clear Cut.

Doughton termed the present corporate tax system "merely a refuge from just taxation for big incomes." The President's tax plan was "simple and clear cut," he asserted. Near the close of his speech, he sounded a note of caution, however.

"While I believe the principle of reform embraced in the President's message to be sound, it must, of course, be applied constructively and with the definite view in mind of doing no injustices to any taxpayer or to any legitimate industry," he said.

An increase in "nuisance" and inheritance taxes was discussed by the subcommittee today. The treasury experts, sitting in with the congressmen, made it plain, however, that they were against such a proposal.

Suggestions Are Listed.

A half cent increase in the present 1 cent a gallon gasoline tax, to yield an additional 80 million dollars, was among the suggested raises. Reinstatement of the 2 cent tax on every bank check, to yield 47 million dollars, was another. Other suggestions were:

A 10 per cent tax on slot machine sales, to yield 50 million dollars.

Elimination of the present corporate dividend exemption from the normal individual income tax, to raise 54 million dollars in 1937 and 90 million dollars in 1938.

Abolition of the present $40,000 exemption from estate taxes, to yield 31 million dollars in 1937 and 53 million dollars in 1938.

Imposition of the present individual income tax rates on small inheritances and gifts, with a credit of $40,000, to raise 325 million dollars in 1937.

FRACTURES SKULL IN 2 STORY LEAP.

Mrs. Minnette Harder, 37 years old, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when she leaped from a window of her second floor flat over a tavern she owns at 4323 Cermak road. She told police she tried to kill herself because she wanted to be with her husband, George, who died six years ago.

U. S., FRANCE AGREE ON ATLANTIC FLIGHT TESTS THIS SUMMER

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Several experimental airplane flights are expected to be made across the North Atlantic to the United States this summer by French organizations as a result of arrangements made today at a meeting of their representatives with the committee on civil international aviation of the United States.

Present also were Juan T. Trippe, president of Pan-American airways, and Thomas A. Knowles of the Goodyear Zeppelin company. The French representatives were Jean Schneider, secretary general of air force; Morin de Linclays, New York representative of the French Steamship line, and Edmond Lanier, secretary of the French Line directorate.

While no commitments were made, it was announced, that the commerce department had indicated its willingness to extend to any French company to be designated by the French government the right to make experimental flights to and from the United States this year.

POLICEMAN GETS FRIENDS TO GIVE BLOOD TO HIS PAL

Policeman Philip Shore of the East Chicago avenue station and James Allen, 27 years old, 1342 North Clark street, were friends in the Sexton grade school and in Lane Technical High school. Allen, too, tried to be a policeman, but poor health balked him. Five weeks ago he was taken to the county hospital, seriously ill with ulcers of the stomach and in need of blood transufusions before an operation could be performed to save his life.

Friend Philip, whose blood was unsuitable, provided $50 for a professional blood donor. That tided Allen over until Feb. 27. Then Policeman Shore went to the firehouse at Beethoven and Wells streets. On successive occasions Firemen Harry Meier, William Henry Briggs, John Coyne, and Henry Mullarke gave blood, as did a civilian, Joseph Geary.

Today Dr. George I. Bard will operate on Allen, and afterward friend Philip will have to round up more blood donors.

FIND GERMANY'S NEW AIRSHIP FIT AFTER HOP IN RAIN

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, March 6.—(AP)—Germany's new silver airship, the LZ-129, was pronounced "airworthy" today after a final three hour test flight in the rain. Members of the state control commission were aboard today and Dr. Hugo Eckener was at the helm.

Other passengers included representatives of the technical experimental station for aviation and twelve technical experts of the air ministry.

Lieutenant Commander Scott Peck of the Lakehurst naval air station, an American observer, praised the performance of the new Zeppelin. He has accompanied the ship on all test flights. He declared the engines are far more powerful and much faster than in American dirigibles mainly because of the streamlining of the LZ-129.

"I consider all possibilities of danger eliminated," the American said.

Missing Fishing Launch Found; 3 Aboard Safe

The Genevieve, a forty foot fishing launch reported missing with three men aboard Thursday night, was found adrift twenty miles off shore by a coast guard crew yesterday. Arthur St. Peter, 2145 Fremont street, captain of the launch, reported that the launch struck an ice cake, disabling its engine, on Thursday afternoon. He and his two companions, Steve Greneke and Michael Nawrot, were kept warm by a small coal stove in the cabin.

PROPOSES HERO POSTAGE STAMPS FOR COLLECTORS

Roosevelt and Farley Consider Subjects.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today reported the administration is considering an issue of stamps to honor naval and military heroes.

At his press conference the President said he had talked the matter over with Postmaster General James A. Farley and reached the stage of considering heroes to honor. He revealed five denominations are under consideration and heroes under consideration go back as far as the revolution.

Mr. Roosevelt said the idea was not original with him. It goes back, he explained, about 20 years to the time of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Farley Rebuked Once.

At the postoffice department, where Farley's catering to his chief's stamp collecting hobby got the genial party leader a congressional drubbing, it was said the issue has not progressed beyond the discussion stage.

Farley drew a congressional rebuke when he gave the President, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, and a friend sets of unperforated stamps, which by virtue of their scarcity had an immense value. A howl went up from collectors, and congressional pressure forced Farley to run off the unperforated issue for public sale.

The President's hobby has been the source of jests among government officials. After conferences with the chief executive officials report to their fellows that they talked with the President for 15 minutes in an hour's conference before he brought out his stamp collection.

Relief Is Discussed.

Mr. Roosevelt referred to his conference last night with treasury and relief officials as one of a series of discussions on relief. He avoided comment on his tax program.

He said he had found the white buttons for his dress clothes, adding that they probably had turned up in the wash. The temporary loss of the buttons forced the President to use black buttons in his dress vest at the dinner given for him by the cabinet Wednesday evening.

ROOSEVELT GETS FOUR NEW STAMPS FOR HIS ALBUM AND INVITATION

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—An undertaking to lay the corner stone of a new federal building in San Antonio was added today to the long list of engagements already facing President Roosevelt when he makes a contemplated visit to Texas late in May or early in June to participate in the Texas centennial celebration.

The San Antonio invitation was delivered by Senators Morris D. Sheppard and Tom Connally and Representative Maury Maverick in an envelope bearing four 3 cent stamps, constituting the first canceled group in the new series issued by the postoffice department to mark the centennial of the Lone Star state.

The stamps had been canceled in the Alamo, and then the packet was handed over to Capt. W. P. Hardy, adjutant at Kelly field, San Antonio, who flew here with it yesterday.

Senator Connally said Mr. Roosevelt would include in his visit to Texas stops at Dallas, center of the celebration, Houston, Fort Worth, and San Antonio.

Two Who Sought to Rob Teacher Get Six Months

Pitts Mohon, 27 years old, 65 West Chestnut street, and John Miller, 20, of 56 West Huron street, were sentenced to six months in the Bridewell by Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court yesterday on charges of attempted larceny. They were arrested last Tuesday after they had tried to force Joseph Kwiat, 4811 North St. Louis avenue, a Crane Technical High school teacher, off a bus at Jackson and Oakley boulevards. They admitted they intended to rob Kwiat because they believed him to be a gambler with much money in his pockets.

NEW DEAL DARES HIGH COURT ON NEW FARM PLAN

Memphis, Tenn., March 6.—[Special.]—Revealing for the first time the administration's reliance on the general welfare clause to protect constitutionality of the new soil conservation act, Secretary Henry Wallace today told 500 cotton farm leaders the administration virtually dares the Supreme court to find it invalid.

His listeners sat motionless as he addressed them, subordinating legal findings of the court to the weight of opinion of "all classes of the people."

"We have our opportunity in this new approach," Wallace said. "I do not believe the Supreme court can find against us in this particular approach and I think it is so absolutely and manifestly in line with the general welfare under the new routine, that neither the Supreme court nor that exceedingly supreme court—that balance of public opinion in all classes of the United States—can find against us."

SEES TERRORISM BY BLACK 'CHEKA' APPLIED TO MAIL

Witness Turns Tables on Lobby Inquisitor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—The public is in danger of having "governmental terrorism" as exemplified by the seizure of personal telegraph messages by the Black inquisitorial committee, extended to tampering with the mails and telephone wires, Jouett Shouse, president of the American Liberty league, warned tonight.

GEORGE BROBECK.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Shouse recalled the practice of the British crown in issuing writs of assistance that brought on the American revolution. He declared that the constitution had been drawn up to prevent a revival of such practices.

"Now we have the amazing spectacle of agents of a senate committee scurrying about the country serving so-called blanket subpenas which demand the production of all messages received or sent by specified individuals, partnerships, associations or organizations," Shouse said.

Charges Black with Lobbying.

The house charges capped an eventful day for the "Black Cheka," in which the chief inquisitor, Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], himself was charged with lobbying.

The senator spluttered and squirmed as the tables were turned on him by George Brobeck, legislative representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Brobeck charged that Black had lobbied among his fellow senators against the appointment of Maj. Gen. John H. Russell as commandant of the United States marine corps.

Brobeck had been summoned to explain his employment at $100 a week to represent a utilities company during the fight last year over the holding company "death sentence" bill. Chairman Black read a telegram in which Brobeck had said he was "working day and night" on the legislation.

"You've used that expression yourself," put in Brobeck.

Trying to Win Support.

"Yes," replied Black, "I think I told you once that I was working day and night and had no time to discuss influencing legislation."

"Yes," shouted Brobeck, "you were working day and night to round up all the influence you could get to defeat certain marine corps nominations."

With Black blushing the witness went on to explain that at the request of Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler he had helped obtain information which Black wanted "in an effort to block the nomination of Gen. Russell."

In his speech tonight, Shouse asserted that the Black committee was welcome to any information it could get about the Liberty league, for the organization does its work in public. The league, with its anti-New Deal leanings, has been considered as the biggest game the Black committee hopes to bag.

Shouse pointed out that every telegram sent by any citizen of the United States to any one in Washington between February and December 1, 1935, had been seized by the federal communications commission, which exceeded its authority in passing them on to the Black committee.

All Telegrams Pried Into.

"I do not mean telegrams about legislation or public business," Shouse said, "I mean that if you, wherever you live, sent any telegram, however private, to any one, in or out of office, in Washington, or if you sent any telegram, however private, out of Washington to any one in the world, on any subject, your telegram has been subject to the prying eyes of the representatives of the new inquisition.

"If your telegrams can be pawed over at will by agents of a partisan political group, what assurance have you that your mail may not be tampered with? What assurance have you that your telephone wires may not be tapped and your conversations reported? What assurance have you that dictaphones may not be placed in your offices or your homes?"

Reveal Doherty Manipulation.

The day's session of the committee previously had brought forth testimony that Henry L. Doherty, dominant figure in Cities Service corporation, sold out much of his interest several months before the financial collapse in 1929 and a few weeks later bought himself back into control at a profit of 17 million 700 thousand dollars.

Both Robert Burns of New York, Cities Service counsel, and Herbert A. Blomquist told of the transaction.

Eight months before the 1929 crash on the stock market, it was testified, Henry L. Doherty, Inc., sold 200,000 shares of stock for 20½ million dollars. Part of it went to liquidate an indebtedness of 4½ million to Henry L. Doherty & Co., which acted as banker for the corporation.

Burns explained that Doherty was in bad health and needed to put his property in a more liquid form. With about 9 millions of the proceeds he bought municipal bonds.

Even as he was selling out, company employés were invited to buy stock, a circumstance which prompted Senator Gibson [Rep., Vt.] to observe:

"Wasn't that leaving the employés holding the bag?"

Burns answered that Doherty's life "was despaired of" and that his associates urged him to liquefy his estate "to avoid a forced sale."

Burns testified later that certain interests, including a bank, sought to get control of the company. Immediately the stock holders called a meeting. Three attended with a block of voting stock. Doherty was given authority to buy 1 million shares of company voting stock at $1 a share, thus putting him back in the company saddle.

SEEK INDICTMENT MONDAY OF 3 AS JURY TAMPERERS

Grand jury action will be sought Monday against three men charged by the state's attorney's office with attempting to influence a juror in the arson trial concluded Thursday night by the acquittal of Manny Schreiberg and Gus Stoyas. This decision was made yesterday after prosecutors conferred with Judge Joseph Burke, who presided over the trial.

Benjamin [Buddy] Jacobson, 36 years old, one of the men arrested, was booked yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice. The other two held are Peter F. Londergan, 49 years old, 4431 South Wells street, and Daniel Rafferty, 4501 Emerald avenue.

When questioned yesterday the jurors in the arson trial said they did not observe Londergan's courtroom attempt to influence his brother-in-law, William Rooney, 301 West 42d street, a juror. This was his gesture of putting his arm around Schreiberg, pretending friendship.

Their speedy verdict of acquittal, the jurors said, was based on Defense Attorney James M. Burke's closing argument emphasizing that Valentine Notari, chief state witness and confessed arsonist, did not implicate the defendants until a year after he was arrested.

SEE GRAND JURY INQUIRY ON PWA SEWER PROJECT

Investigation in Illinois Is Reported.

Wood River, Ill., March 6.—(AP)—After five years of difficulties, Wood River's planned construction of a $430,000 sewer system was involved today in a reported investigation by the Public Works administration.

From Chicago came an admission by S. N. Moe, head of the PWA investigation department, the project was under scrutiny and that further inquiry may disclose details that would require grand jury action.

The exact nature of the PWA investigation could not be learned from available records here, and Moe declined to discuss his findings.

First Planned in 1930.

The sewer project originally was planned in 1930 and appeared near the construction stage last year, but the city's impaired credit and the inability of a contractor to qualify under PWA regulations put it back in the indefinite stage.

Wood River, which had grown about a refinery established in 1908, had the usual weak point of a "boom" town in real estate developments that failed to develop. When speculation ended, a large number of local improvements were left with heavy assessment delinquencies and with consequent affected city credit.

An ordinance for the sewer system provided for financing under the "local improvements act" with the aid of a federal grant. The act permits municipalities to finance improvements with bonds issued without an election and requires that contractors accept the bonds at their face value for their work.

Balk at Discount.

Contractors learned that investment brokers were reluctant to take the bonds off their hands except at a 17 to 20 per cent discount. Most contractors decided that was too much of a loss on the $324,200 in bonds they would have to accept.

After the contract was let last Oct. 17 a new difficulty developed when the contractor was unable to qualify under government regulations.

NEW DEAL DODGING HOUSING COURT TEST, FLETCHER DECLARES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—A charge that President Roosevelt ordered abandonment of the Kentucky court test of the constitutionality of the administration's slum clearance, low cost housing, and rural resettlement programs in order to avoid the consequences of certain defeat in the Supreme court was made today by Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Fletcher declared that the administration walked out of the case in order to carry on the unconstitutional programs. The Supreme court, he asserted, would certainly outlaw the programs and prevent expenditure of $2,825,000,000 by the administration units.

The charge was made in a statement following the filing by Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed of a motion to dismiss the government's appeal from decisions of the federal District court at Louisville holding the condemnation of land for a slum clearance project to be unconstitutional. Mr. Fletcher charged the decision to abandon the "key case" was reached during the week as administration leaders were convinced their cause was lost.

"This whole performance is in line with the President's policy of delaying decisions on the NRA, the AAA, and numerous other illegal activities carried on by the alphabetical agencies," Fletcher said.

"They knew what was coming and they couldn't take it."

TOWNSHIPS TO TAKE UP RELIEF SUPPORT JULY 1

Springfield, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner today signed four bills in the Hickman-Lantz-Finn series of measures, returning administration of relief from the counties back to the townships and requiring Chicago to support its own paupers. They will become effective July 1.

The last bill in the series which requires all local political subdivisions of the state to levy the maximum pauper tax before they can receive any state aid, will be acted upon when the legislature returns April 21 to complete the second special session. An attempt to get the senate's approval on a house amendment at the midnight session yesterday morning failed.

The four bills which Gov. Horner signed were passed by the legislature by a bipartisan combination of downstate Democrats and Republicans over bitter opposition from Cook county. One of the chief purposes in offering the measures was to make Chicago levy a tax to support its poor the same as downstate political subdivisions.

FIND EX-CONVICT IS WPA TEACHER TO THE BACKWARD

Forgery Trips Him for the Eleventh Time.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Max H. Schneller, a former convict with a record of ten arrests, who was dismissed as resident physician at the Harts Island reformatory and sentenced to Riflers Island two years ago for practicing medicine without a license, was found today, as the result of his arrest on a charge of forgery, to be a teacher of subnormal children, assigned by the WPA to the bureau of handicapped children of the board of education. His duties have been to visit the homes of these children as a psychologist and teacher.

Shortly after his arrest on the charge for which he was sent to Rikers Island he attempted to commit suicide, as he had done on a former occasion. While assigned to feed the pigs on the island he made a spectacular escape by swimming to the Long Island shore, only to be recaptured later and returned to serve out his sentence after he had been given up as drowned. This was the third institution from which he had escaped.

Quit Trying to Quiz Him.

Arrested and charged with forgery on the complaint of Sarah Callan, an employé of the bureau of attendance, board of education, he became so bitterly resentful at the police lineup today that Acting Captain Thomas Dugan, in charge, finally abandoned further efforts to question him.

He gave his age as 46 years.

Miss Callan said that she expected a check from a private business house, amounting to $103, last month, and that when it did not appear she made inquiries, being informed that it had been sent to the board of education offices, according to instructions. She reported the matter to the police, who learned through a bank that the check had been cashed at a department store, and that Schneller had put his name and address on the back, below the name of Miss Callan, which appeared in a forged feminine handwriting.

Claims Only One Arrest.

When asked how many times he had been arrested he said only once. But police records show that he was first arrested in 1926 for forgery at St. Paul, where he received an indeterminate sentence. On a plea of illness he was taken from the prison to a hospital, from which he escaped.

The next year he was arrested in Detroit for practicing medicine without a license, but was returned to St. Paul to complete his sentence there.

In 1931 he was arrested in Toronto after trying to commit suicide. He was placed in an institution, from which he escaped, and his next arrest occurred here after he had been made resident physician at Harts Island in the department of correction's campaign to reform its medical service.

GOV. LANDON CONFERS WITH STATE OFFICERS ON RELIEF PROGRAM

Topeka, Kas., March 6.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon conferred today with state relief officials on the problem of Kansas coöperation with the federal government on the assistance phases of the social security program.

"We are going into all possibilities, including a special session of the legislature, to bring Kansas in under the program," the governor said.

The federal social security board this week rejected a plan submitted by Kansas on the ground that assistance to dependent children, needy blind, and needy age would be established on a county option basis rather than a state-wide basis.

Whether the state can meet requirements of the federal board without a constitutional amendment is being studied.

HALF OF LIQUOR ESCAPES TAXES, SENATORS TOLD

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(AP)—Advocating the Copeland bill to transfer all federal liquor taxes to the retailer from the distiller and wholesaler, Eugene Greenhut of New York, told a senate finance subcommittee today the government was losing millions of dollars in taxes through illegal use of strip stamps.

Greenhut, a member of the executive council of the national civic federation, said 1,743,050,000 strip stamps, costing a penny each, and certifying payment of taxes and import duties had been issued between Feb. 1, 1934, and Dec. 31, 1935.

Only Part of Them Used.

While this amount of stamps "actually would authenticate more than 242 million gallons," he said, only 155 million gallons had been authenticated.

He said of the 625 million stamps now available, some were in the hands of collectors and some in the hands of the trade, but many had been secured by illicit operators.

The Copeland bill would require the retailer to pay the full amount of the tax for stamps and put up a penalty bond to be forfeited if taxes were found to have been evaded.

Greenhut said his organization originated the proposal.

Loss Set at 360 Million.

He testified 50 per cent of liquor consumption today was of non-tax paid liquor and 360 million dollars in federal and state taxes had been lost in one year by counterfeiting and other illegal use of strip stamps.

"The strip stamp, which costs one penny," he said, "can be used to authenticate as much as a $2 tax payment. In other words, 200 times its actual cost. No illicit operator would try to obtain these stamps if they cost the full amount of tax payment which they authenticate."

SCHOOL BOARD'S $2,000,000 PWA WORK TO START

Work will start Monday on two new school buildings and additions to six more buildings under the Chicago board of education's $2,000,000 program, financed by the federal Public Works administration, it was announced yesterday. Thirty-nine portable structures will be eliminated by the construction. The new schools are to be built at 109th street and Homan avenue and Grace street and Panama avenue. Additions will be started at the following schools: Le Moyne, 851 Waveland avenue; O'Keefe, 6940 Merrill avenue; Kilmer, 6700 Greenwood avenue; Lyon, 2941 North McVicker avenue; Emmett, 5500 Madison street, and Locke, 2800 Newcastle avenue.

$6,000 TRUNK IS STOLEN.

Thieves broke into the apartment of Nick Vassos above his restaurant at 1367 North Clark street early yesterday and stole a trunk containing $3,640 in Liberty bonds, $1,100 in cash and jewelry valued at $1,555, Vassos reported to the police.

107 Eligibles for Police Force to Start Training

The men will enter the police training school next Friday. There are 56 other men on the civil service eligibility list. On March 16 new examinations will be held for patrolmen. More than 16,000 applications have already been received.

SENATORS QUASH QUIZ ON HAGOOD REMOVAL ORDER

Hold Freedom of Speech Is Not License.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—By a vote of 12 to 2 the senate military affairs committee today quashed the proposed investigation of the removal of Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood from command of the 8th corps area for criticism of New Deal spending.

As the committee met to ponder the resolution for an inquiry offered by Senator Jesse H. Metcalf [Rep., R. I.], President Roosevelt refused to comment on the Hagood case at his press conference. In short order the committee upheld the action of its subcommittee of three which unanimously recommended tossing the resolution out the window.

The subcommittee held the Hagood case did not raise the constitutional issue of free speech. Its report recognized that army officers should be allowed to answer questions before congressional committees without subjecting themselves to discipline or punishment. It declared that such freedom does not give a license to use language which might be interpreted as critical of the President, the congress, or other federal officials.

Hit WPA "Stage Money."

Hagood was ordered to his South Carolina home to await orders after publication last month of his testimony before a house military affairs subcommitee in December. The general, who had been instructed to testify frankly and subsequently asked that critical portions of his testimony be sticken, referred to WPA funds as "stage money."

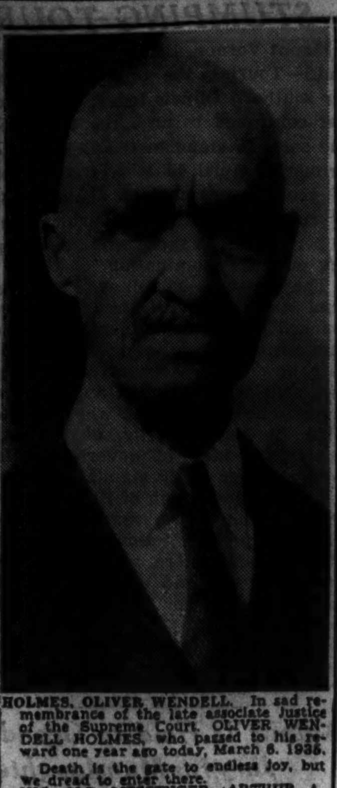
The subcommittee, composed of Senators Logan [Dem., Ky.], Duffy [Dem., Wis.], and Carey [Rep., Wyo.], held that Hagood's testimony violated the 62d article of war in begin critical of congress. The report said Hagood could have employed other language to make his point that it would be better to provide adequate housing for the army than to use PWA funds for less desirable projects.

Hold No Quiz Necessary.

The report said there was no necessity for an investigation to determine the persons responsible for Hagood's removal. It said under the constitution the President is commander-in-chief of the army and the removal order stated it was issued at the direction of the President. At the White House, however, it has been insisted that the President played no part in the removal and the phrase "by direction of the President" is a matter of war department routine.

The subcommittee said nothing would be gained by an investigation because all of the facts are now a matter of public record. The subcommittee said of the free speech issue raised in the resolution that if there is any evidence of a government attempt to suppress free speech it should be made the subject matter of another resolution.

HONORS HOLMES



HOLMES, OLIVER WENDELL. In sad remembrance of the late associate justice of the Supreme Court, OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, who passed to his reward one year ago today, March 6. 1935.
Death is the gate to endless joy, but we dread to enter there.

JUSTICE HOLMES IS HONORED ON HIS ANNIVERSARY

The life of Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who died on March 6, 1935, was eulogized yesterday by Rabbi Joshua Liebman of the K. A. M. temple at a luncheon held by the Chicago Bar association to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Justice Holmes. Mr. Holmes was born on March 8, 1841, the anniversary of which falls this year on Sunday.

"It is appropriate that the Chicago bar devote an hour to meditation on the life of one of the greatest philosophers America ever has produced," Rabbi Liebman said. "A great artist in the art of living, Oliver Wendell Holmes' philosophy was one of humility."

Wife Seeking Alimony Reveals New Marriage

When Mrs. Ruth Riley, 32 years old, 6228 Ellis avenue, appeared yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court on her petition to cite her former husband, Charles, for contempt of court for being $100 in arrears in alimony, her attorney, Norman Becker, announced he had just learned she is remarried and is now Mrs. Arra Smith. Riley's attorneys paid her the $100 but said they would ask a rebate at a later hearing. The Rileys were divorced in 1932 and she remarried in April, 1935.

J. A. REED WILL FIGHT POLICIES OF 'FRANKLIN I.'

Former Missouri Senator Lashes New Deal.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Former U. S. Senator James A. Reed of Missouri today expressed some blistering comments on the administration in Washington, which is directed, he said, by "Franklin the First."

While the New Deal was elected as a Democratic administration it has deteriorated, in Senator Reed's opinion, into what amounts to advocacy of the principles of a third party—a mixture of bolshevism, socialism, and communism.

"There are three political parties in the United States today," said the 75-year-old ex-senator, who has lost none of his old fire. "They are the Republican party, the Democratic party, and the Third party which is running the government at Washington. We must beat this crowd next fall by every honorable means.

Fights as Democrat.

"I don't know what the Republican party is going to do. I don't think its leaders know. I never voted a Republican ticket in my life and I am still a Democrat, but I am going to devote all my energies to defeating the policies of the Roosevelt administration in the next election.

"If we don't beat the principles of the crowd at Washington, we will have destroyed American government. I think it is the duty of every American to defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt and the crew of half-baked experimenters in government with which he has surrounded himself.

"There are two kinds of laws in the United States. There is the people's law, which is derived from the constitution. The other law is acts of congress. The present administration has discarded the people's law. Franklin the First has directed congress to ignore it and to enact new laws whether they are constitutional or not.

"Rape of Constitution."

"The congress, at the behest of the President, has raped the constitution. If the men who voted in support of his policies in defiance of the constitution didn't know what they were doing, they have no right to their seats in congress."

"What do you think of your former colleagues in the senate, Democratic, and nominally Republican, who voted to put Roosevelt laws in effect?" the senator was asked.

"I know only one language," was the reply, "and that is English. My limited vocabulary is incapable of expressing what I feel about the men who, with their eyes open, have voted to rape the constitution and who have the effrontery to defend their action.

"The Roosevelt administration has one end in view. It is to redistribute the wealth of this country by means of taxation. At first they are going after the big fortunes and tax them out of existence. Then they will have to go after the little fellows and after a time there won't be anybody who can pay taxes.

"The administration is blaming the Supreme court for the chaos in which the country is floundering. That is because the Supreme court has stopped some of their unconstitutional laws. The stand of the administration in blaming the Supreme court reminds me of setting fire to a house and then blaming the fire on the firemen."

WARNS OF PERIL TO HOME RULE IN RELIEF WORK AID

A warning that the business of government in municipalities must not be turned into a relief work project, lest the public service be pauperized and federal administration supervision result, was given yesterday by Frank W. Herring, executive secretary of the American Society of Municipal Engineers and International Association of Public Works officials.

"Home rule and municipal mendicancy are utterly inconsistent," said Mr. Herring in an editorial in the Public Works Engineers' News Letter. "City fathers, zealous of resisting interferences of state or federal governments in municipal administration, must realize that administrative supervision is the inevitable consequence of financial support."

Mr. Herring criticizes the carrying on of routine budgetary public work, such as paving repair, refuse collection and street cleaning, under relief auspices.

This often results, Mr. Herring explained, in the local budget being lowered temporarily, but no economic good results. Sometimes a force of men is discharged, putting them near or on the relief line.

G. O. P. MOBILIZES VOLUNTEER ARMY OF CAMPAIGNERS

Intensive Drive to Seek Out Every Vote.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Midwest G. O. P. chiefs yesterday adopted plans for a "Republican Volunteers" organization, a general Republican club for the 1936 campaign "to send the party doctrin into every nook and corner of the land," as it was expressed.

The proposal is to enlist party workers to concentrate upon the voters in "blocks of 20." The congressional district is to be taken as the initial unit, and from this it is proposed to work down into the precincts and city blocks with intensive organization. Poll lists are to be checked and the aim is to build up clubs of such size that each worker will not have more than twenty persons assigned to him for individual attention.

Plan Stresses Individual Effort.

The plan was formulated at a meeting at western party headquarters in the Palmer House, attended by Republican national committee members and state chairmen from fifteen midwest states. It was broached by Harrison Spangler, western director of the G. O. P. national committee, and it was approved by representatives of the Republican women's organization and the Young Republicans.

"The campaign," said Mr. Spangler, "will stress the precinct units rather than the national committee. We are going to enlist a great army of workers instead of a few generals. It is an application of the grass roots idea of operating from the bottom up instead of from the top down."

Adoption of the project was regarded as perhaps the most important step taken by the party in the midwest since the Grass Roots conference at Springfield last June.

Coördination of All Units.

The "Republican Volunteers" clubs will work under the direction of the national and state committees in coördination with the district and county committees. Units in each county are to choose their own officers, with the party county chairman as an ex-officio member of the directing committee and with representatives of the Young Republicans and the Republican women on the list of officers and trustees.

As set forth in the proposal setting up the "Republican Volunteers," a great stay-at-home vote needs to be led to the polls. The object is to provide this leadership down in the precincts.

"The stay-at-home Republican vote in past campaigns has been alarming," it says.

Leadership Need Stressed.

"While an aroused public opinion will lead many to the polls, yet experience in all politics over many campaigns clearly indicates that many persons, through indifference and thoughtlessness, do not vote unless they are actually and physically led to the polls by interested persons.

"Men, women, and young Republicans must be organized in each precinct, with not more than twenty votes assigned to each person, to take care of the polling, registration, and voting of these persons.

"If such intensive organizations are perfected in each precinct and block, in each township and school district, we can win this election."

Reports that through the midwest, pivotal territory next November, a great swing is in progress against the New Deal were made by the committeemen and chairmen.

Report Encouraging Outlook.

Will T. Beck, Kansas state chairman, reported an encouraging outlook in that state, home of Gov. Alf Landon, one of the leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination. George Lloyd of Des Moines, secretary of the Iowa state committee, pointed to last Friday's state convention at Des Moines when 1,700 delegates were present in an old-fashioned conclave, as evidence of the trend in the champion corn-hog state.

Among others on the official list of state chairmen and committeemen present were: G. W. Dalton, Missouri; Lyle E. Jackson, Nebraska; Harlon J. Bushfield, South Dakota; Carl H. Cook, Iowa; Arthur N. Curtis, Missouri; Don Irwin, Indiana; LeRoy E. Matson, Minnesota; Charles R. Enos, Colorado; Ed D. Schorr, Ohio; Cyrus Phillip, Wisconsin. Other party representatives were J. K. Bradley, Washington, D. C.; George Wright, South Dakota; James H. McLafferty, Iowa, and Thomas J. Houston, chairman of the executive committee of Illinois state committee.

NO TO CHICAGO ON AIRPORT, BUT AID FOR OTHERS

1,568 Projects Given U. S. Approval.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]——The Works Progress administration which turned thumbs down on Chicago's request for a lake front airport for boondoggling projects has approved 1,568 airport projects throughout the country, it was learned today.

The WPA has approved an outlay of $108,199,669 for airports and airport improvements. Not all of the projects are under way, but state administrators have been given the green light for spending shares of the 4 billion dollar works relief fund on the approved improvements.

Object to Per Man Cost.

Approval was withheld on the Chicago lake front airport because the WPA held the per man cost of the project would be about $2,800. Although the project was held to be a worth while improvement and met with President Roosevelt's favor, WPA officials voted it down in favor of quick employment projects of the leaf raking type. The city had asked $8,577,000 for the airport.

WPA officials admitted the per man cost of many of the approved projects is about as high as the Chicago estimate and that many of the approved projects were less desirable than the lake front improvement. They explained that it was easier to find made work projects in large centers of population than in rural areas where most of the airport projects are being built.

No List Available.

The WPA was unable to give a list of the projects. It was said that reports from state administrators will not be available for months. It was acknowledged, however, that many of the airports are being constructed and improved for communities without plane service and that the ports will be little more than emergency landing fields and an accommodation for local aviation enthusiasts.

A typical example of such a project is under way at West Palm Beach, Fla., where WPA has allocated $22,275 for a steel and concrete hangar on an airport which will principally benefit members of the exclusive Boca Raton club a few miles south of West Palm Beach.

The WPA made work argument against Chicago did not halt airport construction for San Francisco, Philadelphia, and New York. The unit allocated more than a million dollars for airport improvements at San Francisco, Camden, and Newark.

By WPA ruling no improvements can be made with federal funds on privately owned or leased land. All approved projects are on municipal, county, or state land.

MILITANT G. O. P. WOMEN HERE TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

Leaders from 15 States Ready for Action.

BY MARCIA WINN.

An alert and militant group of Republican women, representing 15 midwest states, gathered yesterday at the Palmer house for a conference called by the Republican national committee. At the opening session, enthusiastic women leaders plunged into the solution of campaign problems.

At one time their views and suggestions all but swamped Harrison E. Spangler, director of the western division of the national committee, who was outlining general plans for the campaign. His hearers went into action when Mr. Spangler told them:

"The Democratic party is dead. It has been absorbed by these people in Washington."

Charges Postal Interference.

"It is not dead," asserted plump, rosy faced Mrs. Meryl Remley, vice chairman of the Republican state central committee of Missouri.

"Why, we can't even use post cards in the rural sections of our state to advertise our meetings, because they never get to the houses. We have to use linen finish envelopes, addressed by hand!

"The only way we are going to win this election is to wake up the dormant woman citizenship out in the state."

Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman for Illinois, then spoke up.

"Facing Hardest Job."

"Maybe you men think the Democrats are dead," she told Mr. Spangler, "but we women know they are not. They have the best organization in history. They have all the money, and all the offices. We have the hardest job we've ever had."

Miss Martha McClure, national committeewoman from Iowa, said: "If I thought the Democrats in Iowa all were dead, I'd take a vessel and sail away for a month. But we have to fight for the victory we're going to have."

"You've misinterpreted me," smiled Mr. Spangler. "I mean the party of Jefferson, Grover Cleveland, and Andrew Jackson is dead. What we're fighting now is a group of mercenaries headed by this man——"

Plea for Equal Footing.

"If you want real victory," concluded Mrs. Baur, "take the women on an equal basis with the men. We tried separate organizations and we failed."

"Kansas settles the matter by letting the men handle the oratory and letting the women do the work," said Mrs. E. C. Little, vice chairwoman for that state.

"We have never had any inharmony in our ranks," she said.

Suggestions for helping solve campaign problems came fast now. Said Mrs. Little: "Organize by precincts; get right down to the grass roots."

"Boil down your literature," suggested Mrs. Horace Sayre, committeewoman from Oklahoma. "Condense it; make it interesting; give us facts."

"Too Many Generals."

"What we need in this election is more privates," insisted Mrs. John E. Hillman, committeewoman from Colorado. "There are too many generals in the Republican army, anyway."

"Stop trying to convert Republicans," suggested Mrs. Alvin T. Hert of Kentucky, vice chairman of the national committee. "We already have them."

"Let's talk issues instead of personalities," proposed Mrs. Jacob Steketee, Michigan's committeewoman.

And so it went until the session closed. The women will discuss concrete campaign plans today.

BUNDESEN TOUR MAKES HIM GOOD ROADS ADVOCATE

Cairo, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—A days driving experiences, including a mudhole breakdown, left Herman N. Bundesen, Democratic organization primary candidate for governor "more than ever favorable to inauguration of a system of farm to market roads," he told a large crowd here tonight.

"Now that I've seen conditions at first hand, I'm certain that commerce between the producer and the urban consumer needs the stimulus that will come with more 'feeder' roads," the candidate said.

In addition to political issues, Bundesen, who is president of the Chicago Board of Health, spoke at length about food values of milk.

John Stelle, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Bundesen slate, lambasted Gov. Henry Horner, who is a candidate for renomination, for "his spurious claims of achievement."

Another South Side Victim.

Otto Jones, colored, 46 years old, 438 East 45th place, died in the County hospital of injuries incurred on Thursday. He was struck at South Park way and 45th street by an automobile driven by John Strumba, 725 East 34th street.

At 4 p. m. yesterday 175 persons had been killed in Cook county trafic accidents since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In the same period 148 were killed and 2,531 injured within the Chicago city limits.

Myron L. Lambert, 35 years old, 6732 South Chappel avenue, owner of the Superior Truck Lines company, 3920 South Michigan avenue, was killed early yesterday when the nine ton truck he was driving was struck by a northbound Alton mail train at the Clinton street crossing in Lincoln, Logan county. Steve Brent, 31 years old, 4206 Carroll avenue, his companion, was seriously injured.

Many Legislators on Train.

The men were on their way to Kansas City from Chicago, and were testing out a new type of truck with eight speeds. Sid Beam of Bloomington, engineer of the train, and Henry Anderson of Bloomington, the fireman, were bruised and burned by gasoline from the truck that became ignited. About 15 Chicago bound members of the Illinois senate were on the train.

T. E. Cooney, 45 years old, of Piper City, Ill., was killed last night when the automobile he was driving crashed into the rear of a parked truck in North avenue between Wheaton and Glen Ellyn. Du Page county authorities arrested Joseph Fink, 38 years old, West Adams street, on the ground that he had failed to place warning flares behind the truck when he parked it. Cooney was residing temporarily in St. Charles.

Hurt Hitting Safety Island.

Stanley Ryba, 24 years old, 8606 Escanaba avenue, was taken to the Billings Memorial hospital with a skull fracture incurred when his car crashed into a safety island at 55th street and the Outer drive yesterday.

Henry E. Clausen, 39 years old, 8000 Higgins avenue, Park Ridge, incurred a skull fracture early yesterday when his car crashed into an electric light post at Mango and Montrose avenues. He was taken to the Belmont hospital.

Miss Alice Fjellman, 40 years old, owner of a beauty shop at 503 Chestnut street, Winnetka, was seriously injured yesterday when the automobile she was driving collided with another driven by Lewis M. Allison, 590 Lincoln avenue, Winnetka, at Oak street and Maple avenue in the suburb. She was taken to the Evanston hospital.

BERWYN MAN NAMED AIR TRAFIC POLICEMAN AT NEWARK, N. J., POST

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(AP)—A trafic policeman to give stop and go signals on the nation's airways was installed today by the commerce department.

So far, the giant airliners have kept out of each other's way; there has been no sensational collision of the big ships.

And to see that there is none in the future, Earl F. Ward, Berwyn, Ill., has been named supervisor for air trafic control of the bureau of air commerce.

Recently he was engaged by the air lines to supervise trafic movements in and out of Newark airport. He has an 8-year record of experience in air line operation.

In the daytime, pilots can easily see an approaching plane. At night, it is more difficult. In the fog or clouds it is virtually impossible. Ward's work will be so to organize dispatching and control systems that planes will be kept apart.

Auto Hits Messenger Boy, with Unexpected Results

White Plains, N. Y., March 6.—[Special.]—Joseph De Moduglio, 17, a messenger boy, was struck by a New Castle police department automobile today. The youth's right shoe and rubber were sent sailing through the air, breaking a second story window in a schoolhouse thirty-five feet away. Moduglio was hurled against a parked automobile, denting the fender. At the hospital it was found the youth had only a scratched elbow.

FINED FOR SUICIDE EFFORT.

David Patterson, 32 years old, 4917 Winthrop avenue, a truck driver, who attempted suicide Thursday by swallowing poison, was fined $10 for disorderly conduct yesterday by Judge Justin F. McCarthy.

HORNER STRIKES AT OPPONENTS IN STUMPING TOUR

Mount Vernon, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Touring the upper fringe of far southern Illinois today, Gov. Horner continued to urge the voters of the state to stand in the Democratic primaries April 14 with the "cause of good government as against rule or ruin boss dictated government as is personified in those who are opposing me for renomination."

The governor at Olney, Flora, Salem, and Mount Vernon again attracked Walter W. Williams, WPA administrator, for attempting "to dictate how WPA workers shall vote," and said Williams, "an appointee of a man named Dunham, who is a protégé of Mayor Kelly of Chicago, shows the kind of government for which Mayor Kelly stands."

Another indication of Kelly's stand, the governor said, was "the defeat of the honest election law by the state senate where some downstate voters were afraid of Kelly and did not dare vote for permanent registration."

"We will keep up the fight for honest elections until we win it," the governor declared.

Central police arrested Jan after witnesses supplied the license number of his car.

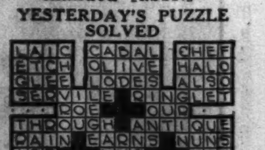
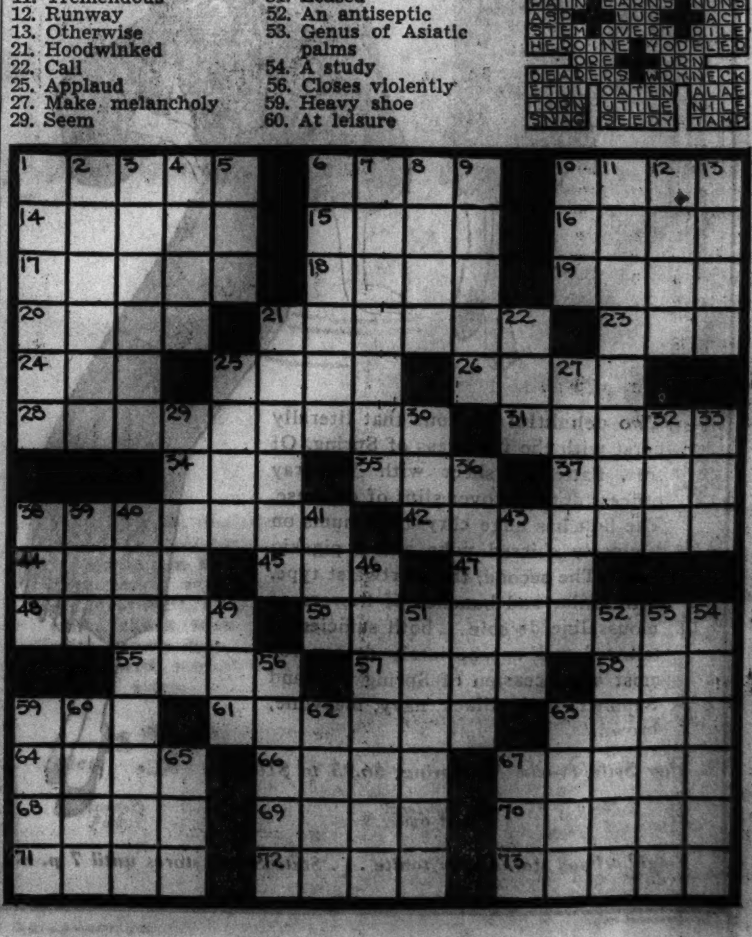
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





JAP BLUEJACKETS RING NAVY OFFICE IN CABINET CRISIS

Army Continues to Resist Hirota's Ministry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 7 [Saturday].—Truckloads of Japanese marines were rushed to the navy department this morning to augment the already strong force there. Strong forces of bluejackets were also posted about the residences of Admiral Prince Fushimi, Admiral Osumi Nagano, who just returned from the London naval conference, and other naval chiefs.

Koki Hirota, former foreign minister, continued his efforts to form a cabinet to succeed the government shattered by the bullets of army rebels last week.

At 10:30 a. m., it was announced, the premier-designate had failed to overcome the army's objections to some of his choices. The militarists particularly opposed the appointment of Gen. Count Juichi Terauchi as minister of war.

Breach Is Widened.

The deadlock widened the breach between the military and civilian elements, making it extremely difficult for any one but a militarist to become premier.

Political circles regarded Hirota's efforts to form a cabinet as hopeless. The army is holding out for a cabinet lineup which will reverse the policies of former Premier Keisuke Okada.

Hirota evidently proposed to maintain the status quo, but the army is understood to have objected vehemently. Military leaders declared there must be a drastic change from the policies followed previous to the militarist blood purge in which Korekiyo Takahashi, finance minister, and two other high officials were assassinated.

The army, apparently, in previously approving Hirota's appointment, was misled by his past record into believing he would adopt a strong stand and make sweeping changes.

It is felt Hirota's failure to form a cabinet will have an adverse effect on industrial and financial circles and retard early restoration of normalcy. Moreover, it may mean a still further curbing of the rôle of political parties in the nation's government.

Minami May Become Premier.

As far as foreign policy is concerned, there is not likely to be much change, no matter who heads the government. The most likely appointee to the premiership is Gen. Jiro Minami, ambassador to Manchukuo, who was relieved of his post last night. It is expected he will be promoted to supreme war councilor in a few days.

Minami once served as minister of war under a party government. He is understood to have the support of both military and civilian quarters. His policies are considered moderate, but he is powerful enough to carry them out.

Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda was named ambassador to Manchukuo and placed in command of the Manchukuan garrison as Minami's successor.

MOTHER ADMITS SETTING FIRES AS 'MORAL PROTEST'

Mrs. Isabel Borrell, 38 years old, mother of three children, confessed to Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash yesterday that she had started several fires in the apartment building at 4716 Sheridan road, where she lives.

"Immorality was going on in one of the apartments," she explained. "I complained to the building owner about it, but nothing was done. I would get to brooding about it and then I would start a fire, call firemen, and warn people out of the building."

After conferring with Prosecutor Nash last night First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley said that Mrs. Borrell will be booked on a charge of malicious mischief and her case given a hearing Monday in Felony court.

Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the behavior clinic of the Criminal court, who was present when Mrs. Borrell's statement was taken, said he would keep her under observation. Mrs. Borrell, whose husband, John, is a WPA worker, was arrested early Thursday after firemen had extinguished the eighth fire in eighteen months in the building.

Cuban Soldiers Nip Plot to Kill "High Officer"

SANTIAGO, Cuba, March 6.—(AP)—Army officers said today they had frustrated an attempt to kill "a high army officer" whose name they withheld. Six occupants of a stolen taxicab fired on an auto filled with soldiers yesterday. The soldiers returned the fire. There were no casualties on either side. The six attackers escaped. Authorities said the attackers had been on their way to assassinate the "high officer."

Judge Frees Motorman on Negligence Charge

Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court yesterday nol prossed a charge of gross negligence against Frank Wagner, 2112 Pershing road. Wagner was the motorman of a street car that crashed into a taxicab at 35th street and South Park way on Jan. 13, fatally injuring John Johnson, colored, 406 East 51st street, a passenger in the cab.

Empress of Japan Is 33; Spends Day with Family

TOKIO, March 6.—(AP)—Happily surrounded by her growing family, the Empress Nagako reached the age of 33 today. Because the empire was still in mourning for the victims of assassins in last week's military insurrection, all formal observance of the anniversary was canceled. She spent the day quietly with her five children.

DOUG FAIRBANKS AND LADY ASHLEY WILL WED TODAY

Request to Waive Law of France Granted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 4.—Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and Lady Ashley will be married at noon tomorrow. The American actor succeeded in hurdling the last obstacle to the marriage today when he and his attorney, Mlle. Susanne Blum, secretary to Joseph Paul-Boncour, French cabinet minister, persuaded the state's attorney to waive French marriage regulations.

A special permit was issued which will enable the couple to be married without the 30 day residence period and 11 day publication of banns ordinarily required by French law.

Delayed by Birth Certificate.

Permission came only after Lady Ashley had obtained from London by plane her birth certificate and documents relating to her divorce from Lord Ashley in 1934. This delayed the procedure until after the city hall had closed, resulting in postponement of the marriage until tomorrow.

Fairbanks had been trying to get his marriage permit practically ever since his arrival here from the United States last week. He appealed to the United States consulate as well as to various French officials but was unable to obtain results until today.

Explains Haste.

The actor explained his haste is due to a desire to take Lady Ashley with him as his wife on an immediate trip to China to make a motion picture dealing with the adventure of Marco Polo.

Fairbanks was divorced by Mary Pickford in January, 1935, on grounds of mental cruelty and neglect. The decree became absolute in January, 1936. His bride-to-be, a former musical comedy actress who was Sylvia Hawkes before her marriage to Lord Ashley, was divorced from the nobleman in November, 1934. Fairbanks was named as co-respondent in the suit and was assessed the costs, estimated at $10,000.

REVEALS MURDER PROBE BY POLICE ENRAGED DOCTOR

British Official Tells of Ruxton's "Outburst."

MANCHESTER, England, March 6.—(AP)—A violent outburst by Dr. Buck Ruxton about police investigation of his affairs, even before he was suspected of killing two women and three weeks before he was arrested, was described by a police inspector today at the physician's trial for murder.

Detective Inspector John Moffatt of the Lancashire constabulary testified that Ruxton—accused of murdering his wife and nursemaid and dismembering their bodies—was "very excited" at the Lancaster police station Sept. 24, 1935.

Resents Police Inquiry.

"Look here, what do the police want inquiring about my private affairs?" Ruxton was quoted as saying when he entered the police station where Moffatt was investigating the mystery death of another woman.

"Come across and search my house; interview the whole lot of us," Ruxton was said to have urged Moffatt. "I can help the paperhangers scrape the paper from the walls of my house without you interfering."

The prosecution alleged that this purported statement by Ruxton was made before the authorities were aware of the identities of the dismembered bodies found in a secluded Scottish ravine called the "Devil's Beef-tub."

Recalls Doctor's Threat.

Later the authorities charged they were those of the East Indian doctor's wife, Mrs. Isabella Ruxton, and their nursemaid, Mary Jane Rogerson.

Miss Rogerson's stepmother testified the physician told her that "sometimes I've felt as if I could choke them both." She said Ruxton accused the nursemaid of aiding his wife to deceive him.

Ruxton was quoted by the husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Curwen, a charwoman employed in the physician's home, as saying "the police will be saying I've done murder" when Curwen found him scraping a recess in the wall in Ruxton's yard.

Describe Scene of Slaying.

DORCHESTER, N. B., March 6.—(AP)—Photographs of a snowdrift, stained for "about six feet around" by the blood of Mrs. Marshall Ring, were entered as exhibits today at the murder trial of Arthur Bannister, 19 years old.

The pictures were submitted by two Royal Canadian mounted police constables, who described the scene when they arrived last Jan. 7 at Pacific Junction, where Philip Lake had been shot and left to die in his flaming cabin.

The body of Mrs. Ring, known to neighbors as Bertha Lake, was found outside the home where she apparently had been struck over the head as she fled with her 21 month old son. The youngster's body, frozen, was found near that of the mother.

Searched Cabin Ruins.

The witnesses, Constable A. J. Ewing and Sergt. B. G. Peters, also told of searching the cabin ruins for the body of Lake's younger child, 6 month old Betty, later found at the home of Bannister's mother, charged with kidnaping the child in order to blackmail two male admirers.

Two settlers from the Pacific Junction district testified they met a man identified as Arthur Bannister going toward the lake cabin with a rifle under his arm the afternoon of his slaying.

A hunting knife, which 15 year old Frances Bannister said belonged to her brother, Daniel, 20, also charged with murder, was admitted as evidence.

These exhibits indicated, asserted Crown Attorney P. J. Hughes, that the Bannister brothers had gone armed to the lake home with their sister to abduct the baby so their mother could show a child to the men as her own. Mrs. May Bannister, the mother, will go on trial after the murder cases against her son are disposed of in court.

WARSAW POLICE JAIL 60 MEN FOR PLOTTING TO TERRORIZE JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, March 6.—The police of Warsaw today raided homes of leaders of nationalist youth organizations and arrested sixty men on charges of plotting terrorist acts against Jews in the capital and elsewhere. Bombs and other weapons were confiscated.

The police also arrested six students of Warsaw university for participating in Wednesday's anti-Jewish riots. Twelve students, nine of whom are Jews, were seriously wounded in the fighting. Police officers used their clubs to disperse 300 students who attempted to meet today to discuss future action against Jews. The speaker was arrested.

Stench bombs were thrown into the cashier's office of Warsaw polytechnic by student pickets who are trying to prevent the payment of tuition fees. Demands of students that these should be reduced have been rejected.

The district court sentenced three Jewish soldiers to four years in prison for organizing a communist group in the 36th infantry regiment stationed near Warsaw.

Survey to Determine Cost of Wilmette Harbor Plan

Capt. S. N. Karrick, acting district engineer for the war department in Chicago, announced yesterday that his office will survey the cost of enlarging Wilmette harbor, a project advanced by Chicago and north shore organizations at a hearing here last November. The survey will be made for the rivers and harbors committee of the federal house of representatives, which is considering appropriations for the project. Capt. Karrick said the plans call for a 30 acre harbor, compared with the present one of 5 acres.

DISBAND TROOPS IN PORTO RICO AS REVOLT IS NIPPED

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 6.—(AP)—The Porto Rican national guard was demobilized today after being held in emergency for 24 hours after a drive against nationalists, asserted to have been seeking to overthrow the United States government by force.

Authorities expressed belief the danger of disorders was over, following upon the arrest of seven nationalists yesterday and the seizure of documents, a loaded rifle, and a bomb.

An honor tribunal was formed of five police captains to investigate the deaths of two youths who assassinated Col. E. Francis Riggs, chief of insular police, Feb. 23. The assassins were shot to death by police. The grand jury also is investigating their slayings.

YOUNG THIEF TO BRIDEWELL.

William Bloom, 18 years old, of St. Louis, was sentenced to the Bridewell for 60 days on a petty larceny charge yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court. Bloom was caught stealing 37 neckties from a loop store.

POLES LIFT BAN ON M. E. SOCIETY; CALL IT "ERROR"

WARSAW, March 6. — (AP) — The Polish government today lifted a suspension on the American Methodist society in this country, acknowledging the ban was applied through a "misunderstanding."

The society, supported by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of the United States, was suspended last month after Polish authorities had gone over the organization's books and said they found "certain irregularities," such as transfer of funds to America without "sufficient explanation."

A school and mission in Warsaw and an orphanage outside the city were affected by the order.

THE SENATE BLACK SHIRTS.

Technically Senator Hugo L. Black of the senate lobby committee was not on all fours with Ananias when in accusing THE TRIBUNE of falsification he said senate resolutions 165 and 184 did not specifically mention the political opponents of Mr. Roosevelt. These resolutions authorize or purport to authorize the activities of the senators who to intimidate the critics and opponents of the New Deal have torn their way through the article of the bill of rights which says that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, papers, and effects from unreasonable search and seizure shall not be violated. The Black Shirts are violating the right as it never has been violated before.

Technically Mr. Black's statement regarding the resolution was accurate. The organizations the senators are after were specifically named not in the resolutions but in the questionnaire he sent out under the authority of the resolutions. If the senator wishes the public to believe that his lobby committee has not specifically announced the victims of its dragooning, his intent is to deceive. The essential point is whether the senate for political reasons is attacking certain organizations known to be opposing the reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt. The answer is Yes. The proof is in the questionnaire of which question No. 2 is as follows:

"Please give an itemized statement of all sums contributed since Jan. 1, 1934, to the Crusaders, the Crusaders National Organization, Inc., American Liberty League, Sentinels of the Republic, New York State Economic Council, American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc., American Taxpayers' League, and all other organizations of like or similar character, or to any person or organization for the benefit of any of the aforementioned organizations. In giving this statement please show each amount contributed, the date of each such contribution, and the purpose for which made in each instance."

There are a number of "pleases" scattered through the questionnaire, the glove over the iron fist. The tone is peremptory, an acknowledgment is requested, and it is asked that the answers be given under oath. The resolutions are general, the use of their authority specific. The senators called their shots. They said they were after such and such men, all of them against Mr. Roosevelt. Among lobbies and political organizations not mentioned was the Ku Klux Klan. Why doesn't Mr. Black include that organization? Probably because it elected him in Alabama and he knows too much about it.

Mr. Black and his associates selected and named the persons to be attacked with intent to intimidate. The questionnaire, although insolent and charged with malevolence, was only the beginning. The seizure of telegrams by committee subpena and through the Federal Communications commission followed—a wholesale raid on private effects and papers, outrageously unreasonable search and seizure, violating constitutional rights.

Mr. Black's utterances are in keeping with his acts. In his assault on the floor of the senate upon Mr. Roosevelt's political opponents he was angry enough to say that if he had any idea a federal judge would issue an injunction against the senate to prevent unreasonable search and seizure of a citizen's papers he would long ago have introduced a bill to take that jurisdiction away from the court.

When a man in the position of United States senator so far loses his head as to say that he would stop the courts from enforcing the bill of rights he has served warning on the entire country that every protection of American citizenship is in danger of being destroyed in this administration of Roosevelt. What more impressive admonition could any American require? The bill of rights is the guaranty to the people of this country that they cannot be visited by Brown Shirts, that they cannot be secretly arrested and thrown into jail or herded into concentration camps, that they cannot be persecuted by government officials. In other words, so long as the bill of rights stands they can't be fed castor oil or have their teeth knocked down their throats by a dictator's ruffians. We know countries in which these things are happening now.

Senator Black's committee has already committed outrages which before Roosevelt would have been impossible. The sock 'em senators are continuing to commit these outrages. They have no respect for the constitutional immunities and privileges of the citizens and they have released numbers of federal agents to interfere with men in their homes and offices, to carry away their effects, and to put them under threat of the most serious injuries, all to keep them from publicly opposing the policies of men who seek to ruin them.

Senator Black speaks of efforts to defeat legislation as if it had become treason in the United States to object to any bill, even if it proposed to destroy the savings, the investments, and the property of people who have worked and saved under the laws of the United States to provide for themselves and guard against the future. Senator Black and his associates speak and act as if they thought every person in the United States who has a stake in what happens to the country is a scoundrel and a villain who should be disfranchised. Such a person has no right to raise his voice against a bill in congress or to seek the protection of the courts when evil minded legislators and administrations try to ruin him.

These dictatorial autocrats have so blown themselves up with the authority they have seized and misused that they do not care if they convict themselves out of their own mouths. They have set up a government which does not want to recognize the rights of the citizens or the jurisdiction of the courts. They have increased their own powers without any regard for the limitations put upon them, and in spite of repeated checks by the Supreme court they proceed defiantly to carry out their own will. If the people of the United States tolerate much more of this they won't have a shred of their independence left. They have been commanded to be servile and obey.

These autocrats can be brought to book. They haven't yet locked the doors of the courts and they haven't yet been able to call off the elections and extinguish the franchise. The people have time to realize that the New Deal is an exhibition of lawless power, speeding up its machinery every day. It thinks it has only one more river to cross, the election in November, and then it will be on high ground and securely fortified. No one needs to listen to the opponents of the New Deal for a description of purposes. Listen to Mr. Black. No courts. No interference with legislation.

No, the political opponents of the New Deal were not specified in the authorizing resolutions. They were named in the questionnaire with which Mr. Black's committee went after their victims. What does Mr. Black make of that distinction? Neither do we.

FLOODS.

The expected floods have followed the first thaws and, as usual, the sob-sisters have been crying that something must be done to relieve the innocent victims of nature's savagery. There will be more floods this spring, accompanied by more such appeals for charity.

The sob-sisters neglect to say that the so-called innocent victims are, for the most part, prosperous farmers owning the fattest land in the United States. They deliberately chose the bottom lands because of their high fertility and correspondingly high yields. These farmers knew all about the flood danger when they acquired their holdings and actually counted upon an occasional inundation to maintain the fertility of the land. To regard such men as innocent victims of an unpredictable misfortune is to talk nonsense.

The bottom land farmers should make their own preparations to meet the danger. Most of them do so by moving their families and as much of their property as can be moved to places of safety before the floods begin. A few are shiftless and wait to be rescued out of the treetops. Very little sympathy and money need be wasted upon them. They took a risk in the expectation of profit and did it with their eyes open. As they intend to keep the extra profits which come from bottom land farms they expect to pay the price.

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR GOVERNOR.

Politicians and their organizations have a great deal to do with the making of nominations and the election of public officials. They can swing votes one way or another, but in theory and often in fact the decision is beyond them. They influence it. They do not dictate it.

The assumption of our form of government is that the common run of voters are persons of good will and common sense. Against the special interests of the professional politician they put the general interest of the public. They cannot be expected to come to perfect judgment, but when the office is an important one they can arrive at rough justice. They needn't be led around by the politicians. They can size up the situation for themselves.

A case in point is presented by the Republican primaries for the nomination of a candidate for governor. The idea that the Democrats can be beaten this year has brought out a number of candidates. Some are good, some indifferent, and at least one is definitly bad. The New Deal will not be a pushover in this state. It has too much money and too many jobs to be blown away with a puff. Therefore the Republican ticket to win must be good. A poor state ticket will be a drag on the national ticket. It could mean the defeat of the national ticket in this state.

The Republican politicians are striving for their personal interests. That is their business. Some of them mean well, but they see their own stake. The decision is with the Republican voters. They have a common interest, not particular ones. They can size up the candidates and get behind the man they think best qualified for a successful campaign and a good administration. It is wholly for their own good that they should do so.

Editorial of the Day

JUST A PUBLICITY STUNT?

[Illinois State Journal.]

Frank Wallace, who says he is the husband of Mae West, has induced a New York court to entertain a suit enjoining the actress from denying that she is his wife. He makes the first page with the story, which objective Mae West declares to be his only purpose.

Wallace's attorney says it is unfair to his client for Mae West to deny their marriage and that he is compelled to bring the suit in order to "scotch all these rumors and have the court adjudicate his and her marital status." Wallace says he wants to avoid "unpleasantness and embarrassment" and he declares that he still has "the warmest esteem and admiration" for the actress.

Since Wallace is seeking no pecuniary recompense for Mae West's repudiation of his claim, it is difficult to understand why a court would concern itself in this controversy. The public certainly has no interest in whether the performers are man and wife.

It looks very much as if a credulous Gotham jurist has fallen for the publicity promotion of some press agent connected with the cinema. The same observation goes for the gullible press.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

CARELESS DRIVERS ought to be furnished with little booklets called "The Choo-Choo Trains." The book should have a picture at the beginning of a railroad locomotive compared to a small touring car. The weight of the engine should be given and the weight of the automobile. Then there should be a picture of an auto trying to push a railroad locomotive off the track with the caption "It Can't Be Done!" The fact that the rails have been put down with spikes and that the track has been there quite a number of years and will remain a good many years longer should also be clearly stated, because motorists who have crossed the same railroad tracks a couple of dozen times seem to have the idea that, although the track was there a day or two before, when they crossed it last, it has been pulled up and moved in the interval. The momentum of a passenger or freight train should be stated, and it ought to be clearly brought out that it is much easier to stop the forward movement of an automobile than of a train. Also it should be explained that when the gates guarding a crossing are closed the autos should wait until they are opened before proceeding on their way. "If Gates Are Closed You Must Wait Until They Are opened" should be printed on stickers and pasted on the windshield of automobiles. So many autoists fail to understand that when the gates are down it means a train is coming. Or if no gates then the red lights at a crossing or the funny man waving a red flag means that freight or a cannon ball train is on the way. So many automobilists think the red lights are just ornamental and that the funny looking man with a red flag is waving it just for amusement or for exercise. A few words of explanation regarding the railroads, engines, trains, and so on would surprise a great many motorists even though they didn't remember it more than fifteen minutes afterwards.

EPILOGUE.

(Christopher Sly, a ragged tinker and confirmed drinker, lives only in Shakespeare's induction to "The Taming of the Shrew." Discovered in the last stages of oblivion, he has been conveyed to a rich man's estate, wrapped in finery, revived, and persuaded that he owns all that he sees. He has fallen asleep during the ensuing play, and Shakespeare has mentioned no more about him.)

LORD: The simple tinker sleeps; why, so be it.
　And let it be that when he doth awaken
　He shall not be as an estated lord,
　Privileged to all the sports and caprices
　That countenance a wealthy man's existence,
　But once again the drunkard that we found him,
　Back in his former and ignoble state.
　Deepen his slumber in some weary drug,
　Tear the rich raiment from his worthless back,
　Clothe him again in his unwholesome rags,
　And lay him, like a cur that hath been whipped,
　Upon the street where all who pass may see him.

PAGE: He hath been good sport, my lord.

LORD: True, but the villain sleeps away his fortune.
　That I might be there when his languid eyes
　Tremble to opening upon the fragments
　Clinging to him for dress, and he himself
　Close brother to the filthy road! for then
　The comedy would commence. He will regale
　The sun by day, the moon and stars by night,
　Pinch himself raw, thinking it all a dream,
　Pour out his story in what patient ears
　May lend themselves to raving lunatics,
　And calumnize the town for laughing at him.

PAGE: Of all that ever slept in golden times,
　And failed, in sleeping, to make fast their fortunes,
　This sham Apollo in Hyperion's dress
　Is neither last nor first.

LORD: What is the hour?

SERVANT: The new day hath seen three.

PAGE: My lord, we so admired the comedy,
　Except this knave, who snored from the first act,
　I fear much time hath slipped away unheeded.

PLAYER: Liked you the play, sir?

LORD: Fellow, the plays could not but like us all;
　That one, and this that labors to its finish;
　But now the night grows old, and Merriment
　That put aside the pleadings of sweet Sleep,
　Hath hurried off with her engenderers;
　And unrestrained, Sleep grows importunate.
　Then let me echo brave Petruchio's words,
　"God give you good-night!" there'll be no hunt tomorrow,
　Save Sly's, for his too fleeting affluence.

CHARLES W. NORRIS.

GOOD-BY, KING HAILE SELASSIE! you've gone and done it. Your cake is dough. Your race is run. Your house is falling around your ears. You've appealed for help to the League of Nations. You're sunk, Mr. Selassie, so far as this world goes. Only heaven can save you now!

MR. MUSSOLINI is what we would call in the American language "one lucky stiff!" Just when his countrymen are getting mighty fed up on the war and the rainy season is about to begin in Ethiopia he has scattered enough troopers here and there in the sands of the desert to claim a big slice of King Haile's empire if peace negotiations take place. King Haile will hang on to what territory he can, but if Mussolini doesn't get the royal palace for a garage and King Haile's shirt and his best and tightest pair of Sunday pants I'll miss my guess. And very likely a handful of Selassie's whiskers.

"GERMANY FORBIDS Four Editors to Continue Work."—Headline. Which must give the New Deal a pain in the neck. Over in Germany the party in power doesn't have to bother about imposing a censorship—they just round up the editors whose newspapers have printed things they didn't like and say, "All right, boys, you're not doing any more editing. Maybe you can get a job down on the docks." But it isn't like that over here in the U. S. A.—yet.　R. H. L.

PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS.

We are in an era of prevention because we have found that in the long run it is cheaper. We attempt to avoid floods by building dikes and planting forests. It is far simpler to immunize against diphtheria so that the patient cannot contract the disease than it is to try to save his life once he has fallen a victim to this dreadful malady. We have means of vaccinating not only against smallpox, but scarlet fever and whooping cough as well. Furthermore, we endeavor to ward off deafness by careful attention to colds and ear infections, and blindness through proper remedial measures applied early in life.

There is a world-wide movement in which laymen as well as physicians are looking toward the development of preparedness against blindness. The American Society for the Prevention of Blindness is part of an international organization and there are subsidiary societies in most of our states. While nearly every one is interested in the elimination of blindness, yet it is necessary for a particular individual or group in every community to assume leadership. The reason is not far to seek. Public information must be disseminated first about eye diseases that are preventable and, second, systematized methods planned to stop their ravages.

Most states have passed laws which compel physicians and midwives to drop into the eyes of newborn babes a dilute solution of silver that will completely destroy infection if present. If inflammation of the eyes occurs it is known as ophthalmia neonatorum. It is a serious disease and all too frequently blindness follows unless the silver solution is used promptly.

Trachoma, another contagious disease, sometimes results in blindness, but more often it brings about so great a loss of vision that the afflicted person is unable to carry on ordinary work. It is preventable by proper hygiene, and a recognized survey is under way to detect cases in the early stages, insure proper treatment, and thus prevent its spread to others.

There are certain hotbeds of trachoma in this country, such as the mountains of Tennessee, the southern part of Illinois, and some of the Indian reservations. Public clinics have been opened for treatment, and nurses have been sent into the smaller communities to ferret out early cases.

Eyesight saving goes much further than detection and treatment of disease. There are many school children with vision so defective that they cannot complete lessons assigned. Until the true situation is known they may be thought to be apathetic, lacking in intelligence, or indifferent. Correction of vision has transformed many an apparently dull boy into a class leader. In certain instances the effort to carry on study in dark schoolrooms has had a deleterious effect on the vision of the pupils. Many such cases have been discovered through the routine medical examination of school children.

There are some children who have what is known as a juvenile form of cataract. This prevents light from reaching the retina of the eye, but fortunately these cataracts can be removed, usually with good enough vision resulting to allow children to attend sight-saving classes or even regular schools.

Recent work on the part of the American Society for the Prevention of Blindness has been directed toward the treatment of syphilis in the prospective mother, so that blindness from this cause will not occur in the child. Expectant mothers should have blood tests made in the first months of pregnancy.

Fifty per cent or more of all blindness can be prevented. Much depends, however, upon the coöperation of parents and the recognition of the fact that blindness is one of the most serious handicaps that can afflict any one.

HEART BLOCK.

G. C. A. writes:
1. What is heart block?
2. Does heart block cause the heart to skip beats?
3. I have pains over heart, in the heart, and to the right of the heart every day. Does this signify that the heart isn't receiving sufficient rest?
4. Does anemia complicate a heart condition? The color tests 70 per cent.

REPLY.

1. Heart block is a stopping of the beat impulses from the upper to the lower chambers of the heart. Impulses normally originate in the upper chambers and are carried into the lower chambers of the heart over special nerve tissue. In heart block this function is delayed or interrupted.
2. Yes. However, by far the most frequent cause of extra beats is excessive irritability of the heart muscle. This condition is of no significance as practically all individuals over 45 years of age may experience it.
3. It is impossible to say. The pain you describe is probably not associated with heart disease.
4. Not necessarily.

From your description I doubt if you have heart block. However, your own physician can advise you far better than I can, because of his more intimate knowledge of your case.

SPINAL ANESTHESIA.

L. T. writes: Could you tell me about spinal anesthesia—the extent to which it is used and how successfully?

REPLY.

Stovaine is the substance now most generally utilized for spinal analgesia. In suitable cases it may be employed for operations below the umbilicus when a general anesthetic is not desirable. As a routine method of inducing anesthesia it has few if any advantages over the ordinary plan. It is not always certain, the injection is not always painless, and the after-effects are sometimes unpleasant. It is useful when heart, lung, or kidney disease is advanced, or when diabetes in aggravated form is present. It should not be used when the blood pressure is low.

DIABETES AND EYES.

L. M. writes: Through the daily use of insulin I manage to keep fit despite a diabetic condition. However, I am bothered with itchiness and watering of the eyes, which become red and burning when rubbed. Is there any connection between diabetes and this eye trouble?

REPLY.

Your difficulty is probably a mild infection [conjunctivitis]. If the condition does not clear up promptly your physician can advise you what to do. It is true, however, that diabetes predisposes to certain types of eye trouble. Your description fits none of these.

From Across the Sea

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—A new military star has risen on the European horizon—this time on the east. It is Marshal Michael Tukachevski, generalissimo of the huge soviet Russian army and the youngest marshal in the world.

Tukachevski recently passed through Paris on his way back from the funeral of King George of Great Britain. His presence here served the French press as pretext for columns of sensational descriptions of the "Red Napoleon"—an epithet suggested by his small stature and his reputed genius.

How much of the Tukachevski legend is based on fact and how much on soviet propaganda is difficult to tell, but the story of his rise from the rank of lieutenant in the late czar's imperial guard to marshal and leader of the soviet army is in itself an epic.

Though he commands the world's only proletarian army, Tukachevski is himself an aristocrat. In 1914 he left the Czar Paul Military school—an institution reserved for the nobility and aristocracy—and went to war. Even among his aristocratic fellow cadets he was known as proud and disdainful.

As an obscure lieutenant he is said to have fought bravely and in 1917 was captured by the Germans along with an entire army corps. The story goes that he tried four times to escape and as punishment was jailed in the fortress of Ingolstadt; that even so his spirit was not broken but that, when the prison commander ordered all officers' shoulder straps torn off, Tukachevski fought back until beaten insensible. He was sent to a still tougher military prison, but managed finally to escape.

One of his fellow prisoners was the writer, Pierre Fervacque. Not only describing him as physically resembling Napoleon, Fervacque also declares that even in those somber days in the garb of a prisoner the young Russian showed promise of becoming an extraordinary person. He was ambitious, loved his country, was a fanatical apostle of imperialism, and had only contempt for democracies.

Fervacque says of Tukachevski that he considers bolshevism as an excellent rejuvenating remedy for his country, serving admirably its imperialistic ambitions. Tukachevski is an "old Russian" of the sort that always looked down on the pre-war capital, St. Petersburg, as an upstart "occidental" town and favored removing the seat of government to Moscow.

He has a curious and sinister side to his character which makes him resemble Stalin. Like Stalin, he symbolizes the new bolshevist nationalism which is replacing Lenin's Marxism.

Fervacque quotes Tukachevski as saying one day in their German prison camp:

"The Jews? It is they who introduced Christianity in the world. That alone is enough to justify the hatred I bear them. As for their being socialists—socialism is merely a ramification of Christianity. What we need is a despot, a real barbarian, an oriental. . . ."

His words and many of his acts mark him as a neo-barbarian of a thoroughly unoccidental stripe.

When Tukachevski managed at last to escape and reached Leningrad he was astounded and disgusted with the anarchy and found in the weak liberal Kerensky government new support for his imperialistic principles. He decided to join the hard, ruthless bolshevist movement. The Red army needed men of Tukachevski's experience and ability. War Commissar Leon Trotzky reluctantly overlooked Tukachevski's aristocratic origins and gave him a job.

In 1918 the young officer had climbed to the command of the first Red army fighting the Czechs along the Volga front. His superior was the bolshevik Gen. Muraviov. Tukachevski, it is said, learned that Muraviov was planning to betray the cause and took it upon himself to have his superior officer shot.

That and other incidents gave Trotzky more confidence in his aristocratic young general and Tukachevski was increasingly intrusted with important commands and straightened out every mess he was sent to untangle, according to accounts.

Tukachevski is said to be descended from Count Henri of Mons, a son of the count of Flanders. Count Henri went off to the Crusades but failed to return for some reason. Instead he went to what is now the Ukraine. A few generations later the family was granted the town of Tukachevsk, near Chernigov, as its domain and it took the name Tukachevski.

DIVIDING ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am an equal heir with one other person in a small estate of shares and bonds. 1. When is the estate divided—before or after the final hearing? 2. Can the administrator divide as he wishes as long as the total of each share is of equal value, or must the heirs be satisfied? 3. When do the heirs sign the administrator's release—after the final hearing or after the estate is divided? 4. Is the dividing of the estate left to the lawyer of the estate after the administrator has been released? A. R.

1. It might be done either way.
2. Obviously the shares must be of equal value. It is not clear what additional question you intend to raise.
3. They are not obliged to sign until they receive their money, but it is not an uncommon practice to ask the heirs to sign receipts in advance, where the parties are on good terms.
4. If you are asking as to the technical course for parties dealing at arm's length, we would say that the administrator should file in court a proposed accounting and distribution giving the heirs opportunity to object. In absence of objections he would distribute in accordance with this accounting.

PROPERTY SALE.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a woman is sent to an insane asylum, has her [1] administrator the right [2] to sell her personal property?　E. J. E.

1. The word administrator is not properly used where there has been no death. We assume that you mean a conservator.
2. Not on the bare facts stated; but if such a sale has been held, it seems probable that facts are involved which could at least be claimed to justify the sale. We cannot advise as to advantage without knowing the surrounding facts.

RAILWAY PENSIONS.

Chicago, March 4.—It is very evident that Railroad Employé who wrote to you in opposition to the pension act is an official, drawing a huge salary which accompanies an official position, for no member of the rank and file is receiving such handsome wages as to warant his being taxed $10.50 a month. He would like to create the impression that the railway retirement act is crazy, unjust, and what not. Perhaps it is for overpaid, underworked officials. But for the younger men in the engine service, like myself, it will be a blessing. For, as the older heads are pensioned, each succeeding year will bring added security to me and to countless others in the form of more runs and more switch engines that we will be able to hold, whereas, at present, I am constantly in fear of being cut off again. All during 1932, and a good portion of 1933 and 1934, I was entirely off the board. Incidentally, I feel safe in the assumption that Railroad Employé has never been cut off, that he does not even know what it means to be deprived of his bread and butter. And then he has the audacity to term the railway retirement act "crazy." On the contrary the exact opposite is true, for it's a sound piece of sane legislation.　AN ENGINEMAN.

A CLAIM AGAINST THE CITY.

Chicago, March 4.—I own a substantial real estate property on the near north side near Wabash avenue on which I have paid taxes for a great many years. Quite a few of us property owners brought suit for damages against the city because of the erection of the Wabash avenue bridge and the long viaduct approach running north to Grand avenue, whereby many streets and alleys were changed in grade from 1 foot to 9 feet, seriously damaging the value of the real estate. My case and a great many others have been awaiting trial in the courts for five or six years.

Only one attorney out of fifty in the corporation counsel's office is assigned to these cases; he continues the cases every time they are ready for trial. My lawyer simply cannot get to trial. The property owner is again the goat.　TAXPAYER.

SMOKE.

Winnetka, Ill., March 2.—THE TRIBUNE has advocated so sincerely the change to eastern time that it would now be consistent with this enthusiastic advocacy to put the same amount of effort into backing a program to see that the people get the good out of the sunlight. The ultraviolet ray, that part of sunlight necessary to health, does not, I understand, penetrate smoky air. It seems a consistent step for those interested in providing sunlight for the people, both for the purpose of health and visibility, to proceed now to the cleaning of Chicago's air through which the light must filter. This would complete the program for both health and safety.

MRS. T. E. RYAN.

THEY COST A DOLLAR.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 28.—There has been much said recently about certain individuals throwing silver dollars across this river or that. Who is furnishing the dollars? I'd like to know, so I may obtain some. I'd like to try throwing one across old Mud creek when on my vacation this summer down to Punkin Center.　W. T. McDEVITT.

GEN. HAGOOD AND THE JAPANESE.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—In view of what is transpiring in Japan, the wisdom of Gen. Craig's action in removing Gen. Hagood from an important command will not be overlooked, for certainly in the eternal conflict between pacifism and militarism nothing can equal in importance the keeping of the military forces completely out of the political arena in strictly American fashion.

Were our generals allowed to impregnate the personnel of their commands with their political opinions and attempt to mold public opinion besides, the unarmed statesmen now shedding crocodile tears over the Hagood episode would sooner or later regret having abolished the laissez faire tradition of the United States army, which in all times has stood by, neutral, awaiting orders from a commander in chief elected by the people.

Everything said about Gen. Hagood's excellent service during the trying days of 1918 on the western front is admitted. The work of Harbord and Hagood will never be half appreciated by the American people. But those who had the opportunity of watching the daily evolution of the A. E. F. will agree that remarkable changes for the better came about when these two generals took command of the S. O. S. Yet no one can consistently argue that any military achievement is sufficient reason for abolishing the unwritten rule of keeping the army out of politics.　L. A. MERILLAT.

KANSAS PRODUCTS.

Rockford, Ill., March 1.—The state of Kansas produced Carrie Nation, dry era bigotry, duststorms, anti-cigaret laws, sockless Jerry Simpson, the Populist party and freak laws of every kind imaginable.

And now Gov. Landon for President, the man who will run the U. S. A. as he runs Kansas, same as in the days of John Brown; all modern things are just dude's ideas. And you print every word of his speeches and expect your metropolitan readers to live under the management of Landon. Has not the city of Chicago suffered enough from laws passed by the rural members of our legislature without wanting us under the yoke of men like Senator Capper and Landon?　ROBT. C. LANE.

FROM THE WINNER.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—As first prize winner in the recent A. B. C. of the movies contest conducted by your paper, I wish to take this opportunity to thank THE TRIBUNE and to show my appreciation.

I have received many letters of congratulations from all over the United States, many of which doubt the fairness of this contest. I had no so-called drags or pulls, and was as surprised as any one could be. I was certainly one happy person to win that $1,000.

The current time card of the Chicago and North Western railroad shows seventeen trains per day between Evanston and Chicago that make the run in nineteen minutes or less.　COMMUTER.

PLAN TO REVIVE PROCESS TAXES STUNS FARMERS

Upsets Conferees on New AAA Conservation Setup

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Word from Washington that processing taxes may be collected on live stock, grain, and other farm products to aid in paying the cost of the New Deal's $500,000,000 soil conservation and domestic allotment act threw a monkey wrench yesterday into the machinery being set up here this week for administration of the new legislation in the central west.

The news was a surprise to several of the 40 dirt farmers attending the regional conference at the Stevens hotel where a program is being developed for administering the program to substitute for the invalidated Agricultural Adjustment act.

The suggestion made in Washington Thursday by Chester C. Davis, former administrator of the late AAA, that farmers be called upon to pay a big portion of the soil conservation program costs was not a surprise to the great army of government men at the meeting, nor to a few farmers who had heard rumors over the grape vine system several days ago.

300,000 Protest Proposals.

The most serious opposition to the tax apparently is coming from live stock and dairy farmers. Live stock interests already have registered their protest.

A telegram was sent to President Roosevelt by Charles A. Ewing, president of the National Live Stock Marketing association on behalf of its 300,000 farmer members vigorously protesting the processing tax. The telegram said:

"We understand it is proposed to tax all classes of live stock to finance the soil conservation and production regulation act, estimated to cost $500,000,000 a year. No special benefits to live stock to be expected from this act. Not the legislation stockmen need or want. We want legislation opening outlets into foreign markets. This we believe can be given. We earnestly protest the levying of any tax on any class of live stock or its products for financing the crop regulation plan, believing it of no especial or permanent help to our industry."

Conference to Close Today.

The conference opened on Thursday with more than 300 persons registered—government officials and technicians, agricultural college and organization representatives, and dirt farmers. It will adjourn today.

This morning Secretary Wallace is expected to arrive to receive recommendations for the central west to aid Washington officials in drawing up their national soil conservation law.

W. F. Callander, assistant AAA administrator, said that his office would begin next week to mail out the first of the final checks due to farmers under their contracts signed with the government before the act was killed by the Supreme court on Jan. 6, 1936.

Approximately $215,000,000 still is due farmers. All of this money is to be in the hands of these AAA contract signers within three months. Some of the money will be used to pay farmers on wheat contracts signed in connection with the fall sown crop.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item yesterday concerning funeral services for Clarence Herbert Woods, who died Wednesday, gave his last name erroneously as Wood. The story also stated that Mr. Woods worked 17 years for C. H. Knights & Co., a jewelry concern. Mr. Woods worked for C. H. Knights & Co. for 30 years and 17 years ago became associated with C. & E. Marshall company, 1445 West Jackson boulevard. He was vice president and technical adviser of the latter firm at the time of his death. The name of Mr. Woods' daughter, Mrs. Martha Teggelaar, who survives, was erroneously spelled Peggelaar. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. today in St. Paul's Union church, 9354 Winchester avenue, with burial in Mount Greenwood cemetery.

The citizenship forum of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs will be held in the Hotel Sherman on next Tuesday instead of on Monday, as reported yesterday. The session will begin at 10 o'clock.

LADY ASTOR ONCE MORE HAS LAST WORD IN A SPAT

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Lady Astor, the American born peeress, was told to her face in the house of commons today by A. P. Herbert, new member of parliament for Oxford, that he thought "a regular course of narcotics would be extremely good for the noble lady and would make her less restive."

Lady Astor, who had roused Herbert's ire during a debate on a liquor licensing bill by referring to him as "the playboy of the drink world," had the last word, as usual.

She answered: "The noble lady will be restive in this house long after the honorable gent."

ARREST SHERIF AND PROSECUTOR ON KIDNAP STORY

Warants Sworn Out by Organizer of Idle.

Oregon, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—Ogle county's sherif and state's attorney today were under arrest, charged with kidnaping as a result, they said, of their efforts to protect a Rochelle, Ill., man from enemies he claimed had threatened to kill him.

The two, Sherif Delos Blanchard and State's Attorney S. Donald Crowell, were arrested by Coroner J. C. Akins on warants sworn out by Al Musselman, 35, head of an unemployment league of Rochelle and a participant in an asparagus cutters' strike last year.

Musselman declared the two officials had removed him forcibly from his home in Rochelle Sunday, Feb. 23, and had driven him to Beloit, Wis., leaving him there.

The two officials said that Musselman told Sherif Blanchard, Feb. 19, that he feared enemies would try to kill him and that he asked the sherif that he be appointed a special deputy and be permitted to carry a gun. Blanchard refused to do so, he said today, because he believed such a move unnecessary.

They said they then offered to let him stay in the Ogle county jail if he wished protection but were told by Musselman that he wanted to get out of the Rochelle and the county.

Accordingly, they said, they agreed to get him away and drove him to Beloit, Wis., that night. At Beloit, they said they gave him $15 when he told them he had no money.

Musselman appeared in Rochelle again Monday morning and 5 days later, Feb. 28, swore out the kidnaping warants. They were served last night on Blanchard and today on Crowell.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Winter vs. Spring.

MARCH 6, 1936.

THIS is a sort of "in-between" season for the boys on The Tribune Experimental farms, with Old Man Winter still battling Kid Spring for control of the countryside.

There still is snow on the ground, so the boys can use sleds in their work instead of wagons. I noticed the other day at the Wheaton farm that they were using a sled to haul fertilizer to the fields, and "stone boats" or sleds for hauling logs to the little sawmill on the farm. These "boats" are really flatbed sleds which get over the ground very well. They slide easily on soft earth and also on frozen sod.

◆

Spring's main argument for victory during the last week has been the release of swans and geese from their winter quarters. The geese are out for good, and the swans have been coming out during the day and going back into their house at night. Then, too, the boys have been seeing more of the permanent bird residents on the place, all of which have become more active since mild weather arrived. In the last few days they have observed cardinals and a number of starlings around the place.

◆

The new addition to the sheep barn at the Wheaton farm is now completed. Rawlings was putting in the last windows and doors at the south end of the barn the other day. This additional shelter will be fully utilized when the lambs come within a few weeks.

◆

The value of feeding the game birds during the winter has been proved by the fact that the boys now are seeing plenty of pheasants all over the farm. The birds are in evidence near the ponds, in the east woods, and near the Rawlings and Henderson homes. Men on the farm still are distributing the feed for the birds, although it won't be long until they will be able to discontinue this work.

◆

The boys on the Yorkville farm are laughing at the behavior of seven pigs on the farm. These porkies have been staying in a horse stall behind Charlie Sleezer's house on the Yorkville farm. Then the boys decided to put them in with others in the hoghouse. The seven pigs accepted the change with hardly a protesting grunt, but that night one of the boys noticed that the newcomers to the hoghouse were not sleeping with the rest of the pigs. They had assumed a "high hat" attitude and were parked outside of the partitions of the hoghouse so they didn't have to associate with the rest of the pigs.

◆

Pat, the big gray horse on the Yorkville farm, has turned acrobat. The other day he decided that he would like to have some oats. Though there were none in his feed bag or in the manger. The oat bin is in front of his manger, so Pat just put his front feet into his manger and tried to stretch his neck out far enough to get some oats. He didn't make it.

◆

The first sheep casualty of the season on the Yorkville farm occured early this week when two lambs were born dead. These two were of a set of triplets. This is the second set of triplets born at Yorkville this season. The first trio being strong and healthy.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Week in Books Sets a Record for Brilliance

Rebecca West, Gen. Harbord Among Authors.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Thinking Reed," by Rebecca West. [Viking, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

"The American Army in France," by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord. [Little-Brown, $5.] Published yesterday.

"Why Keep Them Alive?" by Paul de Kruif. [Harcourt-Brace, $3.] Published on Thursday.

"Russian Somersault," by Igor Schwezoff. [Harper's, $3.50.] Published on Thursday.

"Studies in the Psychology of Sex," by Havelock Ellis. [Random, 4 vols., $15.] Published on Tuesday.

"The House in Paris," by Elizabeth Bowen. [Knopf, $2.50.] Published on Monday. March choice of the Book of the Month club.

SUCH a distinguished group of books as those listed above, published this week, has rarely been offered readers in one season. They are not the one swallow that doesn't but the six swallows that DO make a spring. It is a pity that exigencies of space make me review them briefly rather than with a fullness slightly commensurate with the excitement which reading them gave me.

Rebecca West's "The Thinking Reed" ranks with "Europa" and "The Last Puritan" as the most intellectually exciting novels of the last year. What "The Thinking Reed" is about is of so much less importance than is Rebecca West's sure, sharp scalpel of observation and the beautiful lush prose in which she sets down those surgeon-like dissections of human action that I shall say no more about its plot than that it concerns a marriage not for love that turns into love in marriage.

And I shall say no more about its background than that it shifts from the Paris of vast wealth to the golden play spots of the Riviera, le Touquet, St. Moritz. Miss West's satiric pictures of that background and the creatures who infest it are the cruelest, the most brilliant, the bitterest of many a day . . . and the most amusing!

Brilliant Attack on English Ladies.

The scathing deftness with which she flays the great English ladies, the skill with which she makes Toots look like and act like all of the unbearable young English snobs any one has ever encountered is a masterpiece. It is lucky for American readers that she chose unbearable English instead of unbearable Americans to dissect . . . or perhaps it isn't, for there are plenty of us as bad in our way as the Lauristons in theirs and it might be a good purge [even if emetic] to have Miss West's superb "white light" [which, as you remember, Francis Bacon said was "ever the best"] turned upon us.

Rebecca West is so brilliant an observer and so gifted a writer that sometimes "The Thinking Reed" seems more like an inspired essay than like a novel [as did "The Last Puritan"]. And yet that first essential of a good novel—suspense, eagerness to know what is going to happen next—is never absent even from its most tranquil, or its most bitter, or its most lush pages.

It is seven years since Rebecca West's last novel—seven lean ones preceding one of plenty [reversing the biblical sequence].

Gen. Harbord's Book Worth Waiting for.

If "The Thinking Reed" was worth waiting seven years for, Gen. Harbord's was worth waiting seventeen for! "The American Army in France" is the sort of book that all of the memoirs of the A. E. F. might have been and that—sadly—many of them were not. It is a record as interesting to the man who wasn't as to the one who was there—as well as to the woman who stayed truly at home—that is, whose interests were solely for her own warring males and who therefore never really had any idea what the war was about.

It is not a record of one group but of the entire American expeditionary force, not an apologia, as some of the generals' memories have been, but a long eyed view of the entire scene.

One of the most memorable few pages in it are those which describe the increasing nervousness of the staf as it waited day after day, week after week for the army to arrive for which they had made the elaborate preparations which so cheered their allies. . . . for it points so vividly the complete unpreparedness of the United States to go to war and the ostrich dumbness of the good-intentioned souls who believed that a great army could spring up overnight like a crop of mushrooms after a warm rain.

The real reason why Gen. Harbord's book is so interesting is, of course, that its author has in writing what, in speaking, we call "the gift of gab."

Paul de Kruif Claims Poverty Is Death Dealer.

Almost uncannily does Paul de Kruif have the gift of gab in his writing—and he writes exactly as if he were talking to you, expletives, pauses, questions, and all. Paul de Kruif we all know as author of those exciting books about scientific researches, "Microbe Hunters," "Men Against Death," and "Hunger Fighters."

Some of us also know him as the young doctor-laboratory man who helped Sinclair Lewis with his scientific facts in "Arrowsmith." Dr. de Kruif has always been stirred passionately by something, and, therefore, able to stir his readers.

In "Why Keep Them Alive?" his social conscience is stirred, rather than his scientific one, and he demands in no uncertain terms why children should be kept alive to be undernourished, to be victims of dread diseases, to die horrible deaths when there is abundance of nourishment available in the world, when the most dread of diseases are preventable by proper food, regimentation, and medical examination, and horrible death unnecessary.

Poverty, he says, is the great death dealer, for science has already put into the hands of those able to buy it the means of longer, healthier, happier physical life.

But no amount of social excitement can conquer his zest over an important and exciting scientific discovery and many of the parts of the book devoted to such records will stir the blood of the reader.

And to prove his point that children can live Dr. de Kruif tells the amazing story of the Dionne quintuplets [with many details that most of us either missed or were never told before]. They have no right to be alive; no babies like them ever lived before.

Writes Exciting Story of His Days in Russia.

How the author of "Russian Somersault" ever kept alive is a mystery clouded rather than explained in his vivid pages, which tell of the childhood of a Russian boy in a wealthy bourgeois family [his father was a general in the imperial Russian army], that boy's youth in the revolution, his young manhood in soviet Russia, and his escape from Russia in 1930.

Igor Schwezoff is a ballet dancer and there is, naturally, a great deal about the ballet in his autobiography, but what makes "Russian Somersault" memorable is not the picture of ballet life, but the attitude of the author toward his fate . . . a typically Russian one of acceptance and of gayety in spite of terror or hunger, which must have been the attitude of the millions or life could not have gone on for them.

The book is naïve and honest and without one whiff of the sentimental . . . that is, there is no emotionalizing of the author's emotions, or even of that urge so much more passionate, so much more elemental than love or hate or resentment or patriotism or ambition—hunger.

Declares Publication of Ellis' Work Is Benefaction.

The publication this week in four volumes, with new prefaces by Havelock Ellis, of his monumental work, "Studies in the Psychology of Sex," formerly available only in an expensive and limited edition, is one of the publishing benefactions of our day.

Mr. Ellis' "Studies" are a classic in their field of scientific research and have long been consulted by students and honored by Mr. Ellis' few peers. They are, of course, books of scientific reference.

"The House in Paris" Story of Two Children.

Among all of these really weighty and impressive volumes Elizabeth Bowen's "The House in Paris" seems somewhat fragile . . . but it has something sturdy about its delicacy. It is the story of the accidental meeting in a house in Paris of two children, one a little English girl spending the day between her journey from England and her train trip to her grandmother on the Riviera, the other a little boy half English, half French, who has been sent to Paris to meet his mother.

The two children are startlingly lifelike and startlingly acute . . . they both discover before the day is over that the little boy has no proper mother and father and the reader is told, in a long middle section of the book, the pitiful and sordid story of the little boy's parents, his father once the betrothed of the nervous, sad little French woman with whom the children are spending the day, his mother now married to a man with a sort of missionary passion to take the boy from his foster parents in Italy, fearful of what that move might mean to her.

Miss Bowen succeeds in creating "atmosphere" [a rather macabre one] and she writes with a fine sensitiveness.

Noted Novelists Offer New Books

REBECCA WEST.

ELIZABETH BOWEN.

HANS FALLADA.

Three highly praised novelists offer new books this week: Rebecca West a brilliant and searching novel of marriage in "The Thinking Reed"; Elizabeth Bowen a delicate sketch of the accidental meeting of two children and the romantic background of one of them in "The House in Paris," and Hans Fallada, author of "Little Man, What Now?", "Once We Had a Child," which, he declares, his "favorite and finest book."

Iceland Claims Attention of British Public

Two Books About Country on Spring List.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—It looks as if Iceland were going to be the new rage in England; for timorous people are already thinking of going to live there, away from all danger of aerial bombs, while English publishers are discovering a modern Icelandic literature and having it translated into their own tongue.

Two important novels make their appearance this month, and others are to follow. There is "The Morning of Life," by K. Gudmundsson [Heinemann], and there is "Salka Valka,"* by Halldor Laxness [Allen & Unwin], the latter of which has been chosen as its book of the month by the London Evening Standard.

I have not seen the former, but "Salka Valka" is a most primitive and vigorous piece of work about a modern young woman who grows from girlhood in a small town by the edge of the fjord, becomes a boat owner, falls in love with a communist, and finally lives alone in the bleak town of her adoption.

⁂

In this book all depends upon the force and strangeness of the author's picture of a harsh way of life, and while translation always heightens crudity in an original enough power remains in "Salka Valka" to make it seem authentic and alive.

⁂

A time will come when every man of any distinction in the British Isles has written and published his autobiography. What embarrassing richness for the future historian of the present day! I surmise that one of the most entertaining of all contemporary autobiographies will be that self portrait which is to be painted by Sir Charles Holmes under the title "Self and Partners" [Constable].

Sir Charles has long been known as an outstanding landscape painter. He had very distinguished terms, first as director of the National Portrait gallery and then as director of the National gallery [the biggest job of its kind to be had in England].

⁂

He has written several books, of which "The Science of Picture Making" is that which best showed his ability as an expositor. And, conversationally, he is a wit of the blandest type. This last trait is the one which leads me to expect a good autobiography from him; because he has had an extraordinarily wide experience of men of all ranks and kinds.

Authors Declare Many Overpay on Income Taxes

"Your Income Tax" [Simon & Schuster, $1], by Hugh Satterlee and I. Herman Sher, has been designed for those whose incomes are beyond the tax exemption limit, and yet not large enough to warant the preparation of a tax report by a lawyer, accountant, or tax expert. It is the authors' contention that many people overpay on their taxes largely through ignorance of allowable deductions. They have provided a simple, nontechnical explanation of how to prepare one's tax return quickly and accurately.

James Weber Linn, author of "This Was Life," will talk before the Chicago Library club on "Books Important to Me" at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the Chicago Woman's club.

Two Great Mutinies of British Navy Are Subject of New Book

Readers of "The Mutiny on the Bounty" will be interested in knowing that that spectacular revolt was a tiny row compared with two great mutinies in the British navy which took place in 1797 while England was at war with France.

"The Floating Republic," by G. E. Manwaring and Bonamy Dobree [Harcourt-Brace, $3], tells of these dramatic happenings, which resulted eventually in definite improvements in English naval life.

The book is a well written account of an event of great historical importance and is a piece of careful and scholarly research.

IN many ways in the past year Mark Twain's centenary has been celebrated. The Book-of-the-Month Club has felt that there was no more fitting way to honor him than to reproduce in a single volume his best-loved works. This book was distributed, free, among its members as a book-dividend. For a short period it will be offered to new members, to demonstrate only one of the many advantages of obtaining some of the books you buy through the Book-of-the-Month Club.

What we here propose is this: mail the inquiry coupon, and a copy of THE FAMILY MARK TWAIN will immediately be put aside in your name, and held until we hear whether or not you care to join. In the meantime, a booklet will at once be sent to you outlining how the Club operates.

No Compulsion to Buy Any Book

Study this booklet at your leisure. You may be surprised, for instance, to learn that belonging to the Club does not mean you have to pay any fixed sum each year. Nor does it mean that you are obliged to take one book every month, twelve a year (you may take as few as four). Nor are you ever obliged to take the specific book-of-the-month selected by the judges. You have complete freedom of choice at all times. More than 125,000 families—composed of discerning but busy readers like yourself—now obtain most of their new books through the Book-of-the-Month Club. What are the advantages that induce them to do so?

Books You May Have Missed

The principal one is that you really obtain and read the new books you promise yourself to read. Time and again (is it not true?) you miss notable new books through pure procrastination. Have you, for instance, as yet read The Last Puritan, by George Santayana; or Life With Father, by Clarence Day; or Old Jules, by Mari Sandoz; or The Seven Pillars of Wisdom, by T. E. Lawrence; or With Napoleon in Russia, by General de Caulaincourt; or Paths of Glory, by Humphrey Cobb — to mention only a few outstanding books which were distributed widely by the Book-of-the-Month Club in the past year. Over the past few years there have undoubtedly been dozens of new books which you were very anxious to read at the time, but which you would confess sadly you simply never "got around to."

This would never happen if you belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. Without a cent of expense, you would be kept advised every month, through the most careful book-reporting service that has ever been organized, about all the important new books published; and the Club's unique system effectually insures you against missing the ones you wish to read.

One Book Free for Every Two Bought

In addition, there are very marked material advantages in belonging to the Club. Records over the past years show that for every two books its members purchased, on the average they received one book free. Book-dividends alone—of which THE FAMILY MARK TWAIN is an example—amounted to more than $1,250,000 worth last year.

If you are interested, simply mail the coupon below, and a free copy of THE FAMILY MARK TWAIN will be reserved in your name, pending your reading of the booklet we shall send you.

HINES TRUSTEES MAY BE ORDERED TO PAY $212,292

Judge Finds Errors in Handling Fund.

Judge George Fred Rush of the Circuit court indicated yesterday he would rule that three trustees of the $10,000,000 trust established in 1914 by the late Edward Hines, lumber magnate, must turn over $212,292 from the fund to a sister, two nieces and a nephew of Hines. The judge said that while he believed the trustees had acted in good faith, they had "erroneously administered" the fund.

A suit asking an accounting and appointment of a receiver for the trust was filed in April, 1934, and has been on hearing before Judge Rush for several months. The suit was brought on behalf of Mr. Hines' sister, Mrs. Agnes Hines Burns, 17 East Division street, and three children of a second sister, Mrs. Rose Hines Purcell, who is dead. The three children are Ted Edward Purcell, Catherine Purcell and Mrs. Loretta Purcell Hackett.

Widow and Sons Defendants.

The defendant trustees are the lumberman's widow, Mrs. Loretta A. Hines, and his two sons, Ralph and Charles.

The provision of the trust on which the suit is based concerns the establishment of a second trust when earnings of the original fund reached $500,000. This trust was to be divided into five parts. Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Purcell, whose share was inherited by her children, were to get one-fifth each.

Trust in Hines Stock.

In 1921, the suit alleged, the trustees informed Mrs. Burns that the $500,000 trust had been established with 5,000 shares of stock in the Edward Hines Lumber company.

The complainants charged that between 1921 and 1933 the trustees diverted to the widow, her two sons, and a daughter, Mrs. Loretta Howard, cash and property valued at $6,603,047. The complainants further alleged that the 5,000 shares of stock forming the 1921 trust was not worth $500,000.

Judge Rush said the trustees failed to carry out the provisions of the trust, and that he would sign a formal order next Friday giving effect to his findings.

FIGHT MENINGITIS IN KENTUCKY; 30 DEAD; 110 CASES

Harlan, Ky., March 6.—(AP)—Harlan county authorities, accustomed to fighting outbreaks of bullets and dynamite in labor and election disputes, joined hands with the state today in combating death-dealing disease germs.

Spreading insidiously from the eastern mountain section, an epidemic of spinal meningitis has taken a toll of 30 lives in outlying sections of the county.

"Alarming," Dr. W. P. Caudill, state epidemiologist, said late today after a survey. He estimated the number of cases in the county as between 110 and 120, mostly children.

Authorities have accepted state health board recommendations to close theaters and restrict public gatherings throughout the county pending a further survey. Children are barred from stores.

THREE BALLOT JUDGES GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

Three men who served as election judges in the Fifth precinct of Chicago Heights during that city's election of April 16, 1935, were found guilty of contempt of court yesterday by County Judge Jarecki on charges growing out of ballot frauds. Judge Jarecki deferred sentence until Monday.

The defendants are Steve Burns, 75 years old, a Republican judge, and Frank J. Kirgis, 32 years old, and James E. Sheehan, 29 years old, Democratic judges, all living in Chicago Heights.

Judge Jarecki held that the three men failed to explain satisfactorily a discrepancy of 86 votes in the totals of two candidates for city commissioner. The discrepancy was discovered in a recount.

JUVENILE HOME ADDITION DRIVE MAY BE REVIVED

Crowding Is Disclosed by Escape Attempt.

Crowded conditions in the Juvenile Detention home at Roosevelt road and Ogden avenue, which were brought to public notice last week by the attempt of six young inmates to escape from the institution, may result in the renewal of a campaign for a $200,000 appropriation by the county board for the building of an addition to the home.

The attempted break, which was foiled before the youths reached the outer doors, resulted in an investigation of conditions at the institution.

Since its erection in 1923, the juvenile home has been a center of controversy, with a continuous history of escapes and attempted escapes, of mass quarantines because of lack of space for segregation, and of periodic investigations by citizens' committees, some of which have termed the home a "breeding place for crime" and have described conditions there as "appalling."

Children Kept for Study.

The home is not a penal institution. It is a place of detention for wards of the Juvenile court pending observation, treatment, and social welfare study of these youthful dependents, delinquents, and problem cases. It cares for boys from 2 years old to 17 years old and girls from 2 years old to 18 years old. After a period of study the children may be committed to some institution or may be returned to private homes.

Investigators who visited the home yesterday were greeted by Dr. Albert G. Barry, who was appointed superintendent in February, 1930. Dr. Barry has urged erection of the addition. Another group favors the decentralization of such social work. Dr. Barry's recommendation for the new wing was turned down by the county board last April.

Home at Maximum Capacity.

He explained that the home is, and has been, operating at maximum capacity, with an average daily registration of approximately 270 children. The home can accommodate 300, he said, if the percentage of those entering with contagious diseases, or suspected of having disease, is not large.

During a tour of the building a visit was made to the quarantine ward, where last week's attempted escape began. In this room, which is scarcely large enough to hold the required number of beds, about 30 boys are segregated as possible diphtheria carriers.

The single room comprises their entire world. They were lounging around the room, under the supervision of a guard, some playing cards, others reading. Such activities are the extent of their recreation.

Dr. Barry described as "woefully inadequate" the provisions in the women's quarters for the segregation of delinquent girls, some of whom are afflicted with social diseases. He said the segregation is of necessity makeshift because of the lack of space.

Winter Closes Play Spots.

Large gravel surfaced playgrounds behind the home have been unavailable because of the severe winter, he explained, and there are no facilities for play except the institution's basement. This was temporarily converted into a gymnasium, but had to be remade into a dormitory to accommodate 51 beds in an effort to prevent the detention of boys in police stations.

"A new building," said Dr. Barry, "would lessen the health hazards for all. It would provide better facilities for observation and fact-finding by the staf, by juvenile officers, and by the Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research. Its educational and recreational facilities would so influence the lives of 8,000 children per year as to more than justify its cost."

DYCHE'S $30,000 ESTATE LEFT TO THREE CHILDREN

The will of William A. Dyche, former business manager of Northwestern university, who died on Feb. 18, was filed yesterday in Probate court. Mr. Dyche left $20,000 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate to his two sons, George F. Dyche and David B. Dyche, and his daughter, Mrs. Ruth Dyche Falcon.

The will of Charles Lewis Day, retired official of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, was also filed. His estate of $110,000 was left to his son and daughter, Lewis Day and Mrs. Dorothy Day Pierce.

News of the Radio Stations

Robustious Wally Beery talked about radio yesterday in his dressing room at the Chicago theater while awaiting the call for his appearance on the stage. Beery is making a guest appearance with George Olsen and Ethel Shutta on their Celebrity night broadcast on NBC at 10:30 tonight. He didn't know yesterday afternoon what he would do, but it seems the folks planning the broadcast have prepared a little sketch in which Miss Shutta manifests Hollywood aspirations and Beery reveals the difficulties that will beset her.

Beery is to be back some time in the spring as the master of ceremonies of that Saturday night revue that precedes the Olsen-Shutta program now in the hands of Al Jolson.

◆

"I like radio a lot," Beery volunteered. "I prefer a program where there is a studio audience. It helps to make the proceedings natural."

Asked whether performers sometimes are not liable to play to the visible audience and forget the unseen listeners, Beery said that he doubted that. Beery is proud of his record on the CBS Radio Theater. He has appeared in it three times—once in "Lightnin'" and twice in "The Old Soak." No one else has been on this program more than twice.

This presentation does not permit audiences, but then it doesn't matter, Beery explained, because it's drama and there is no need of participation on the part of the audience as in an informal variety and comedy program

Wayne King's Sunday evening sponsored program, heard heretofore over CBS, is to be moved to W-G-N and the Mutual network beginning April 26. Sponsor will use stations in Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Philadelphia in addition to the basic MBS net. King's music will be aired Sundays from 6:30 to 7 p. m.

◆

Kay Kyser and his orchestra were engaged yesterday to open at the Trianon and over W-G-N on Saturday, March 28. Kay made a hit here last year at the Blackhawk. With him will be Art Wright, tenor, Ginny Sims, soprano, and other soloists. . . . Dick Barrie, first trumpeter, is leaving Kyser to form an orchestra of his own which wil open at the Jefferson hotel in St. Louis April 9.

◆

Recently a small boy wrote in objecting to Peggy Dell's singing about four leaf shamrocks on Jack Hylton's programs. I asked Miss Dell to clarify this and she explained that there were four leaf shamrocks though, like purple cows, they were so rare that she had never seen one. Publication of this information prompted Mrs. Josephine Picerno, 935 North Trumbull avenue, to send to this desk a four leaf shamrock which she has preserved for 35 years with the request that it be given to Miss Dell.

Peggy, a real Irish lass, called for it yesterday and is she tickled! It means good luck for her. Miss Dell revealed yesterday that she is a pianist and directed an orchestra of her own in Ireland several years ago. Then she joined Paramount in London and finally joined the Hylton crew as a singer.

Kate Smith will begin competing with Maj. Bowes Sunday, March 15, at 8 p. m. on CBS, the hour the Bowes amateurs are on NBC. As guest talent she will present Dick Powell, Anne Jamison, Block & Sully, Eva LeGallienne, the Goldbergs, Doc Rockwell, Bob Burns, and music by Harry Horlick, Jack Miller, and Raymond Paige. Kate will not be heard every Sunday but at frequent intervals.

Adoree Neville, Stunt Flyer, Dies of Pneumonia at Reno

Reno, Nev., March 6.—[Special.]—Adoree Neville, stunt flyer, died of pneumonia here last night. She was queen of the nation-wide air tour made in 1932 to promote interest in the Olympic games. She was divorced from David W. Pentz of Los Angeles.

Marquess of Lansdowne Dies in London at Age of 64

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—The marquess of Lansdowne, 64, died last night at his home in London. The marquess was the 27th baron of Kerry and Lixnaw, a title created in 1181.

MRS. MARY KISER IS GIVEN DIVORCE, $6,000 ALIMONY

Mrs. Mary Peirce Kiser, a member of Chicago and New York society, was granted a divorce here yesterday from John W. Kiser of New York on a charge of desertion. The decree was granted by Judge Rudolph Desort in Superior court.

The couple were married in Chicago on April 4, 1918. Mrs. Kiser, who now resides at 111 East Chicago avenue, alleged that her husband left her at Southampton, N. Y., on Feb. 1, 1935. She was awarded the custody of two sons, John, 16 years old, and Peirce, 13 years old, and alimony of $6,000 annually.

Mrs. Kiser is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Beauchamp Peirce. Mr. Kiser is the son of the late John W. Kiser Sr., who died in 1916, leaving several million dollars gained in the manufacture of automobiles.

JOSEPH JACKSON DIES; NOTED AS GRAIN ANALYST

Joseph F. Jackson, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade since 1908 and a widely known grain analyst, died suddenly yesterday in his home at 4300 Lake Shore drive.

F. J. MATCHETT, RETIRED POLICE CAPTAIN, DEAD

CAPT. F. J. MATCHETT.

Former Police Captain Francis J. Matchett, a member of the police department for 43 years until his retirement under the compulsory pension law last Jan. 1, died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 1246 Arthur avenue. He was 65 years old.

Born in Russell, Lake county, Capt. Matchett joined the Chicago police force in 1893. He was made a sergeant in 1908. In 1916 he was named a lieutenant and in 1925 he became a captain. At the time of his retirement he was in command of the West North avenue station. Several times during the last ten years he was head of the trafic division and became known as an expert on trafic control.

Veteran members of the force recalled that in his early days as a policeman Capt. Matchett was a member of the "beauty squad," so-called because its members were chosen for their neat appearance. Their duties consisted chiefly of escorting visiting dignitaries about the city.

A year ago Capt. Matchett suffered a heart attack, but had apparently recovered at the time of his retirement. Death was attributed to a recurrence of the ailment.

Capt. Matchett is survived by his widow, Honora; two brothers, and four sisters.

MARCH 12 LAST DAY TO PROLONG LIFE FOR BRUNO

Trenton, N. J., March 6.—(AP)—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman's investigators, spurred on by his announcement he has only until March 12 to sign a second reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, intensified their search today for new evidence in the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying.

At the same time, Hauptmann's counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher, said the defense had several courses in view should nothing develop before next Thursday to make a reprieve likely. The governor has said that "as matters stand now" there will be no new reprieve.

Hauptmann is under sentence to die the week of March 30.

Fisher would not disclose what action the defense would take to save Hauptmann from death, but recently he said everything was "building to a new appearance before the Court of Pardons."

Coit-Chandler Wedding Takes Place Today

Only Immediate Relatives to Be Present.

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY at 12:30 o'clock Mrs. Eleanor Babcock Coit and Buckingham Chandler will be married at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Hobart P. Young of 708 Prospect avenue, Winnetka. The Rev. Samuel Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church will read the service in the presence of the immediate families including the bride's three daughters, Elizabeth, Eleanor, and Celia; her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Babcock of Lafayette, Ind.; Mrs. Young, and the bridegroom's daughter, Miss Charlotte Chandler, who is arriving this morning from New Orleans where she has been spending the winter with her mother, Mrs. Smith Chandler.

George Calkins will be Mr. Chandler's best man and will be the only one not of the immediate families who will witness the ceremony. Mrs. Young is giving a wedding breakfast for her brother and his bride who will sail next Saturday from New York for a two months' cruise to South America. Upon their return they will be at home in Mr. Chandler's house at 9 Indian Hill road, Winnetka.

Wedding Couple Friends for Years.

The bride, widow of A. Merrill Coit, who died in 1930, was married last June in Rome to Thomas R. Ludlam of New York, from whom she was divorced last Saturday in Minden, Nev. Mr. Chandler and his first wife were divorced recently. Mrs. Coit's father, the late Dr. Robert Hall Babcock, was one of Chicago's best known physicians—the blind heart specialist. She and Mr. Chandler have been friends all their lives.

Mrs. Coit and her daughters have spent little time in Chicago since Mr. Coit's death, but they returned home two years ago for the two older daughers to make their debuts. The family spent the latter half of last summer and the early winter at Mrs. Coit's country home at Green Lake, Wis., and came to Winnetka to spend the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Young. Miss Eleanor has remained with her; Miss Betty is a student at Purdue university, with which her uncle is associated, and Celia, the sub-deb of the family, is a student at the University School for Girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler plan to use her country place as a summer home.

Tavern Club Will Repeat "Annual Meeting."

The Tavern club held its annual meeting and every one had such a good time and was so enthusiastic about the German food and beer that was served that the members decided it was too bad that there couldn't be a second annual meeting. Why not? asked some. Why not, indeed, answered the wives who had heard much about the meeting, have another one, they said, but invite us.

So there will be a mixed smoker on Tuesday, March 17, with the same sort of buffet dinner, barrel of beer, and German band.

The only difference will be that there will be no business to attend to, for the officers were elected at the first meeting. William C. Boyden still is president—he probably will remain at the head of the Tavern as long as he will accept the responsibility, for he is such a capable and popular executive—and John A. Holabird, John R. Winterbotham Jr., and Joseph T. Ryerson are the vice presi-

"Dear Uncle Lon,

"I thought I would see you or send you a picture of myself in my cowboy shaps, but I wanted to have my dog's picture with me and ginger was killed by an automobile I cried so did mother then I got another dog I named him Happy he got hit too we had to have him killed. So I couldn't have my dogs picture with me. Now I have a tooth out and a bee bee shot over my eye so I have to wait until I look better.

"Now I have another new dog I call him Shep he is so big I can put a bumper on him so he won't get hit. THE honeymoon glamor probably was beginning to wear off. The bride asked her husband to repair a table leg in their kitchenette apartment. He agreed willingly, then added that he guessed he couldn't because it would need tacks and glue.

"Well, did you expect to use a magic wand?" she inquired.

MORE about the Vicksburg Daily Citizen of July 2, 1862:

"One of my late grandfather's few civil war souvenirs includes a copy of said paper. I have no reason to doubt the authenticity of this paper, since he took it from the presses as he and his company entered Vicksburg. It is most assuredly not a reproduction, since it has been in the family since the date of its removal from the press.

"WILLIAM J. PHILIPPS."

IN CASE you don't see the University of Chicago "Tower Topics," you might like to know about the sixty ton sperm whale that Dr. E. M. K. Geiling, head of the department of pharmacology, will operate on next summer in search of its pituitary gland. The whale will be shot by a harpoon from a gun mounted on the forward deck of an America Pacific Whaling company boat about five hundred miles west of Vancouver Island.

"When the cables and winches have rolled the whale into position on the 'operating table' Dr. Geiling will perform the first operation—which will be on the head of the mammal. He will not be interested in the forty-five barrels of oil that later will be taken from this head. Hidden beneath six inches of solid bone and a few feet of blubber will be a small organ about the size of a California Lambert cherry—the pituitary gland.

"Substituting hip boots and a rubber apron for the usual immaculate white uniform, using an ax for his scalpel and a crosscut saw for the bone forcep he will remove this gland, which, in company with some thirty similar glands, will be brought back to his laboratory on the fifth floor of the Physiology building for scientific study."

A STEAK one foot thick cut from this whale would weigh a ton, and his heart about four hundred pounds, the article continues. The aorta will be large enough for a man to crawl through, and Howard Mort says that if you are interested in the scientific aspects of the Jonah Old Testament story, the answer is, yes, it is possible. "A man could get past the epiglottis of a whale, after which he would find himself in a four room apartment [a whale has four stomachs], but without benefit of outside exposure."

Eby's Sketches of War Placed on View Here

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An impressive exhibit of drawings and prints by Kerr Eby entitled "The Tragedy of War" opened yesterday in the Ackermann galleries, 408 South Michigan avenue. Kerr Eby went through the world war with the engineers in the camouflage service and covered most of the ground.

As the war progressed he made notes of the things which were happening repeatedly around him day after day and night after night. There was very little of grandeur left after the realism of war had passed by.

The notes Kerr Eby made in sketch form grew later into drawings. One magnificently large drawing is the most impressive recital of a regiment on the march that any war artist has offered. In it is the stir that fires the imagination when the bugle is heard, and the tramp of feet lifting and falling in unison echoes through a town. This is the triumphant beginning. The progress and the end are another story.

Pain, terror, horror, sordidness, death, the other side of the mirror, in fact, is the theme of the rest of Mr. Eby's drawings. He is a magnificent draftsman and his lines are thrown in with passion and precision.

The characters in his episodes come alive [even when they are dead] and the simple recording which the artist set out to make takes on the dignity of great theater. Tragedy walks with folded wings and sunken head. War is shown in its dark dreadfulness, a Gethsemane unlit by hope.

New York was powerfully impressed by this exhibit; Chicago will inevitably follow suit. Kerr Eby is working for peace in his portrayal of war. No thinking person seeing "The Last Supper" or "Mama's Boy" or "Refugees" could find it in his heart to wish for a recurrence of such sad horrors. "The Hunt No More" is one of the most brilliant of the drawings and those who like horses will find it one of the most ghastly.

The exhibition will continue to March 25.

In the Davis store Eighth Floor gallery is a one man show of paintings by Ruth Van Sickel Ford. Mrs. Ford's work is well known. She enjoys the modern manner of presenting her subject and in consequence a vast restlessness is felt in both landscape and figure compositions. They are vigorously painted. One feels a dominant personality in every stroke.

The exhibition will close March 14.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I want to warn you! You won't find the opening scenes of "The Milky Way" particularly funny. But don't let that discourage you. Stick around. Just—stick—around . . . ! When it really gets under way it has the Chaplin movie beat a mile. [I think.]

Summed up, the piece is just delightful nonsense, presented in refreshing fashion by a corps of born comedians.

The hero is a mild and none too bright young milkman—with a genius for ducking blows. He explains oft and again—or tries to—how he had been a puny baby who had grown up into a weak little boy whom big boys had picked on. Not being able to win fights by blows he had learned to duck—and so—and so—

One day, after protecting his sister from a couple of heavy set, inebriated mashers, Burleigh finds himself a hero with his name all over the front pages of the dailies. He is said to have knocked out Speed McFarland, world's middleweight champion.

Upon recovering from the shock of this untoward event, the champ's manager attaches himself to Burleigh, who, for a long time is carried through a series of framed fights that at last make him the challenger. And now the villain, in the form of a sleeping potion which is not poured down Burleigh's throat, gurgles into the action. . . .

That's just a synopsis of the story and gives you positively no idea of the ingratiating buildup of droll and unexpected situation, action, and dialog.

Watch for the episodes featuring Burleigh and Agnes, the faithful milk wagon horse, to which he is devoted; Burleigh and Agnes' little daughter who is crazy about Burleigh; Verree Teasdale training Burleigh in footwork to strains of music from her own unaccustomed throat after one "Spider" has given up in despair; Burleigh showing the high and mighty Mrs. Winthrop Le Moyne how to duck—and Mrs. Le Moyne's highly successful essays at that art on her own. . . .

Here are unanticipated incidents that you will remember as oases of laughter in your movie going careers.

Harold Lloyd is the same clever specialist in clean fun that he's always been. Everybody in the supporting cast is a humdinger. The action—but there, why repeat myself! Just read the first paragraph over again!

See you tomorrow.

Spider Rancher Is Newest Job in Film World

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 6.—[Special.]—The movies have been responsible for a number of unusual professions, but not until today did your observer ever meet a black widow spider "rancher." This gentleman is S. W. Allman. His "ranch" is a shed, full of bottles and boxes, where he feeds, raises, and treats twenty black widow spiders besides managing cages of snakes as a side line.

Allman rented ten of his twenty black widows to Radio-RKO studio for shots in the current Bill Powell-Jean Arthur thriller, "The Ex-Mrs. Bradford," which formerly was titled "From 1 to 6."

Allman brought the spiders to the studio in tin cans marked "Nobody Touch This Can—Black Widow Spiders." And nobody but Allman touched any of the cans.

He gets most of the spiders looking around the woodwork in abandoned mine shafts. His place is in the foothills of the Hollywood mountains, above the mountainside end of Gower street.

Alice Faye and Michael Whalen, who are with Shirley Temple in "Poor Little Rich Girl," took a night off from work to slum along Main street in downtown Los Angeles. Eating in one of the "full meal for 18 cents" type of restaurants which abound on that thoroughfare of burlesque theaters and rescue missions, Alice and Michael found themselves in the midst of a jolly party of sailors enjoying shore leave from the American fleet at San Pedro.

Alice obliged by autographing everything in the place, from gravy specked menus to hatbands and cigaret packages, while she and Mike were kept busy retorting to the gobs' flip cracks.

Finally a somewhat inebriated patron of the restaurant reached for Alice and jostled her hat. Before Whalen got a chance to push the man away fifteen sailors had the astonished fellow off his feet and in the air at arm's length above their heads. They ran him to the curb, and the next thing he knew he was sailing through space to the middle of the street. The sailors never stopped to see if the ambulance picked him up in one piece or several.

Thornton Wilder and Somerset Maugham have temporarily joined the writers' colony here, neither, however, with film studio contracts; they are merely looking on at the big show.

A New Sailor Gives You Lift of a Lifetime

Expert Picks a Winner in Spring Hat Race.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Usually just once in a season of new hats there is one model that becomes the much worn pet of everybody's wardrobe. A hat that shades an eyeline flatteringly, a hat that makes you look smart, young, fresh, and crisp on the days you don't feel any too enthusiastic about anything. This spring such a jaunty bit of headgear already is going to town. It is being worn with the first of the [illegible] cut, smartly tailored suits. The rush started a few days ago when a cruising shopper plopped one of these winning lids down over her curls and found the reflection in the mirror so surprisingly swanky that both straw and felt numbers were gleefully added to an already overflowing hat collection.

The brim slopes down all the way around, the crown is shallow and curbed to follow the general down list of the brim, a simple grosgrain band and bow encircle the crown and that's all there is to it.

But when we tell you the name of the hat is midshipman you'll know the rest. This sailor hat is just as rakish and swagger as the name implies. Trim, dashing, and even though you wear it straight across the brow it still spells typical sailor swank and swagger.

Midshipman has been designed and launched by a world famous hatter, maker of fine sports hats for years and years. The designer rates a chestful of medals for this model.

You'll find this hat in every imaginable shade of felt and in spring straws, including a nice biscuit tan and American beauty red as well as navy and black. If you've avoided sports hats in all kinds and colors for years because they have been so tryingly ordinary and rather dull as to headline try this new affair and get the lift of a lifetime.

Special Squad

By Courtney Ryley Cooper

SYNOPSIS.

Inspector Sandy Ross of the department of justice and Special Agent Buck Wasey travel by motor from Reno to Vinton City in search of information on Sociable Joe Willis, suspected of assisting in armored car robberies. A collision of two cars on a mountain road brings Jane Bronson into Sandy's life. But when she learns his identity she vanishes. She is driven in an ore truck to the house where her brother, Lee, is staying. A letter from Sociable Joe had brought her to plead with Lee to give up his gang connections. When she tells him about the special agents he agrees to leave with her immediately. They drive away in a cream colored sedan and Lee deliberately runs down Sociable Joe. The driver of the ore truck takes Sandy and Buck to the house where he had driven the girl. They learn the man was known as Ray Hammer. Sandy talks to his director in Washington.

INSTALMENT XII.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

"Looked like she put one over on you there, Sandy," said the director.

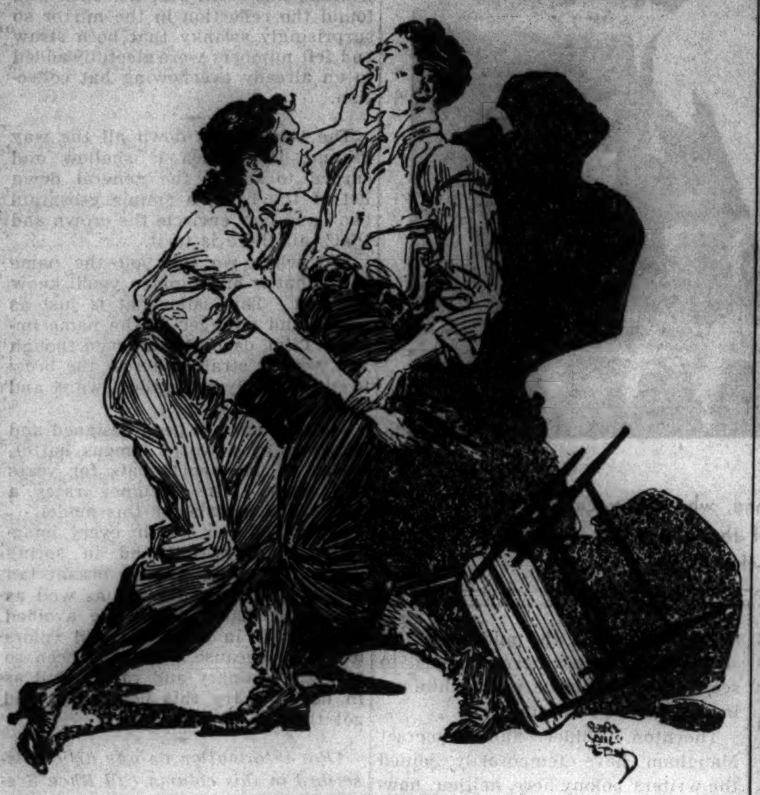
"But some way this girl seemed different, director. And we haven't proved yet that she was the man's moll."

"No, and don't get any preconceived notions about it, Sandy. Use your usual common sense."

The director's jovial, friendly tone ceased; again he had become a hunter of men, with all the necessity for crisp decisiveness which the job demanded. "But don't take any chances with that mob. I'll put out a general alarm on the number of that car and the description you've given me. In the meantime hold yourself and all your men in readiness for a move to another part of the country if any of our agents get a line on that car. Charter an airplane. Keep it ready. Regarding Sociable Joe, question him unceasingly and use your best judgment about following what leads you get. Shadow anybody connected with him. And good luck to you."

However, it was not until two days later, following a period of intense activity in Reno and Vinton City, that Sandy Ross and Buck Wasey were able to properly interrogate the old gambler. They now felt that they possessed the facts upon which to base definite suspicion.

The forty-eight hours which had intervened since Jane Bronson had disappeared from Pete's garage had, it is true, brought no direct news of her whereabouts or of those of the man with whom she had fled. However, the shield of secrecy which surrounded this pair had begun to crack.



"She tried to kill me."

Special agents had established the fact that this man who called himself Hammer and whom the girl had hinted bore the same name as herself had appeared in Reno shortly after the last armored truck robber. He had possessed plenty of money, and the special squad now knew that the cream colored car which he drove had been stolen from in front of the residence of a New York doctor. Thus the chain of circumstance had tightened about the man. Sandy Ross hoped that it would tighten still more with the interviewing of Sociable Joe.

They had gone to his home, the usual one story frame dwelling, set on the side of a hill like so many others in this mining camp. Old ex-Marshal Titters was there, acting in the combined rôle of a guard and nurse, while a special agent sat in the front room of the house, an additional safeguard against an attempt to escape, were Sociable's injuries more feigned than real, and against possible communication with any members of a mob. Both were dismissed as the inspector and his assistant walked into the house and drew chairs to the side of the injured man's bed.

"I suppose you know why we're here?" Sandy began somewhat pleasantly. Sociable Joe eyed them from behind a thick surtout of bandages.

"Well, no, I can't say——"

"You remember us?"

"O, yes, you're the G-men—I remember you all right." His voice strengthened. "But I told you everything I knew the other night——"

"Perhaps," Sandy Ross answered. "But there have been subsequent developments. For instance, Mr. Willis, did you ever know a man named Hammer? Ray Hammer?"

"Hammer? Hammer?" he seemed sincere enough. "No, I never heard of any one named that."

"Are you sure that you didn't play cards with a man named Ray Hammer?"

"I'm sure of that."

"You said that you won the money which you turned over to us by playing with three men. Wasn't one of them Ray Hammer?"

The old man shook his head emphatically.

"I'm telling you," he said with some asperity, "that I never heard the name before."

Sandy Ross remained pleasant enough, but persistent.

"Then we will drop the name temporarily. Did you know a man here who fits the following description?"

He read the description of Jane Bronson's brother, while Buck Wasey, a silent watcher, catalogued the reactions of the man on the bed. Suddenly the Texan broke in:

"You remember that fellow, don't you?"

A note of defense came into the old man's voice.

"I might have met a hundred fellows like that."

"Yes, but there's one in particular—and you know which one that is."

The old man twisted on the bed. He had lost his usual loquacity.

"You're trying to hook me up with a gang, and I won't stand for it."

"You're an honest man, I presume?" asked Sandy quietly.

"I pride myself that I am."

"Never offended against the law?"

Sociable Joe waved a hand with something of a return to his usual demeanor.

"Now, gentlemen, if you'll except my proclivity for dalliance with the pasteboards——"

"Never been arrested, I suppose?" Buck Wasey interjected.

The old man flushed.

"Why anybody's liable to get arrested," he stammered. "Might park a car too long or break some city ordinance——"

Sandy Ross hitched his chair closer.

"This is something more serious, Joe," he said quietly. "Several days ago you made a very clear impression of the fingers of your right hand on a whisky glass. This glass was sent air mail to Washington, where it was possible to make a classification against one of some five million criminal finger prints in the identification unit. I have just received a telegram from the department of justice. Your finger prints were found to be identical with those of a man named Joseph Marco, arrested in 1912 on a charge of homicide and sentenced eight months later to three years in Canon City penitentiary, Colorado, on a plea of guilty to manslaughter.

The old man made no answer. The flush was gone from his features; his skin had become ghastly white, his eyes staring. At last Buck Wasey queried:

"Was that the name you were sentenced under?"

The answer was barely audible.

"Yes, that was the name."

"Do you care to tell us about it?"

A weak smile crossed Sociable Joe's face.

"I might as well—you'd find out anyway. I killed my wife." He pulled in his breath with a half-gasp. "A tragedy rather than a crime, gentlemen," said Sociable Joe slowly. "There's nothing to hide. My wife was—shall we pass that?" he queried with a faint smile. "I had a good business in Denver then—long before my gambling days. Really—really thought I'd amount to something. Had my eyes on the law—always liked to hear myself talk, as you may have judged, gentlemen. One day my wife—well, to put it bluntly, she tried to kill me and there was quite a struggle for the gun. She may have pulled the trigger—I may have pulled it, I don't know."

Coit-Chandler Wedding Takes Place Today

Only Immediate Relatives to Be Present.

The governors are Graham Aldis, Alfred MacArthur, W. E. Macfarlane, Philip B. Maher, Edgar Miller, Wirt Morton, Andrew N. Rebori, Alfred P. Shaw, and William P. Welsh.

Daughter Is Born to Robert H. Ripleys.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hampden Ripley are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Wednesday at the Evanston hospital. The baby has a brother, Peter, who is two years old. The house that the Ripleys are building on the grounds of the senior Robert H. Ripley's home in Winnetka soon will be completed, and the Ripleys are looking forward to moving in with their two babies by the first of May.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims have received word from Detroit of the birth of a girl to their daughter, Mrs. Richard S. Coffin, there on Thursday. The young lady is the Sims' twelfth grandchild.

Fletcher M. Durbin will preside at a luncheon Lawrenceville alumni will give today at the Drake hotel for Headmaster Allan V. Heely of the school, and Mrs. Heely.

After the luncheon Mr. Heely will show motion pictures of the school's recent activities. Mr. and Mrs. Heely, who arrived yesterday and leave tonight for Minneapolis, were entertained last night at a small dinner party in the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel by Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Bard. Mr. Bard is chairman of the committee in charge of the luncheon.

French Correspondent Will Lecture Today.

Count Raoul de Roussy de Sales, correspondent in the United States for two leading French newspapers, will be the speaker at a luncheon the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations will give today at 12:30 o'clock at the Palmer house. Count de Roussy de Sales, who speaks English fluently, will discuss the recent cabinet changes in France and the new outlook for his country's foreign policy.

Among those who will sit at the table with the speaker and Adlai E. Stevenson, president of the council, are Rene Weiller, French consul, and Mme. Weiller; Robert Hall McCormick, Miss Mary West, William F. Sloan, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Ira Nelson Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Affleck, and Mrs. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Scott are giving a cocktail party in their apartment in the Drake Towers this evening for Mrs. Scott's daughter, Mrs. Patricia Gorman Hart, and her fiancé, Henry Russell Platt Jr., who will be married on March 17.

Rhythm Club Will Meet Tomorrow.

Call it hot music, swing music, or jazz, it's art, and it takes an artist to play it properly, in the opinion of members of the Rhythm club. That is why they and several hundred of their friends are assembling tomorrow afternoon in the Urban room of the Congress hotel to listen to Fletcher Henderson and his orchestra for several hours.

Listening rather than dancing is the procedure at the club's gatherings, because it is impossible fully to appreciate the intricacies of true jazz music without concentrating upon it, preferably while relaxing and sipping one's favorite drink, the club members believe.

This will be the third concert of the Rhythm club, which was organized last autumn to promote the cause of jazz in Chicago.

Music Notes

Jason F. Whitney, president of the Chicago City Opera company, announced yesterday a plan to organize a Chicago City Opera fund committee of forty women. The committee is to raise sufficient funds to insure adequate preparations for the next season, scheduled to begin Oct. 31.

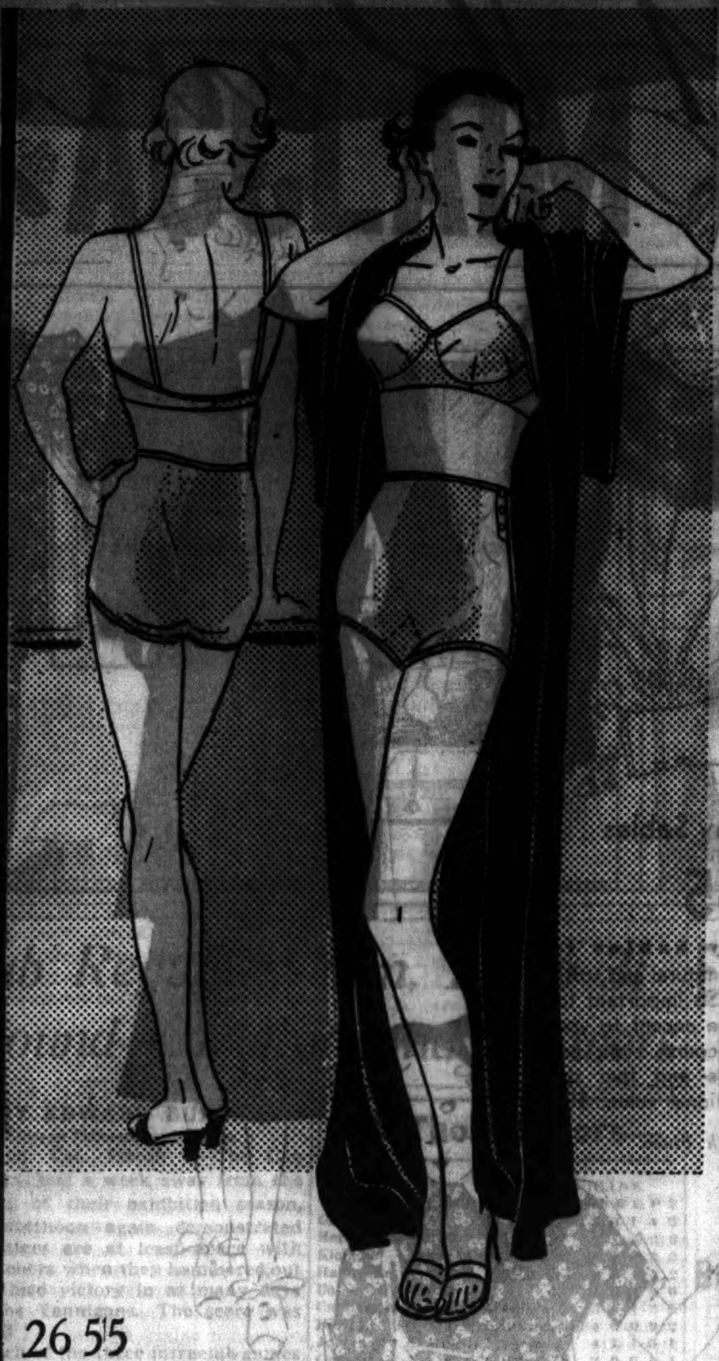
Mr. Whitney's announcement stresses the civic character of the company. The funds will be used to increase the stability of the organization and to raise the quality of performances.

A violin recital in Kimball hall by Harry Wohl tomorrow afternoon, programs a Grand Concerto by Vieuxtemps. There has been a rebirth of interest in the work of the old time Belgian through some recent recordings of his music. Wohl precedes the concerto with a Handel sonata and follows it with a "Lyric Fantasy" composed by his accompanist, Helene Pollenz, a Sarasate "Malaguena" and Wieniawski's "Polonaise Brilliante."

"Haika," the first Polish opera, is scheduled for performance on Sunday, March 15, at the Civic Opera house. It was last given here in October of 1934, when some hundreds of people were unable to obtain seats. Helena Lipowska and Aleksander Golembiowski of the Warsaw Opera house are either on the high seas today or just landed. They are cast for the principal parts. With these two exceptions all the singers will be Polish-Americans. The Dudziarz-Paderewski chorus and a ballet under Laurent Novikoff will participate. Jerzy Bojanowski is to preside.

Among the more ambitious performances of sacred music this lent will be Rossini's "Stabat Mater" on Sunday evening, March 15, at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church. Adalbert Huguelets directs his own choir and fifty members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra in the famous work. The soloists are Eulah Cornor, Elizabeth Kerr, Blair Stewart, and Joseph Hassmer.

To Preserve Slim Contours



MISS' LINGERIE.

When underthings are as simple to sew as these are, and as flattering to the silhouette, you may succumb to the temptation to have as many as you like. Chic clothes these days cling to the figure, making it necessary that one's undergarments present not a single wrinkle or bulge. Snugly fitted panties and trim uplift brassieres are necessities to chic.

The set illustrated requires a minimum of material, so that you may choose the most luxurious fabrics at negligible cost. Pastel wash satins and crêpes are available in many attractive shades. If you wish, you may create this set in colors to match your outer garments.

Style No. 2655 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Size 16 requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Making Secret of Marriage Is Impractical

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am going with a young man, and we have made a promise that when he is 21 we will be married. I haven't told my mother, as we want to keep the marriage a secret. Am I acting correctly, or do you think I should tell my mother? I am the only support of the family just now. But things may change between now and next August, when my man will be 21.—ANNE."

It's wise to take your mother into your confidence on marriage plans. It's kind and it is the decent thing to do. Also young folks marrying nowadays never know when they will have to pack up and go back home to mother's roof and food. You don't want to add to your troubles by hearing constantly: "You see, if you had not married so soon, etc!" It's hard to take when you have gone and married secretly.

You can't keep a marriage a secret anyway. Thousands have tried it and found that there always are several pairs of prying eyes and wagging tongues against you. The secret comes out and there always is so much explaining to be done and hurt feelings to be assuaged. It is infinitely easier to tell your family.

Angell Describes Efforts to Avoid Deficits at Yale

New Haven, Conn., March 6.—[Special.]—Denying that Yale "is in retreat," President Angell in a letter to the Yale Daily News today revealed the scope of his plan to bring about rigid economies and make the university live within its income.

Three surveys to recommend administrative changes are under way.

Experts from the outside are studying the dining hall, campus police, power plants and other physical properties.

Another group is studying university finances.

"Like all other American institutions, for five years Yale has been facing the impact of the general world depression upon her financial structure," says Dr. Angell's letter.

Sixty per cent of Yale's income is derived from investments.

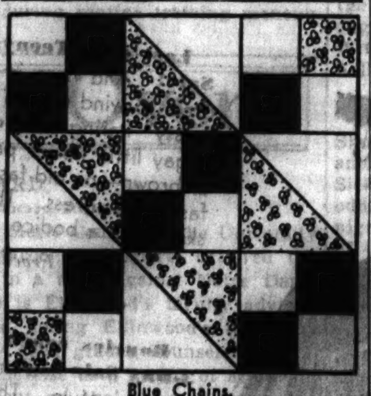
Pieced Pattern Is Employed in All-Over Quilt



Blue Chains.

BY NANCY CABOT.

An elaboration of the old nine patch creates a most charming effect in "Blue Chains." This pieced pattern is used as an all-over design, each block turned in such a way as to create a striking all-over pattern. Blue, white, and blue and white print form a favorite combination for this pattern. The quilt is finished with a three inch white border and a narrow binding of blue.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Museum Opens Film Series Today; Appoint 2 to Lecture Service

A new series of free motion pictures for children will be given each Saturday, starting today, through April 25 in James Simpson theater in the Field museum. The programs start at 10 and 11 o'clock. The series is held under the auspices of the James Nelson and Anna Louis Raymond Foundation.

The appointment of two new lecturers on the staf of the foundation for public school and children's lectures also was announced by Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum. The appointees are Mrs. Leota G. Thomas and Miss Velma Whipple, who serve to fill one vacancy and to help meet increased demands for the lecture service.

BY MARY MEADE.

Two things today, cooksters! First, an easy way to make a smooth, creamy white sauce without any lumps in it! That's something that's especially good to remember.

Secondly, after you've made your fine white sauce you want to use it for something right away, don't you? We can't think of anything more fun than a salmon wiggle! If you don't know what that is, just read right through to the bottom of the column and see if it doesn't sound like fun to you, too.

VELVETY WHITE SAUCE.

1. Get out a double boiler. Put water about an inch deep in the lower part, set the top part on top, and put it on the heat.
2. Measure two tablespoons of butter into the top of the double boiler and let it heat over the hot water.
3. When the butter has melted, measure two tablespoons of flour and slowly stir it into the butter. A wooden spoon works best if you can find one. [Here's something to remember: Two tablespoons of flour to one cup of milk means a medium thick sauce; one tablespoon of flour to one cup of milk means a thin sauce and three tablespoons give a thick sauce. The medium sauce is used for most creamed dishes, the thin one is mixed with sieved vegetables for soups, and the thick one is used for holding dry foods together for croquettes and the like.]
4. Measure one cup of milk and slowly stir it into the mixed flour and butter. Slowly, remember! And keep stirring, because that keeps the sauce smooth instead of lumpy.
5. Keep stirring the sauce, still over the boiling water, until it's thick and velvety. About ten minutes usually does the trick.
6. Season the sauce with a little salt, about one-fourth teaspoon, and add a tiny sprinkle of paprika.

With that done, here's how to turn the velvety sauce into a salmon wiggle.

SALMON WIGGLE.

1. Open a half pound can of salmon and take out all the dark skin and bones.
2. Break the salmon into chunks or flakes, not too fine.
3. Measure one cup of canned peas that have been drained of all their liquid.
4. Stir the salmon and peas into the cooked white sauce in the double boiler and let them heat [without much stirring].
5. When the "wiggle" is good and hot, serve spoonsful of it on hot toast or crisp crackers.

Cagney Tells Court Warners Book Him Below Pat O'Brien

Hollywood, Cal., March 6.—[Special.]—James Cagney, film actor who is suing to void his contract with Warner studio, today added a new complaint.

Cagney's new objection is that Warner studio billed the name of Pat O'Brien above his in advertising certain films. Cagney's first stated cause of complaint was that Warner compelled him to appear in more than four pictures a year. Cagney declared he didn't object to working, but believed the public would tire of seeing him. As to the $4,500 a week for forty weeks a year, which the contract provides, he doesn't know if he can duplicate it if he wins his release. His statement in court implied he preferred less income to continuance of the contract.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Here's something new for the fastidious woman! A milk powder to be tossed in the bath water is pleasant and efficient in keeping the skin white and soft.

It was Anna Held, wasn't it, who bathed in milk—or at least said she did and said it pretty loudly?

Well, you can compete. Not by toting gallons of milk to your morning tub. Something more efficient and heaps less messy has been worked out by the experts—a milk powder to be tossed into the bath water that serves the same beautifying purpose. We can see how women who like to keep their skin exquisitely white and smooth will go completely mad over it.

Milk, as your grandmother knew even if you didn't, is not to be sneered at as a beauty aid. Its natural fats are a pretty good emollient for the skin and it's a mild bleach. And all its sterling virtues are retained in the powder.

The milk powder product for women who want the skin soft and silky is in a most amusing container—a glass pint bottle that's a dead ringer for the one the milkman deposits on your doorstep in the dawn.

We thought some one was trying to fatten us up when we found it on our desk.

The powder, of course, is snowy white and at first glance you'd swear it was a pint of nature's nicest food. This bottle, though, has a flossy white satin ribbon 'round its neck and a big businesslike cork instead of one of those pasteboard stoppers.

You use just a handful to the tub to make the water milky and soft. The powder has been perfumed rather pleasantly, too, which makes it even more exciting as a modern beauty aid. You'll like it, we know—and you dry skinned sisters will like it in particular because it whitens and softens the skin so effectively.

This is a brand new product, found in only a few shops.

According to CULBERTSON

BIDDING DUELS.

When partners become angry at each other and engage in bidding duels, each determined that he will be the declarer no matter how high he has to go, the results are apt to be rather tragic. I have seen "spite contracts" go down as many as twelve tricks.

This sort of feud, fortunately very rare, is so unsportsmanlike that no punishment is too severe. Nevertheless, I had to admire the opponents in one of these lamentable affairs, who, recognizing what was going on, refrained from doubling on the theory that they would be "shooting birds on the ground."

Crime Pays This Time.

Occasionally [which still is too often] one of these duels will have a fantastically lucky outcome. Picture the poor opponents in the following hand.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A Q 10 9 8 6 3
♥ None
♦ A K Q
♣ A K 2

WEST
♠ 4 2
♥ K
♦ J 10 9 8 2

EAST
♠ K J 7
♥ 8 6 5 4 3 2
♦ 7 5
♣ Q 10

SOUTH
♠ 5
♥ A Q J 10 9 7
♦ 6 4 3
♣ J 7 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2 spades	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
6 spades	Pass	7 hearts	Pass
7 spades	Double	7 no trump	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble [final bid]

North was so furious that I am sure he would have bid eight spades [which he could have been forced to play] had he not realized that South always would top him in no trump. So he had to take out his venom in a glare of pure hatred and a redouble that he thought would cost an extra thousand or two.

West made his natural opening of the diamond jack and declarer faced a horrible prospect. With not even one heart in the dummy there was no sure entry to his own hand. He couldn't realize how fortunate this actually was. He was forced, much against his will, to the only line of play that could succeed. He cashed dummy's diamonds, East discarding a spade, and then laid down the ace and king of clubs. The first miracle happened. The doubleton queen fell! This was, in fact, a double miracle, because it had a two-fold result. The mere establishment of declarer's jack as a good trick and as entry was not fatal to the defenders, but on the third club lead East was squeezed! Rather than blank his spade king he let go a heart, but his relief was only temporary. South won the jack of clubs and banged down the ace of hearts. West, with a snarl, parted with his king. Five more hearts were run off and the spade ace cashed for the thirteenth trick.

To give them their due, North and South were heartily ashamed of themselves. East and West sat in a stunned silence for several long moments until East wearily raised his head and said in anguished tones: "Well, I hope you boys will stay friendly from now on!"

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the best way to learn contract bridge?

Answer: 1. Engage a good teacher. 2. Read a standard book on the game. 3. Watch expert games. 4. Deal out hands and bid and play them "double dummy." 5. Play as much as possible.

Screen Actor Prefers Girls in Dainty Garb

John Boles Not Interested in Tailored Clothes.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

John Boles, whose name is sufficient introduction, admits with gusto that he loves "a beautifully feathered bird," that he knows women's clothes, knows at a glance if a girl is going to "bowl them over" or leave them cold. Into the last named classification goes the woman who tries to dress, act, and look like her brother. To wear sharply tailored clothes a woman must be innately feminine to suit the broad shouldered, handsome screen idol, or any other man, he avers. It's something in the woman herself, her voice, manner, complete gentility, and not her clothes that directs this feminine appeal.

In city streets nothing hits the discriminating Boles' eye like a woman turned out in smart black. Black, with beautiful lines, goes over big for evening, too. Certain women, he opines, can get in deadlier work without rouge than with it, such as the brunette with gorgeous skin.

Only thus far I got in my interview with Mr. Boles when there occurred a deluge of fair young maids, six of them, journalism students. They were armed with pads and pencils, and questions with machine gun precision were shot at the stalwart Boles, giving the bystander an opportunity to see the man's infinite courtesy and charm in operation.

"Are you annoyed when people ask for your autograph?" asked No. 1 student.

"On the contrary. I'd be unhappy if they didn't."

"How did you feel about your first screen test?" charged No. 2 student.

"Pretty silly," responded Mr. Boles.

"How did you get your start in the movies?" from No. 3 student.

"Miss Gloria Swanson sent for me to play in 'Kitty's Kisses.'"

"How were they?" from a bystander. Question overruled.

"When did you start singing and what was your first song?"

"About seven years of age, and the song probably was something about love."

"What is your pet aversion?" from No. 4 student.

"A noisy woman."

More questions. Is acting a mental strain? Did you like playing with Shirley Temple? Where were you born? What's your favorite sport? Will you ever return to the stage? What do you think of movie censorship? Could we have a photograph of you for our paper?

"And autograph it," pleaded student No. 6.

"And one for me, too, autographed," chorused the others. In the elevator going down the students remembered they had forgotten a photograph for the paper. Let's hope the editor understood, for an older girl might easily forget her original mission in the presence of the courtesy and charm that bear the John Boles label.

International Water Color Exhibition to Open Next Thursday

The international water color exhibition opens in the east wing galleries of the Art institute next Thursday. A preview disclosed a generous interspersion of pictorial satires and ironies.

A humorous brush was wielded deftly by the Mexican artist, Miguel Covarrubias, whose opaque water colors fill one gallery. One picture, in a series of "impossible interludes," displays Margaret Sanger, the birth control advocate, with Mrs. Dione, the mother of the quintuplets. Another displays Secretary Perkins and Shirley Temple, and a third Haile Selassie and Joe Louis.

The second community art exhibition at the newly established Garfield Park art galleries opens tomorrow. The exhibit displays 53 oil paintings by Americans, who live or have lived in Chicago.

Youth's Future a Responsibility of Whole World

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We're hoping, all of us who care about the young people of America, that when their schooling is over, and their earning days begin, that that part of their life will represent more than just "a job." I'm speaking of the boy or girl who is not entering the professions or arts—and also the one who has not learned a trade.

Industry in thousands of cases will take them in—and it is going to be up to industry to find out what capacities or special fitnesses these young applicants have, and put them at the kind of work which can be a source of satisfaction to them and at which also they can achieve something.

Those people who give general vocational guidance and those within some of the industries are working toward this end.

At a recent dinner conference of the Vocational Service for Juniors in New York, J. W. Dietz, superintendent of industrial relations for the Western Electric company, discussed the duty of industry to the young people who enter it. [And, of course, since industry needs our youth, it has a duty toward it.] He mentioned two planks that should be in the platform of industry in the future.

One "plank" was that I have mentioned—that young people in industry should be placed according to fitness. And the other "plank" was that industry should provide encouragement and incentive to its young employes by making promotions from within the organization, except in the few cases where this is impossible.

Logical as this latter practice is, there are many organizations which block the interest and loyalty of their young, ambitious people by always going outside to fill vacancies which could be filled from within.

There's all the difference in the world between doing work you like and can do and doing work you dislike and are unfitted for. Youth needs the former, and educators and employers can give it to them to a large degree.

DYKES REVEALS ILLNESS; SEEKS AN UNDERSTUDY

Hayes Agrees to Sox Terms.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 6.—Jim Dykes, the White Sox manager, who for the last year has laughed whenever the experts have tried to rib him about old age overtaking him, today admitted there might be something more than humor to the contention. The 38 year old campaigner has maintained an almost 100 per cent defense against injuries and illness over a stretch of seasons, but today he was down for the count.

Barring a limited jog around the park for the purpose of working up a sweat, he took his daily drill in a horizontal position on a bench in the clubhouse. His stomach has been kicking up for the last few weeks, but Dykes has kept the trouble to himself. He's trying to believe it is nothing serious, but while stretched out on the boards this morning he started talking about locating an understudy for his third base position. He's lost ten pounds since training started and that's unusual for him.

May Use Appling Tomorrow.

Dykes' illness may cause some suffering for Luke Appling, the regular shortstop who recently deserted a holdout rôle and is due to reach camp tomorrow. Luke will be expecting at least four or five days in which to get himself into shape, but he might be told that he must play in the first exhibition game Sunday against Seattle at Santa Monica.

Appling sent word that he had been working out at Atlanta. So if his arm is o. k. he'll be among those in action. His presence would leave Joe Morrissey available for Dykes' place at third base.

In addition to explaining the cause of his clubhouse leisure, Manager Dykes revealed just how he would arrange the batting order for the Sunday game. The whole thing is experimental. McCulloch, the Dallas rookie who is going to start in right field, will lead off. Mule Haas, now a first baseman instead of an outfielder, will swing second. Second Baseman Tony Piet will be next in line. The cleanup rôle has been assigned to Mike Kreevich, left fielder, for the time being. Center Fielder Stumpf, Morrissey, Dykes, Shea and Kennedy will follow in the order named.

Plans Hinge on Bonura.

The eventual arrangement of the batting order depends not only on how the rookies pan out but also on the course of action taken by Zeke Bonura, the holdout first baseman. It is taken for granted that Bonura will appear eventually and that would put Haas back in an outfield job. Zeke naturally will be placed in the cleanup notch. If Zeke should continue his vacation into the championship season, Dykes' next best bet for the cleanup rôle is Appling.

Bonura now stands as the lone balky employe on J. Louis Comiskey's list. Bonura was left out by himself this morning when Jack Hayes, utility infielder and formerly the regular second baseman, notified Comiskey in Chicago he had decided to sign.

Pitchers Worked Hard.

The workout today, conducted under the ideal weather conditions, was a stiff one for all the members of the pitching department. They spent more than an hour covering first base on batted grounders handled by the first sacker. When they had finished that drill they were forced to pitch to batters and in between times chase around the outfield in quest of fungoes.

Mule Haas today received a post card on which some unknown admirer offered advice in connection with the veteran's decision to become an infielder. The advice was offered in shorthand, so Mule appealed to Dykes, who interpreted it to read, "Dear Mule: Get off first base before you get killed. Palsie." The message failed to lessen Haas' enthusiasm for his new job.

CARNERA STOPS IZZY GASTANAGA IN FIFTH ROUND

New York, March 6.—(AP)—Ponderous Primo Carnera of Italy blasted out a five round victory tonight over Izzy Gastanaga, wild swinging Spaniard, in Madison Square Garden. The huge Italian, scaling 268¾, was awarded a technical knockout when Referee Arthur Donovan stopped the fight because of the condition of Gastanaga's damaged left eye. The Spaniard scaled 208¼.

Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the state athletic commission, said he was "perfectly satisfied with the honesty of the fight" but announced, nevertheless, the purses of both principals would be withheld, pending a final hearing Tuesday on charges that the managers of Gastanaga and Carnera are "business associates."

"That is simply precautionary," said Gen. Phelan. "We do not want to risk any comeback. Nothing developed at today's meeting to justify accusations of collusion, but we will give the case a thorough hearing nevertheless."

Cub Regulars Win, 13 to 3; Pound Carleton and Flowers

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 6.—The Cub regulars, just a week away from the opening of their exhibition season, this afternoon again demonstrated the hitters are at least apace with the pitchers when they hammered out their third victory in as many days over the Yannigans. The score was 13 to 3.

In each of the three intraclub games the Yannigans have been fortified, theoretically, by the pitching of at least one first string pitcher, while the regulars have performed behind the tossing of a rookie class generally rated as one of the least talented of those that have trained with the Cubs in the last decade. Larry French, who turned in a great five inning demonstration yesterday, is the only top flight pitcher who has shown a willingness or ability to bear down as much as the batters. And the pitchers have been here a week longer than the batters.

Carleton Gets Going Over.

Carleton was the National leaguer of experience who got his ears pinned back today. Tex pitched four innings rather leisurely, during which the regulars socked him for ten hits, good for seven runs. The best pitching was done by two young men not expected to remain with the Cubs, Hugh Casey and Ken Weafer, but their work today may change Manager Grimm's earlier plans for them. The only run off Casey blossomed from a two base error by Chuck Klein in the first inning. The Yannigans did not get a hit off Weafer in three innings, but put together two hits in the ninth of their third and final run.

Eleven errors were made during this afternoon's affair, suggesting that if there is any need of being here at all it may be well to pay some attention to fielding practice. While the game was sloppy and futile, there is no great alarm over the progress of any of the twenty-three men who will form the eventual pennant seekers. The regular season squad could be named with accuracy before the bunch leaves the island next Thursday afternoon, if not now.

Warneke Hurls Today.

Grimm and the players have not discovered anything they did not know before the first three games. The game tomorrow, though, may have a bit more significance, for Lon Warneke and Charley Root will pitch against the regulars. It will be the first competitive pitching of the year for the two, both of whom were considered problem gents last winter, though worry passed with their showing during routine training maneuvers.

But Those Errors—

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

No one was more surprised than Prof. Merle Coulter of the University of Chicago when Ray Ellinwood, Maroon sophomore, bettered the world indoor record for 440 yards in a meet against Notre Dame last month. . . . Dr. Coulter, who is Ellinwood's faculty adviser, was consulting with the young man, and noting Ellinwood's unusually heavy program of courses and remarkably good grades, counseled relaxation and described the merits of regular exercise as a means of achieving it. . . . "O," said Ellinwood, "I work out on the track occasionally." . . . Coulter, incidentally, is the faculty tennis champion. . . . Canada is not the only country to turn out big league hocky players. . . . The National league now offers the makings of a complete team composed of American born players. . . . Mike Karakas, Blackhawks, born in Aurora, Minn., goalie; Roger Jenkins, Boston, born in Appleton, Wis.; Art Lesieur, Canadiens, born in Fall River, Mass., and Alex Levinsky, Blackhawks, born in Syracuse, N. Y., all defense men; Doc Romnes, Blackhawks, White Bear, Minn.; Louis Trudell, Blackhawks, Salem, Mass.; Carl Voss, Americans, Chelsea, Mass.; Cecil Dutton, Rangers, Toledo, O., and Leroy Goldsworthy, Canadiens, Two Harbors, Minn., all forwards. . . . Pacific coast baseball men say a survey reveals that there has been a 60 per cent shrinkage in Los Angeles savings accounts since southern California went horse crazy. . . . Bert Wild, located in Bellingham, Wash., for the last ten years, will be the new golf professional at the Westward-Ho club, where Denny Shute recently resigned.

Gil Dobie probably will be the highest paid football coach in the United States next season. . . . He will receive $22,500, $10,000 from Boston college and $12,500 as settlement on his unexpired contract with Cornell. . . . Harry Ream, six foot end, is financing his way through Columbia by manicuring. . . . License plates for Max Baer's new custom built automobile cost the former champion $55. . . . Stanford has an 18 year old freshman from Des Moines who swims better under water than on the surface. . . . He recently broke the Pacific coast 100 yard breaststroke record of 1:09.4 and he swam the last 75 yards under water. . . . The Cubs' rubber shirt squad includes only Manager Grimm, Gabby Hartnett, and Larry French, the smallest in years. . . . Del Baker, former catcher, now serving as coach of the Tigers, is regarded as the best signal stealer in the American league. . . .

Lester Borden, former Fordham end, who was a member of the 1935 College All-Star squad, is a radio singer. . . . One hundred and forty-seven players from St. Louis and suburbs are under contract to clubs in organized baseball this year. . . . A special police detail has been put on at the Olympia in Detroit to ferret out the fans who have been sticking hocky referees with old-fashioned hatpins. . . . Hagen pocketed $6,800 for the match and Jones received all the glory. . . . Big Bill Edwards, former Princeton football player, was elected president of Red Grange's new football league at a reported salary of $25,000 a year. . . . BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 6.—Eleven 3 year olds are named in the overnight nominations for the ninth running of the Floriday Derby at 1⅛ miles at Hialeah Park tomorrow afternoon as the climax of the most successful meeting held here since predepression days, the greatest meeting ever held here so far as class of horses is concerned.

In advance, this event, won last year by Black Helen, who went on to later triumphs as champion of her sex, looks like a test for Brevity of the Widener stable, who has future engagements in the Kentucky Derby, Withers mile, Belmont stakes, and Arlington Classic.

Brevity at 7 to 10.

So highly is this bay son of Chance Shot or Sickle, with his markings and conformation leaning toward Sickle, regarded that he is made the odds-on choice at 7 to 10 in the overnight betting, coupled with Dnieper of the Mrs. P. A. B. Widener barn, which may be sent to the post to help Brevity with the early pace.

This coupling of Brevity and Dnieper in the wagering is not enforced by the rules but is extra legal, sanctioned by the stewards at the request of Mr. Widener, president of the club here and vice president of the jocky club of New York. Dnieper is owned by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener, daughter-in-law of Mr. Widener. The two colts have different trainers and therefore would be entitled to run as separate entries, but Brevity's owner wanted the coupling so that if one of those surprises of racing occur and Dnieper finishes ahead of Brevity no unpleasant talk can develop.

Bright Plumage at 5 to 1.

Next in favor to the Widener pair is Bright Plumage from the C. V. Whitney stable, quoted at 5 to 1. Mont Blanc, owned by G. H. Bostwick, now in England to ride his own mount in the Grand National, is quoted at 6 to 1 and by many is regarded as the most promising dark horse.

He is a son of Coronach, English Derby winner. His record here is two brackets and a second in three starts.

Chicago is represented in the Derby field by Mrs. Emil Denemark's Higher Cloud. Early in the meeting Trainer Bert Michell was monopolizing the stakes here but the stable has been less successful lately. Experts think others carry too much speed for Higher Cloud, but Michell is a shrewd conditioner.

Brevity Shows Speed.

Brevity, who started three times as a 2 year old, and impressed by his looks and his victory in the Champagne stakes, has appeared under silks only once this year. On that occasion, he ran away from a fair field at a mile in 1:36, under restraint at the end and looking as if he could continue the longer distance of Derby routes.

Since then Brevity has been carefully prepped by Trainer Pete Coyne and kept from further contention to avoid injuries.

Weather forecast is for a fast track. Brevity, according to Trainer Coyne, is a sure starter on any kind of track, but some of the others might decline the issue in soft footing.

Golden Gloves Crowd Misses Shy Joe Louis

For the first time since he started his professional career as a boxer Joe Louis, leading contender for the world heavyweight championship held by James J. Braddock, failed to excite attention last night. This extremely rare event took place during the semi-finals of the Golden Gloves tournament at Chicago Stadium. The 1934 Golden Gloves light heavyweight titleholder went unnoticed down the aile to a seat among the working press.

Louis arrived at 8:25 o'clock during the three round bout in which Johnny Brown of the Catholic Youth organization, defending bantamweight champion, eliminated Bruce Ferro of Milwaukee.

However, the Brown Bomber received the acclaim of the crowd when he was presented during the championship fights.

Elmer Layden, athletic director at Notre Dame, and Mrs. Layden sat in second row seats. The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, director of the C. Y. O., was close by. So were George Halas, coach of the Chicago Bears; Art Haley, Notre Dame ticket manager; Tug Wilson, athletic director at Northwestern, and Mrs. Wilson; Clark Shaughnessy, University of Chicago football coach, and Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern assistant coach.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks hocky team, had a front row chair on the south side. Nearby were John Schommer, Big Ten official, and Judge Walter Steffen of the Superior court, former football coach at Carnegie Tech.

Other front row spectators included Federal Judge Philip Sullivan, Fire Chief Michael Corrigan, Capt. Harry O'Connell of the West North avenue station, and B. J. Fallon, Britten I. Budd, and James Norris Sr.

Fred Collins, full back on Notre Dame's 1926, 1927, and 1928 elevens, was in the ringside section.

Along about 3:15 p. m. yesterday when Paul Frazier, Savoy Athletic club heavyweight, appeared for his physical examination and drawing, all the 32 semi-finalists had been accounted for. The only missing boxer was William Kranz, Danville Commercial-News 175 pound qualifier. Officials were informed by Jack Kranz, 1931 light heavyweight Golden Gloves titleholder, that his brother Bill had

TRIBUNE'S 9TH ANNUAL MEET THRILLS CROWD

Two Chicago Boys Win Titles.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A dramatic finish in which Paul Hartnek, Creighton university football star, whipped long, lanky John Washington, a colored boy from Chicago, brought THE TRIBUNE'S ninth annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions to a close last midnight.

Hartnek was the last of eight champions to be crowned in the most thrilling night of fighting ever offered in Chicago. Spectators to the number of 21,302 looked on and shrieked themselves hoarse during the five throbbing hours of action at the Stadium.

When Hartnek, who represents the Omaha World-Herald, won, he deadlocked the battle for out of town team honors. His victory brought Omaha's total points to 13, the same number the team representing the Cleveland Plain Dealer had scored.

Cleveland Wins Toss.

In the toss of a coin to decide ownership of the out of town trophy, Sam Otis, sports editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, called "Heads" and heads it was.

Jackie Wilson, the stringbean 112 pounder, and Ted Kara, sensational featherweight, had rolled up two victories for Cleveland. Carl Vinciquerra, another Creighton university football player from Omaha, scored the other victory for the World-Herald.

The Catholic Youth Organization of Chicago ran away with the team trophy offered to Chicago clubs who sent boxers into the battle.

New York Bouts Next.

The new champions are survivors of a field of 17,000 from sixteen states who started out on the quest of Golden Gloves more than two months ago. They automatically became members of Chicago's team which fights the New York News champions in Madison Square Garden, New York, on March 27. The champions are all eligible for the American Olympic trials to be held in Chicago in May.

The eight new Golden Gloves champions who battled their way through the most spectacular and the biggest boxing tournament ever presented any where in the world are:

112 pounds—Jackie Wilson, Cleveland.
118 pounds—Johnny Brown, C.Y.O., Chicago.
126 pounds—Ted Kara, Cleveland.
135 pounds—Pete Lello, Michigan City.
147 pounds—Chester Rutecki, C. Y. O., Chicago.
160 pounds—Milton Shivers, Detroit.
175 pounds—Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha.
Heavyweight—Paul Hartnek, Omaha.

Thrill in Every Bout.

The fights were true to Golden Gloves tradition. There was a thrill in every encounter. There were hilarious moments for many. Still bitter disappointments came to others.

Johnny Brown, the popular Chicago newsboy from the C. Y. O., defended his bantamweight title nobly. He won two great battles.

Andy Scrivani, the only other former champion who strived for honors, met up with unexpected disaster when he clashed with Pete Lello of Michigan City. Scrivani never got past the semi-final round. Lello gave him a sound pasting.

Lello was one of the sensations of the tournament. He came back in the championship round and whipped Jimmy Martin, a teammate of Scrivani from the C. Y. O., just as soundly as he had trounced Andy. Lello was one of the big heroes with the great crowd. No lad got a greater hand than he did when the diamond studded Golden Glove, emblematic of the lightweight championship, was pressed into his hand.

Disagree with Decision.

Not all the decisions were popular. Thousands of spectators wondered how the judges came to the conclusion that Hartnek got the decision over the Indian chief, Tyrus Smith of Chilicco, Okla., in the most sensational heavyweight battle of the night.

The crowd whooped it up for the Indian and he had Hartnek in distress all through the first two rounds. Hartnek staged somewhat of a rally in the third. That got him the nod from the judges and referee. It was a spectacular fight, a greater battle than most anybody will ever see in any ring again.

GAMES TONIGHT.

Purdue at Michigan.
Northwestern at Chicago.
Notre Dame at Marquette.

Purdue's invasion of Michigan and Northwestern's crosstown journey to Chicago will wind up the Big Ten basketball season tonight. The Boilermakers, seeking their ninth championship since 1920 and their third in a row, will finish in a tie with Indiana if they defeat the Wolverines. Depending upon the result of the game at Ann Arbor, Northwestern will finish the season tied for third or fourth place.

In the event Purdue wins—which would give the Boilermakers and Indiana records of eleven won and one lost—the Wildcats must beat Chicago to tie Michigan and Illinois for third place. Should Michigan win, then the Wolverines will be alone in third place. Northwestern—assuming it beats the Maroons—then will tie the Illini for fourth. A victory for Chicago would be the first of the Big Ten season for the Maroons and the biggest upset of the conference campaign.

Purdue Has Speed.

The Purdue-Michigan game should be a real battle. The Wolverines have come on rapidly in recent games. The Boilermakers experienced much trouble obtaining the ball from the exceptionally tall Wolverines at Lafayette, although Purdue won by a comfortable margin.

Purdue's great speed and a point a minute offense, however, are expected to offset the advantage of the home floor. Capt. Bob Kessler, leading the race for the individual scoring championship, needs 23 points to break Joe Reiff's record of 168. Kessler already has averaged five baskets a game for his eleven contests and may pass the 60 mark tonight.

Kessler Has Lead.

Bill Haarlow of Chicago, who last year beat Kessler by six points for the championship, now trails the Boilermaker, 138 to 146. It is not likely he will catch Kessler, unless the latter is halted completely. Northwestern has a good defense and a tough offense. For that reason Haarlow may not get the ball often enough to stage a big splurge.

Haarlow should, however, establish a Big Ten scoring record for three seasons. The Maroon leader needs only three points to tie the mark of 406 points sets by Stretch Murphy, Purdue's giant center, in 1928, 1929 and 1930.

Notre Dame, which suffered its second defeat of the year Tuesday night when Ohio State surprised the Irish, will move up to Milwaukee to meet the in and out Marquette quintet in another game of interest tonight.

PLAYFUL MARTHA worked her way up on the inside, closed with a rush, and won going away. FOXIANA slipped through on inside and ran good race. POMPEIUS, showing improvement, was sent to the front with a rush, opened wide gap, but stopped badly. MOVIE LASS had no mishap. BLESSED EVENT finished gamely. MISLED, on the outside, was weakly ridden. MISS PURRAY wheeled at the break.

Ellinwood Beats Heg in 440 in Time of :49.9.

Taking seven of ten events Chicago's track team defeated Northwestern, 49¾ to 36¼, at the Midway fieldhouse last night.

Ray Ellinwood, Maroon sophomore, defeated Sunny Heg, Northwestern, in the quarter mile, the feature race of the evening. Sophomores won four events for Chicago. In addition to Ellinwood's victory, Dave Gordon won the high jump, Theron Steele the pole vault, and Dan Smith the two mile. Jack Fleming's time of 1:58.8 in winning the half mile by a wide margin was notable for Northwestern.

MICHIGAN WINS

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 6.—[Special.]—Michigan indicated that it is almost ready for its defense of the Big Ten indoor track title when it smothered Ohio State, 64⅔ to 30⅓, here tonight. The meet brought to a close the sixth consecutive season in which Michigan has not been beaten indoors by a Big Ten foe.

Three Yost fieldhouse records were broken, two by Ohio and one by Michigan. Charles Beetham, conference outdoor half mile champion, ran the 440 yard dash in 50.3 seconds, clipping a tenth off the new mark set a week ago by Malcolm Hicks of Indiana. Dave Albritton, Ohio's Negro high jumper, added 1¼ inches to the existing mark when he jumped 6 feet 4⅞ inches. The Michigan mile relay team, made up of Capt. Frank Aikens, Harvey Patton, Bob Osgood, and Stan Birleson, ran the event in 3:21.8, or 1.1 seconds faster than the mark set by the Mich 1931 team.

IOWA, 54; MINNESOTA, 32

Iowa City, Ia., March 6.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa track team finished its indoor dual season undefeated here tonight by beating Minnesota, 54 to 32.

Iowa took seven of ten first places, losing only the shot put, two mile, and mile relay.

Martin's Homer in Ninth Gives Cards 5 to 4 Victory

HAVANA, March 6.—(AP)—A three run rally in the ninth inning, featured by Pepper Martin's homer, enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to defeat the Almendares, 5 to 4, today in the second game of their four exhibitions here. A crowd of 8,000, including former President Carlos Mendieta, saw the game.

Ruiz pitched superbly for the Cubans and led 4 to 2 with two men out in the ninth. The Cuban right fielder, Roque, dropped Frank Frisch's fly and the rally started. Fred Ankenman, running for Leo Durocher, who previously had singled, scored on the error. Martin then hammered a drive to the center field flagpole, scoring behind Lyle Judy, who ran for Frisch.

St. Louis [N.]........000 020 003—5 10 0
Almendares ....001 200 100—4 6 2
Batteries—Halihan, Winford, Potter and Ogrodowski; S. Ruiz and Perkins.

REDS BEAT A's, 10 to 7.

Miami, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds opened their Grapefruit league season today, pounding four pitchers to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 10 to 7. Only 793 cash customers saw last season's sixth placers make 15 hits. All but one of the runs was earned.

Al Hollingsworth, young southpaw, pitched the first five innings for the Reds. He issued three straight passes in the third, but tightened up until relieved by Si Johnson in the fifth. The latter was hit safely seven times and gave four bases on balls.

COLEMAN HITTING HARD.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Ed Coleman, St. Louis Browns outfielder, not only is hitting the fences but is doing some effective bunting. And Manager Rogers Hornsby is pleased with both. No serious defensive practice yet has been undertaken.

ORDER LEIBER TO CAMP.

Pensacola, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Terry of the Giants, back here after a brief visit to Memphis for treatment of a swollen left knee, announced today he had sent a telegram to Outfielder Hank Leiber ordering him to camp to confer about his salary differences.

Leiber is at Tucson, coaching the University of Arizona team. He already is a week late in reporting and is the only unsigned Giant player.

PIRATES ADD 2 GAMES.

San Antonio, Tex., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Pie Traynor added two more exhibition games to the Pirates' spring schedule today, after watching all his veteran hurlers take their turn on the mound.

The first of the new exhibition contests will be at Laredo, Tex., on March 24, where the Corsairs will meet the San Antonio club. Two days later the Pirates will go to Sequin, to meet the Tulsa Oilers.

BERGER SIGNS, HITS HOMER.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—After signing his 1936 contract today, Wally Berger, the Boston Bees' outfield star, celebrated by belting the first ball pitched to him in batting practice far out into Tampa bay. It was one of the longest drives ever made in the Bees' camp.

BORDAGARAY HITS 'EM.

Clearwater, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Stanley [Frenchy] Bordagaray stole the show today as the second squad of Dodgers joined the early arrivals in camp, although Johnny Cooney, the slugger from Indianapolis, set a record of some sort by signing his contract 15 minutes after he reached camp.

Frenchy smacked two drives out of the park in his first batting drill.

PHILS HAVE FIDGETS.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—The Phillies have the fidgets—and Manager Jimmy Wilson thinks it's a good sign.

They're tired of the training camp routine and want action on the field. And club officials figure that's an indication they are rounding into condition.

Rain has halted the daily drills for the last two days, and made the players impatient to be on the move.

McCARTHY TUTORS ROOKIES.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Joe McCarthy held a special class for the Yankees' rookies today after letting the veterans off with a long batting and pitching drill. Joe Di Maggio, the $75,000 rookie, remained with the youngsters to hit. Red Rolfe, regular infielder, joined the squad today.

WES FERRELL HURT.

Sarasota, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—A line drive hit by Mel Almada struck Wes Ferrell on the pitching arm today and forced the Boston Red Sox ace to quit the practice session. The club trainer reported the ball caused a bruise that will prevent Ferrell from throwing for several days. The Sox ran out of pitchers during the workout and Manager Joe Cronin had to do the hurling during the last round of batting practice.

TIGERS PLAY GAME.

Lakeland, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—The pitching staff of the Detroit Tigers today appeared to have advanced beyond the batters in training. Lynwood Rowe and Jake Wade held an opposing nine to four scattered hits and no runs in a practice game while their teammates gathered eight runs off the offerings of Tommy Bridges and Chad Kimsey. Manager Mickey Cochrane's club was helped to victory by Chet Laabs' home run and two errors each by Second Baseman Al Simmons and Shortstop Gerald Walker.

Greenberg Is Not Going to Camp Monday

Detroit, Mich., March 6.—(AP)—Hank Greenberg, first baseman and leading run producer of the Detroit Tigers, confirmed today that he had not signed a 1936 contract and intimated that after Sunday, he may be among the holdouts.

Despite reports from the Lakeland, Fla., training camp that Greenberg was expected to arrive Sunday with the rest of the regular outfielders and infielders, the Detroit Free Press, after a telephone conversation with him at his New York home, quoted him tonight as saying he would not report.

The Free Press quoted Greenberg as saying, "I'm still waiting word from the Detroit office. I have not heard from anybody for several weeks.

"I have not signed any contract as yet," he continued, "but I promised the office I would not discuss publicly that question."

At the Tigers office Secretary Charles Navin, who handles all player contracts, said, "I have nothing to say about Mr. Greenberg."

Officials of the club have never announced salary figures and invariably have been noncommunicative about contracts.

Greenberg, reported at various times during the winter as a holdout, denied it, but left it clear he expected to receive an increase. In Miami this winter he indicated his figure might be near the $40,000 mark by saying he anticipated a 1936 salary above that of Lou Gehrig, $32,500.

JACK BLACKBURN AND COMPANION IN AFFRAY FREED

Jack Blackburn, colored trainer of Joe Louis, the boxer, and Willie Parnell, colored, were found not guilty of assault by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Robert C. O'Connell yesterday. The charge grew out of the serious wounding of Lucy Cannon, colored, 9 years old, 357 East 57th street, a bystander, during a gun battle between Blackburn and Parnell and John Bowman, colored, on a south side street last Oct. 20. Enoch Hauser, colored, 329 East 58th street, was killed by one of the bullets.

NORTHWESTERN SWIMMERS BEAT MINNESOTA, 50-34

Northwestern university's swimming team scored a 50 to 34 victory over the previously undefeated University of Minnesota squad last night at Patten gymnasium in the Wildcats' final home meet of the season. One world record and one conference mark were broken.

The first record shattering came in the 200 yard breast stroke when Gus Horschke, Northwestern, swam the distance in 2:27.2 to break the Big Ten mark by nearly three seconds. The new world record came in the 150 yard back stroke, when Northwestern's Dan Zehr whipped through the water in 1:34.6. The old record was 1:36.1. This mark also eclipsed the national intercollegiate record of 1:38.2.

GOLDEN GLOVES' '36 CHAMPIONS THRILL THRONG

Strong Team Picked for New York Battle.

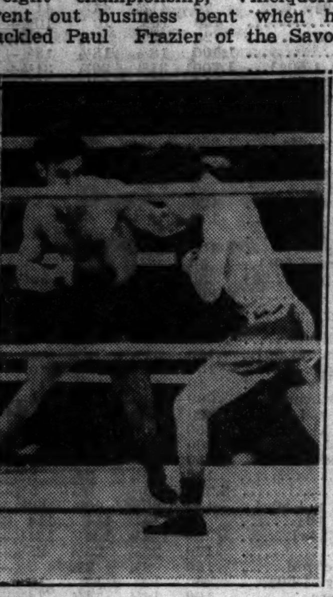
out two startling knockouts to win the middleweight championship. He stopped Hiner Thomas, C. Y. O. champion of Chicago, in the third session of his semi-final round engagement. Battling for the championship he was paired against Al Wardlow, Wilberforce university football star. Shivers shot a devastating right to Wardlow's chin early in the second round. He followed that blow with a left to the same spot. Down and out went the Wilberforce athlete.

Shivers is the Detroit colored boy who, according to the stories going around, gave Joe Louis more than one pasting in gymnasium workouts early in Louis' amateur career. The two victories Vinciquerra scored for the Omaha team also carried many thrills.

He almost had Joe Coussens out in the first round. At the count of eight the bell rang and it saved Coussens from a knockout. The Omaha boy hammered the Hoosier all around the ring in the final two rounds, but was not able to finish him. Still he got the decision by a wide margin.

Vinciquerra Wicked Puncher.

In the match for the light heavyweight championship, Vinciquerra went out business bent when he tackled Paul Frazier of the Savoy Athletic club. A right cross to the jaw delivered two minutes after the second round started floored Frazier and he never came up. He sprawled on the canvas, his eyes blinking into the floodlights while Referee Davy Miller counted him out.



Paul Spica, left, and Ted Kara, right, mix it up in the first round of their featherweight title bout. Kara won the decision.

Just before the flyweights started smacking one another in the scrap which opened the program, the tune of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" pealed out from the organ at the east end of the gigantic arena. A minute later the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club sang the Golden Gloves salute.

Then for two hours the 15 semi-final battles kept the crowd in a constant uproar. After a short intermission the American flag was unfurled to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner." Then the championship battles came one after another. All the west side echoed and reëchoed with cheers while these battles were in progress.

One of Largest Crowds.

The crowd, one of the largest that has ever watched a boxing show in the Stadium, gathered here from every part of the country. Boxers—17,000 of them—from 16 states and Canada had started out on this year's quest for Golden Gloves.

Every community in this wide empire had been aroused by the ambitious young men who attempted to qualify. Nearby states, too, became interested and enthusiastic. The result was that Golden Gloves fans from every part of the nation sought tickets. Twenty-one thousand of them were successful. More than 25,000 others sent their orders in too late.

Here's Detailed Story of How Champions Won Golden Gloves

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Details of the championship Golden Gloves bouts at the Chicago Stadium last night follow:

112 POUND CLASS

Jackie Wilson, Cleveland, defeated Sam Zaczek, C. Y. O., Chicago [3].

Zaczek retreated cautiously before his taller opponent and then came in with a right and left to the head. Wilson pawed futilely at Zaczek's head. He was puzzled by Zaczek's left handed stance. Midway in the first round Wilson landed a hard right to the side of the head.

Wilson had an advantage over the C. Y. O. boy in the next round, again because of his height and superior boxing. Zaczek could not get inside his guard and the Cleveland boy shot sharp uppercuts to the head.

Zaczek fought a defensive battle in the third round and neither boy was effective with his punches. Wilson clipped Zaczek with a sharp right uppercut to the jaw. Zaczek was very wild while Wilson sent home his blows with precision. The decision went to Wilson.

118 POUND DIVISION

Johnny Brown, C. Y. O., Chicago, defeated Paul Combs, Evansville [3].

Brown missed a sharp right to the face and they exchanged lefts. Combs hooked with a left and followed with a straight right to Brown's head. Brown forced Combs to the ropes and scored with a left and right to the body. Combs retreated before Brown's attack and the boys clinched. Combs crossed his right to Johnny's head. Brown missed with a left and Combs again scored with a right to the head. In the midest of a wild exchange as the bell rang Brown sent the Evansville boy reeling.

In the next round Combs tore in furiously. His boxing seemed unorthodox but he managed to plant his right on the side of Brown's head. In the middle of the round Brown crossed his right to the head and staggered Combs. Brown pumped both hands to the body. They exchanged left hooks to the head and in a semi-clinch Brown sent a right to the head.

At the start of the last round Combs landed a left hook to Johnny's head which almost dropped the Chicagoan. Johnny rallied sharply and the boys stood in the middle of the ring and engaged in one of the most vicious exchanges of the tournament. Prown forced the fighting, but Combs' accurate left hand brought the blood from his nose. Johnny thumped his left to the midriff at the bell. The decision went to Brown.

126 POUND DIVISION

Ted Kara, Cleveland, defeated Paul Spica, St. Louis [3].

Kara carried the battle to Spica. Spica, however, proved himself an able counter puncher and successive left jabs and sturdy right crosses reddened both boys' faces. Kara hammered Spica to the ropes and scored effectively with left and right hooks.

Kara opened the second round by ducking under Spica's attack and hammering him around the body. Kara lunged in with a sweeping left hook to the stomach and crossed his right to the head with jarring force. Spica was too high with a right and Kara staggered him with a series of blows to the head. Spica gamely refused to fall, however.

The boys kept up the hammer and tongs scrap in the third round. Everything went. In the close they scored with equal success. At a distance Kara proved the quicker and thumped his left and right to the head without error. Spica was wild and missed completely with a left hook. Kara received the unanimous decision.

135 POUND DIVISION

Pete Lello, Michigan City, defeated James Martin, C. Y. O., Chicago [3].

The opening of the first round was devoted to sparring. As Martin's blows were too high, Lello centered his attack to the midriff with telling results. Lello bobbed and weaved under Martin's punches but was unable to land effectively. Toward the close of the round they went into a two fisted exchange of punches along the ropes.

Lello took the offensive in the early portion of the second round, but Martin kept his chin well covered. Martin's straight punches landed, but without much force. Another bombardment followed along the ropes but Martin swung Lello to the mat in a clinch. The round ended without much damage being incurred by either boy.

They started the third round at a great pace. Both connected with successive left hooks. Martin missed and Lello rushed into him and both boys fell out of the ring and onto the apron outside of the ropes. They both returned immediately, however. Martin scored with both hands to the body near the close of the round but Lello sent in two left hooks to the head. Pete Lello was awarded the decision.

147 POUND DIVISION

Chester Rutecki, C. Y. O., Chicago, defeated Johnny Barbara, South Bend [3].

An exchange of left jabs opened the bout and Barbara scored with two short rights to the head, followed by a left hook. Rutecki then began to find the range with his right. A brilliant exchange of punches followed, with Rutecki having an edge. As Barbara failed to score with a left, he received a solid right to the head.

The second round opened with even greater action than the first. Rally followed rally. They exchanged hard punches to the head. Rutecki stepped in with a straight right to Johnny's head, but the latter bounced back with a body attack. Rutecki took the offensive near the end with hard rights to the head.

Rutecki staggered Barbara with a terrific right to the chin early in the third round, but was unable to follow up his advantage. The boys fought themselves out of every clinch. Toward the finish of the round Barbara counted with a nice right to the head. He followed this with a two fisted attack to the head that knocked off a patch covering Rutecki's left eye brow. They closed the round with a marvelous exhibition of punching. The decision went to Rutecki.

160 POUND DIVISION

Milton Shivers, Detroit, knocked out Al Wardlow, Dayton [2].

Wardlow opened the fight by shooting his left from his southpaw stance to Shivers' head. Shivers caught Wardlow coming in with a hard right and left to the head. Shivers chased Wardlow around the ring, but was unable to score with lefts to the head. Wardlow was content to dance backward most of the time, occasionally, however, stepping in with a left to the stomach.

Wardlow came in fast early in the second round only to catch a right to the side of the head which dropped him unconscious in a neutral corner. The round lasted only 33 seconds. It was the first knockout of the championship round and it required several minutes to revive Wardlow in the corner.

175 POUND DIVISION

Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha, knocked out Paul Frazier, Savoy Athletic club, Chicago [1].

Frazier, a clever boxer had all the best of the early part of the first round, jabbing and hooking prettily to the head. However, after two minutes and 12 seconds of the round he ran into a right cross to the chin and was counted out while laying flat on his back near the ropes. It was a clean knockout victory for the title for Vinciquerra.

HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION

Paul Hartnek, Omaha, defeated John Washington, Trafton's gymnasium, Chicago [3].

In the first round Hartnek weaved under a left lead and pumped both hands to the body, but Washington clubbed his right to the head twice. Hartnek kept lunging in, forcing the fighting, but generally was held off by the amazingly long arms of Washington. Hartnek kept trying valiantly to penetrate John's guard, but Washington's right halted him.

In the second round Hartnek hooked a sharp left to Washington's head. Washington reverted to his clubbing right handers, landing mostly on the top of Hartnek's head. Midway in the round Washington opened a vicious attack, flailing both hands to Hartnek's head. The latter retreated and covered up until the end of the round.

The heavyweights opened the last round desperately, swinging potential knockout blows, but they were too tired to have much effect. Washington protected his head with a long left jab, but Hartnek swung under his punches with ripping body blows. Hartnek drew blood from Washington's nose near the close of the round with a stinging left hook. The decision went to Hartnek.

JOE LOUIS SLIPS INTO RINGSIDE SEAT UNNOTICED

wrenched his shoulder in training and was unable to compete.

This bad break for the Danville fighter was a good one for Frazier. Because of Kranz's incapacity, the Savoy boxer became the only member of the select group of 32 to draw a bye, making his first fight in the semi-final round.

Bob Mackie, head of the Savoy club, rewarded his two representatives with dark blue trunks and robes trimmed in white.

Jack Elder, former Notre Dame football star, accompanied the C. Y. O. color bearers. Bruce Ferro, bantamweight, Milwaukee's lone survivor, was escorted to the festivities by Curtis Brown, former welterweight fighter.

Among those who came in overweight were Joe Chizar, South Bend News-Times, who scaled 114 pounds; Paul Combs, Evansville Courier-Journal, 120 pounds, and Paul Spica, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, 128 pounds. Each boy took off the surplus weight in the steamroom in the rear of the Stadium dressing rooms.

After the last of the boxers had headed for various restaurants to eat a steak and all the trimmings Stadium employés laid out double rows of cots on which the boys rested while waiting their turn to box.

Long before the first pair of fighters entered the ring at 8 p. m. arrangements had been made to handle copy written by more than 200 newspaper men.

Paul Hartnek, heavyweight, and Carl Vinciquerra, light heavyweight, members of the Omaha World Herald team, had loyal support from Jack Mackay and Ray Fetter, who hitchhiked the 550 miles from Omaha in order to root for their favorites. Both young men, fellow students of Vinciquerra at Omaha Tech three years ago, left Omaha Monday. They reached the west side arena shortly before 5 o'clock and were first to step in line for the general admission tickets which went on sale three hours later.

Just before the bouts the boxers whiled away time collecting autographs from each other.

Joe Sekyra, Dayton heavyweight; Mickey O'Neil, junior lightweight, and George Nate, South Bend featherweight, all three professional boxers, seconded out-of-town survivors.

An old cut over Chester Rutecki's left eye was patched up by Dick Fitzpatrick and Gene Higgins, C. Y. O. trainers, before his first match against Billy Burke, Cleveland Plain Dealer welterweight.

The crowd began arriving at 7 o'clock. By the time the first pair of semi-finalists crawled through the ropes, the huge arena was more than three-quarters filled.

Station W-G-N went on the air with a blow by blow account of the fights at 10 p. m. and NBC broadcast from 11:15 o'clock until the program was ended. The W-G-N microphone was handled by Quinn Ryan and Jack Burnett. The NBC broadcast was in charge of Clem McCarthy and Hal Totten.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—Dear Wake: Two lots on 14th street, forty-eight feet west of Loomis on the south side of the street, show these improvements, according to old tax records recently unearthed:

May 12, 1875—Lamp posts from Center avenue to Ashland	$ 8.24
Oct. 3, 1879—Cindering street	1.76
June 22, 1883—Drains	35.82
June 22, 1883—Water pipes	56.82
May 9, 1884—Curbing, filling, and paving	445.32
Aug. 12, 1884—48 feet of sidewalk	43.80

The assessed value of each of these lots in 1863 was $65, increasing to $200 in 1867, $500 in 1871, $700 in 1872, and declining to $334 in 1875. Thereafter they ranged downward from $311 in 1877 to $235 in 1888 and $135 in 1892, the last record. Taxes ranged from a low of $1.72 in 1863 to a high of $19.70 in 1872, and then declined again. Henry Warren, treasurer of McVicker's theater in the early days and brother of William Warren, celebrated Boston comedian, had three daughters and two sons. The oldest daughter sang on the stage between acts [early '60s]. Miss Warren became the wife of William Castle, tenor of Italian Opera company who sang here about 1865, and not so very long ago taught voice culture in the Auditorium building.

The second daughter became the wife of Frank Wentworth, at one time manager of Sherman house and other Chicago hotels. The youngest daughter was Mrs. Joseph Jefferson ["The Rivals," "Lord Dundreary," "Rip Van Winkle," etc.].

The oldest son, Billy, went to Kansas City to open and manage the then new Bates hotel about 1870. The youngest son, Harry, was a female impersonator and fancy dancer until he broke a toe in a stage accident and drifted into comedy, "Fun in a Photograph Gallery." "53."

Back in Chicago's early days barbers had to be husky, as many men shaved only once or twice a week and their whiskers were like barbed wire. And their breath was much stronger from pipes and whisky. When the saloonkeeper came into the shop for a shave all the barbers bowed to him, for they knew he was good for a generous tip to the man whose chair he chose. Customers who didn't tip were lucky to get any attention for their two bit haircut. Friend Bat.

Patty Berg Is Beaten, 1 Up, by Mrs. Hill

St. Augustine, Fla., March 6.—[Special.]—There will be another championship golf match tomorrow, when the Florida east coast women's championship is decided, but Patty Berg won't be one of the contending parties.

Miss Berg, the 18 year old Minneapolis girl who was runnerup for the 1935 national title and who has dominated the winter tournament season, today met her match in Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, who defeated her in one of the semi-final battles, 1 up. Tomorrow Mrs. Hill will meet another veteran, Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews of Miami, for the championship. Mrs. Crews, the defending titleholder, advanced to the final with a 2 and 1 victory over Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., western champion.

It was Miss Berg's third defeat in 15 tournament matches, and the first time this year that she has failed to reach the championship final in an event she has entered.

Mrs. Crews shot the best medal round of the day in her victory over Miss Miley, a 73, only one stroke over men's par and seven under women's figures.

BULB THROWERS AT HOCKY GAME WIN DISMISSAL

Judge J. M. Braude in the Boys' court yesterday dismissed disorderly conduct charges against three theology students of the Broadview academy in La Grange, accused of having tossed electric light bulbs on the ice in the Chicago Stadium during the Blackhawk hocky game Thursday.

The dismissal came after the boys promised to sweep the dormitory floors in the seminary for a week. The students are Carl Kuhlman, 28 years old, and Paul Herber, 19, both of Shattuck, Okla., and John Carey, 23, of Baton Rouge, La.

POPP, VAN RYZIN, STAR ATHLETES, QUIT WISCONSIN

Spears Denies "Talking To" Regular Full Back.

Madison, Wis., March 6.—[Special.]—The University of Wisconsin campus again was alive with rumors this afternoon when the news spread that Tony Popp and Art Van Ryzin, sophomore members of the football and basketball teams, respectively, had dropped out of school and returned to their homes in Appleton.

From one quarter it was reported that financial difficulties was the principal reason for their departure. From another it was learned that Van Ryzin, speedy little reserve guard on Bud Foster's basketball team, was dissatisfied during the season and that he was talked out of quitting several weeks ago.

Spears "Knows Nothing."

Another report was that Popp, regular full back on the 1935 team during the last half of the season, was one of several football players planning to follow Dr. Clarence W. Spears, ousted Wisconsin football coach, to his new post at Toledo university. Spears said he knew nothing of the matter, adding that he doubted there was anything to it.

"I haven't approached any of these boys and none of them has told me of any intention to enroll at Toledo," Spears said tonight.

Guy Sundt, acting head football coach for spring practice and a candidate for the athletic directorship, said that Popp told him yesterday he and Van Ryzin were leaving school, but gave no reason.

That Makes Four.

Popp is the fourth varsity football player to drop out of the university this semester. The others were Bob Null, Erv Windward, and Lyn Hoveland, an end, quarter back, and guard, respectively. Bob Weaver, brilliant frosh prospect from Stevens Point, failed to register for the second semester.

Members of the university regent-faculty committee were preparing today to meet Monday for a discussion of the Big Ten threat to suspend Wisconsin unless assurance is given that the faculty is in control of athletics. The conference, called yesterday by President Glenn Frank, will precede by one day the board of regents meeting to begin the process of reconstructing the university's riddled athletic department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 6.—The treasury's announcement of the heavy oversubscription of the government's recent offering of $1,250,000,000 in new securities stimulated further heavy buying in United States government loans today. Trading in those issues again held the spotlight as 20 of the 21 long term federal bonds rose to new high levels for the year, while 17 were carried to the highest prices since their issuance.

Today's net gains ranged from 1-32 to 8-32 point, and the trading pace was stepped up to a turnover of $2,481,000, as compared with $2,083,000 on Thursday.

Other High Grades Active.

Other high grade bonds were also in good demand with investors still showing eagerness for new low interest bearing obligations as well as the more seasoned bonds.

With the exception of a moderate demand in some sections of the secondary railroad list, trading in the general list of corporate bonds was routine in character with only minor price fluctuations recorded. The volume of trading in the corporate issues also fell somewhat below the recent average.

Phone Issues Advance.

The bonds of International Telephone and Telegraph and Colorado Industrial were in good demand at higher prices. Elsewhere price swings were narrow and mixed.

Foreign dollar bonds were in somewhat better demand today with Italian loans rallying rather sharply, while many of the Latin American issues showed fractional to point gains.

Flour Mills of America.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Flour Mills of America 6½s.—S. R.

Answer: Flour Mills of America, Inc., processes "Made-Rite," "Honey Bee," "Big 7," "Enterprise," and "Dainty" brands of flours. It owns 15 mills in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Illinois, and Wisconsin, with an aggregate capacity of 25,000 barrels of flour a day.

The company's record of earnings over the last nine years has been fairly good, but during the last three of those years the trend has been downward. Earnings should be helped this year by the Supreme court's invalidation of the agricultural adjustment act.

Although sales in the year ended May 31, 1935, were greater than in the preceding year, an unsatisfactory price structure prevented the company from earning more than 46 per cent of its fixed charges. In the preceding year fixed charges were earned 1.33 times, against 1.71 times in the May 31, 1933, year, and 2.08 times in the May 31, 1932, year.

On May 31, 1935, working capital was $3,453,000, in comparison with funded debt of $2,800,000. During the year the company reduced its funded debt $700,000, although working capital dropped only $122,000. The 6½ per cent unsecured notes, due April 1, 1946, are somewhat speculative. They are convertible into nine shares of preferred and five shares of common for each $1,000 note until March 31, 1936, when the conversion privilege will expire.

Obtaining Payment on a Bond.

Investors' Guide: Being a reader of your column for years, I am seeking your valued advice about a registered bond, Inland Steel, due 1978, which I own. The bonds were called for redemption on April 1. I would like to know the safest and least expensive way to send it in from start to finish.—Mrs. B. W.

Answer: The least troublesome and the best method of cashing the bond at maturity would be to deposit it with your local bank and instruct your banker to send it through for collection.

Otherwise the most practical method would be to send it by registered mail to First National bank, Chicago, the paying agent, who would then send you a check for the amount due.

SALES, PROFITS OF FAIRBANKS, MORSE HIGHER

Earnings for Last Year Largest Since 1929.

Sales of Fairbanks, Morse & Co. in 1935 were the largest since 1930 and earnings were the best since 1929, the company reported yesterday.

Net sales were $18,221,000, an increase of 44 per cent over the 1934 total of $12,551,000. Net profit after all charges was $1,466,000, equal after preferred dividends to $2.47 a share on the common stock. Net profit in 1934 was $563,846, or 28 cents a share on the common.

Earn Most in Last Half.

S. T. Kiddoo, vice president and treasurer, said $2.06 of the $2.47 earned on the common stock was made in the last six months of the year. Sales so far this year, he added, are running 30 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1935 period. The management, he said, is "quite optimistic."

Under the plan of recapitalization approved late in 1935 the company wiped out dividend arrearages of $24.50 a share on the preferred stock through a distribution of cash and new common stock. Common stock outstanding consisted of 434,528 shares at the end of 1935, compared with 368,871 shares a year earlier. The old 7 per cent preferred stock was retired in exchange for 65,657 shares of new 6 per cent preferred.

Diversifies Business.

The company has steadily diversified its business in recent years. Last month the company announced plans for reopening its Indianapolis plant, which is expected to be in full production by May or June. The company will concentrate its home appliance manufacturing activities in that plant, which is undergoing a $100,000 modernization program.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE; 18 ISSUES MAKE NEW HIGHS

Chicago stocks moved slightly higher yesterday in a moderate turnover of 90,000 shares. Although 18 issues made new highs for the year, most of the gains were fractional.

Kellogg Switchboard preferred, which soared 20 points after announcement of a plan for erasing dividend arrears, partly through issuance of common stock. The common declined nearly a point to 9. Interstate Power preferred sold at 28 in its first 1936 appearance on the tape, up 7¾ from the last previous sale.

Cord again was the most active of the list, with 9,300 share turnover, but reacted ⅛ to 6⅞. Bliss & Laughlin advanced to another new high at 30⅛ and closed at 29⅞, up 1⅛. Other new highs were made by Prima, Kingsbury, and Heileman. Advance Aluminum, Cities Service, Bendix, Butler Brothers, Middle West, Brown Fence, Adama Manufacturing, Bruce, Crane preferred, Dayton Rubber common and A, Jarvis, McGraw Electric, Lion Oil, and Public Service 6 per cent preferred.

Central and South West and Central Illinois Public Service preferred issues rose sharply.

PRODUCE - MARKETS

Butter prices declined ⅝@1¼c per lb yesterday as the result of liberal arrivals and reports of rapidly increasing production. Receipts were 10,077 tubs. Fresh eggs were in fairly good demand, with prices steady to ¼c per doz higher, current receipts leading the upturn. Arrivals were 9,887 cases. Live geese were unchanged to 1c per lb lower and other poultry was steady. Receipts totaled 1 car and 24 trucks. Potatoes were in light supply, with prices showing little change. Receipts were 78 cars, with 173 cars on team track.

RFC BANK LOAN FRAUD CHARGES BRING DENIALS

Stransky Stands Pat on Allegations.

HARRY B. HURD.

Charges that the Reconstruction Finance corporation and key men of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company defrauded stockholders of the bank in connection with the $90,000,000 "Dawes loan" of 1932 were disavowed yesterday on behalf of attorneys defending former officials of the bank in the RFC suit to collect $14,000,000 double liability from stockholders to make up an expected deficiency in repayment.

The suit, being heard by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson without a jury, neared its end yesterday as final defense arguments were finished. RFC lawyers will offer rebuttal arguments this morning, and expect to close the case Tuesday.

Edward R. Johnston, whose clients number approximately 45 and who face an alleged liability of nearly $2,000,000, made the disclaimer yesterday.

Stransky "Stands Pat."

"I am standing squarely on what I said yesterday," replied Franklin J. Stansky, counsel for 1,450 small shareholders. "Unfortunately, I am not interested in any director of the old or the new bank. I'm only interested in my clients. I was only stating facts. The facts are here; let the chips fall where they may."

Stransky had said the City National Bank and Trust company obtained the benefit of the final $50,000,000 advanced by the RFC, not stockholders of the old bank, and that if any liability existed it was against those who benefited from the loan.

"In regard to the arguments made by Stransky," Johnston had said, "I wish to state we do not impute any conscious effort or purpose on the part of officials of the old or new bank to defraud stockholders or any one else. I believe there is no justification in the record for charges of a deliberate attempt to defraud stockholders."

Attorneys Hold Conference.

Johnston's statement was made after a conference with Col. George T. Buckingham, Ralph Shaw, and Harry B. Hurd. Hurd, counsel and director of both the old and new banks, was dissuaded from making a defense of the loan transactions, it was learned, and the simple disavowal by Johnston agreed to.

Shaw represents the Dawes interests, including the alleged liability of nearly $1,000,000 against Dawes Bros., Inc.

Johnston, in addition to representing his partner, Conrad Poppenhusen, is counsel for the Greenebaum interests, second largest holder in the old bank, with aggregate stock of approximately $500,000. Poppenhusen was a director of the Central Republic and is a shareholder in the City National bank.

Col. Buckingham, a director of the old bank, is representing himself and a group whose stockholdings date back to the Chicago Trust company, one of the group which became the Central Republic bank.

Join in Disavowal.

These three groups and Hurd joined in the disavowal. Other attorneys were silent, accepting the Stransky arguments by inference. It was agreed at the start of the case that any arguments made were on behalf of all defendants unless otherwise stated.

In the course of closing defense arguments Samuel M. Rinaker said that Stransky had proved conclusively that the 50 million loan was a separate transaction and then argued that stockholders' liability cannot be enforced because the loan was made after the bank ceased to do a banking business. He cited the Illinois constitution in support of his argument that stockholders can be held only for liabilities accrued in the ordinary course of business and while the bank was doing a regular banking business.

Court Asks Validity Arguments.

Judge Wilkerson instructed the RFC counsel to include in their rebuttal further arguments concerning the validity of the original loan agreement of June 27, 1932, as a contract covering all advances made by the RFC. Defense attorneys have hammered repeatedly at this agreement, contending that the original commitment was not a binding contract and that the final advance of $50,000,000 on Oct. 6, 1932, was a separate and illegal loan.

The court also asked the RFC to present arguments that the Central Republic was a banking institution when the final advance was made. The defense have contended that it was not, having ceased to do a general banking business the preceding day, further making the final loan illegal.

Inter. Business Machines Earnings Slightly Higher

International Business Machines and subsidiaries reported 1935 net income, including undistributed earnings of foreign subsidiaries, of $7,090,530, equal to $9.88 a share on 717,412 shares of capital stock outstanding at the end of the year. This compared with $6,597,362, or $9.38 a share on 703,345 shares, in 1934.

Padding Lifts Subscriptions to U.S. Bonds

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., was announcing in Washington yesterday that his latest offering of government bonds was oversubscribed nearly seven times evidence was disclosed by treasury officials themselves that this apparently fine showing was accomplished by heavy "padding" of subscriptions.

The treasury announced that subscriptions totaling 8 billion, 439 million dollars were received for its March cash offering of 1 billion, 250 millions in securities. The bond offering of 650 millions brought cash subscriptions of 5 billions, 106 millions, and bids totaling 3 billion, 353 millions were received for the offer of 600 millions in notes. The bonds are of 12 to 15 year maturity paying 2¾ per cent annually and the five year notes pay 1½ per cent.

Morgenthau Finds Padding.

Secretary Morgenthau himself brought up the subject of "padded" subscriptions on Thursday when he said that many of the bids were not bona fide. He mentioned particularly an unnamed "middle west manufacturer" who had offered what he termed a "terrific subscription."

It was learned yesterday that officials of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, acting upon treasury instructions, had been calling in Chicago business men whose subscriptions the treasury suspected of being "padded" and questioning them concerning the amount of bonds they really wanted to buy. Asked about this procedure officers of the bank said they were merely carrying out orders from Washington.

The identity of the "middle west manufacturer" whom Secretary Morgenthau had mentioned as offering a "terrific subscription" was not disclosed, but Chicago bankers were agreeing in their guesses that it was a well known Chicagoan, the head of one of the largest companies in the middle west.

Surprise at "Discovery."

Bankers expressed surprise at Secretary Morgenthau's sudden attack on "padded" subscriptions. It has been no secret in La Salle street that for three years banks have been following the practice of bidding for larger amounts of bonds than they expect to be allotted. Banking laws prohibit individual banks in any treasury financing from bidding for an amount equal to more than 50 per cent of the total of their capital and surplus combined. This restriction, however, is not scaled sufficiently low to prevent the banks' subscribing for more bonds than they want or expect to get.

For three years, knowing that if they want a certain amount of bonds they must bid for more than that amount, the banks have been "padding" their subscriptions.

The treasury has winked at this practice, because the resulting oversubscriptions has made it appear that the demand for its offerings is tremendous. Bankers yesterday pointed out that the treasury did little to discourage the practice of "padding" until the financing was completed.

Hard to Get Allotments.

"Padding" of subscriptions by the banks and bond dealers has made it increasingly difficult for corporations with surplus funds to obtain allotments. For that reason the corporations too have fallen into the habit of asking for more bonds than they want in the hope of getting an allotment approximating their needs. To the extent that they fail to get the bonds they need they are forced to buy them later from dealers and bankers, usually at higher prices.

The anonymous manufacturer assailed by Secretary Morgenthau is understood to have asked for 10 millions of the new bonds. When quizzed by officers of the federal reserve bank, it is reported, he candidly admitted that he wanted only 2 millions, and had made the higher bid in the hope of getting approximately what he needed in the customary scaling down of bids which follows each treasury offering. His company is understood to have sufficient surplus funds to have absorbed the full 10 million had it been allotted that amount.

Allotments' Fate Announced

Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday that subscriptions for the long term bonds up to $5,000 would be allotted in full and those in amounts exceeding $5,000 would be allotted 13 per cent. Subscriptions up to $5,000 to the 5 year notes will be allotted in full and those of more than $5,000 will be allotted 18 per cent.

The treasury also announced that holders of practically all of the notes maturing April 15 had accepted new notes or bonds in exchange for their maturing notes and that about 90 per cent of the exchanges were for the long term bonds.

THIS SEEMS TO PROVE THAT COAL IS GRADED IN VERY NUTTY SIZES

Why three by two inch nut coal is known by that name was the subject of discussion at an interstate commerce commission hearing yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, where a number of Illinois operators are seeking a reduction in freight rates on bituminous coal shipped into Missouri.

Discovery by Examiner R. N. Trezise that three by two inch nut coal is actually coal of a size of 3 inches or less in diameter led him to philosophizing about names.

"The term in a sense is nonsense," he observed. "But I advise against expanding your imagination to the snapping point in an effort to learn, if you can, the significance of varying coals such as 3x1½, 3x1¼, 2x1¼, chestnut, walnut, butternut, or just nut or nuts as the case may be."

More Firms Vote Higher Dividend Rate

Increases in dividends, through special payments or the boosting of regular rates, were authorized yesterday by directors of a number of corporations.

The Balaban & Katz corporation announced a payment of $5.25 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock, payable April 1. The distribution clears up accrued dividends on the issue.

Common stock dividends were resumed in January when a quarterly of 25 cents and an extra of 25 cents were paid. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock also has been declared. Both dividends are payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 20.

PARKER PEN NET HIGHER; TAXES EQUAL DIVIDEND

The Parker Pen company yesterday reported net earnings of $447,951, after all charges for 1935, equal to $2.34 a share on 191,044 shares of common stock. This compares with $389,267, or $2.05 a share on 189,544 shares, in 1934. A substantial increase in sales was also reported, the combined volume of domestic and foreign business gaining more than 27 per cent. Domestic sales alone increased more than 32½ per cent, the company said.

The report pointed out that tax provisions of the domestic corporation for 1935 amounted to $128,283, equivalent to 67 cents a share on the common stock, compared with the 70 cents a share paid to stockholders in dividends. The stock is now on a basis of $1 annually and dividends have already been declared on that basis for the first three-quarters of this year. Current assets on Dec. 31, 1935, amounted to $3,041,491, including cash of $240,665, against current liabilities of $992,244. Detroit, Mich., March 6.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company announced today it had let contracts to the Stacey Brothers Gas Construction company of Cincinnati for construction of a $1,000,000 welded steel gas holder, the largest of its type in the world. The holder, to be erected at the Ford River Rouge plant, will have a capacity of 10 million cubic feet.

EARNINGS OF FORMER INSULL UTILITY UNITS CUT INTO BY TAXES

Mounting taxes continued to cut heavily into profits of two units of the former Insull utility group, their annual reports disclosed yesterday.

Illinois Northern Utilities company, once a Middle West Utilities unit and now controled by the Commonwealth Edison company, found it necessary to set aside 11.41 cents out of each dollar of income for taxes, compared with 10.22 cents in the preceding year.

Kentucky Utilities company, a Middle West subsidiary, reported that taxes, exclusive of federal income levies, amounted to 68 per cent of preferred dividends paid. Total taxes were $847,523, against $483,508 in 1934.

Despite increased operating expenses both companies reported increases in profits for 1935. Net income of Illinois Northern amounted to $620,250, compared with $558,992 in 1934. Current assets on Dec. 31, last, totaled $1,884,423, compared with current liabilities of $674,531.

Kentucky Utilities reported profit of $1,161,783, compared with $522,165 a year earlier. Current assets on Dec. 31 totaled $3,326,262 and current liabilities $2,215,683.

COURT HOLDS UP WORK ON 2 U. S. POWER SYSTEMS

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Seven Texas electric power companies doing an annual business approximately $35,000,000, appealed to the District court today for an injunction against construction of two huge central Texas power systems toward which the federal government has allocated 50 million dollars and obtained a ten day restraining order halting work on the projects. A hearing will be held later.

The plaintifs were the Community Public Service company, the Dallas Power and Light company, the Gulf States Utilities company, the Houston Lighting and Power company, the Texas Electric Service company, the Texas Power and Light company, and the Texas Utilities company.

Projects involved are unified electric systems planned by the lower Colorado river authority and the Brazos river conservation and reclamation district. Together the systems would supply current for the entire central portion of the state. Eight dams with hydro-electric generating plants would be constructed on the Colorado and at least nine on the Brazos or its tributaries.

TWO FIRMS HERE SEEK DELISTING OF STOCK ISSUES

Washington, D. C., March 6.—The securities and exchange commission today called a hearing for 10 a. m. on March 20 on the application of the Balaban & Katz corporation to withdraw from listing and registration on the Chicago Stock exchange 26,126 shares of its 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

The company stated that after redemption on May 1 of half of the stock, the shares outstanding would be held by less than 300 persons and would be redeemed in May, 1939. Trading in such stock has been negligible and the exchange agreed with the company that trading would not justify maintaining the listing.

On March 21 at 10 a. m. the commission will hold a hearing on the application of the Allied Brewing and Distilling company, Inc., to withdraw from listing and registration on the Chicago Curb exchange 347,214 shares of its common stock now issued and 73,661 shares authorized for addition to listing upon notice of issuance. Stated reasons are the elimination of certain legal and accounting costs, and market inactivity.

Cram's Reports Sharp Rise in Auto Output This Week

Detroit, Mich., March 6.—(AP)—Cram's Reports, Inc., said today that production of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada rose sharply this week to 84,705 units, compared to 64,956 units for the previous week. A year ago this week production was 86,973 units. With most of the major plants on regular schedules, another increase is expected next week, the report said.

Walgreen Has Highest Sales for February

The Walgreen company yesterday reported the largest February sales on record, but Montgomery Ward & Co.'s gross sales for the month dropped slightly below the corresponding month of 1935, the first year-to-year decline since January, 1933.

Stormy weather did particular damage to Ward's sales in the retail stores, most of which are located in the smaller cities and towns serving the rural trade. The company's gross sales of $17,854,609 were 0.28 per cent below the $17,904,886 for February, 1935. In January the total was $18,508,149, compared with $17,418,152 a year ago.

Walgreen Gain Is 9.1 Pct.

Walgreen sales amounted to $5,059,467, an increase of $422,061, or 9.1 per cent over the $4,637,406 for February, last year, which was the previous record high for the month. In the first two months of 1936 the company's sales were $9,804,061, an increase of $468,051, or 5 per cent, over the $9,336,010 for the corresponding two months of last year.

The W. T. Grant company also reported a new high for February, with a total of $5,753,923, against $5,578,375 a year ago, up 3.1 per cent. The total for the F. W. Woolworth company was the highest for the month in five years, amounting to $19,015,779, an increase of 4.3 per cent over the $18,218,915 for the like month of 1935.

Spiegel, May, Stern Expands.

The Spiegel, May, Stern company reported an increase of 20.27 per cent in sales during February as compared with a year ago, while the National Tea company announced a decline of 5.42 per cent for the same period.

Net sales of $1,945,122 for Spiegel, May, Stern compared with $1,617,261 a year ago, and represented the thirty-seventh consecutive month in which a year-to-year gain was shown. For the first two months of the year sales of $3,402,611 were 18 per cent above the $2,877,730 a year ago.

National Tea sales amounted to 4,662,014 in the second period ended Feb. 29, compared with $4,927,167 a year ago. The decline was attributed to severe weather in the midle west.

Dollar Holds About Steady; Franc Rises Half Point

Only a few minor changes occurred in dollar exchange rates yesterday. The pound sterling remained at $4.99⅛, while French francs rose ½ point to 6.67¼ cents, placing the value of the dollar against francs at 99.41 cents, compared with 99.49 cents Thursday.

NATION'S TRADE RISES WITH MILD WEATHER; INDUSTRIES EXPAND

New York, March 6.—(AP)—With improved weather serving as the principal stimulus, retail trade experienced a brisk recovery during the last week, said Dun & Bradstreet today in their weekly summary of trade conditions.

The distribution, in many instances, reached the highest totals since last December, and wholesalers were reported pressed for long overdue shipments and received postponed commitments for spring merchandise.

The summary also reported stronger indications of general industrial expansion, with the durable goods division favored.

"Except in the few districts where the thaw brought a disturbing menace of floods, retail sales for all the principal centers of distribution rose, with the gains over the week previous running as high as 25 to 30 per cent," the review said. "This lifted the estimated average for the country 8 to 12 per cent above the comparative 1935 period.

"Widening the improvement that started in the preceding week, greater activity spread to practically all branches of the wholesale trade, with buying particularly accelerated in spring merchandise. Retailers hastened to place their long postponed orders for goods required in pre-Easter promotions and made generous specifications for staples needed for current demand, as consumer buying continued to rise."

$414,690 PROFIT TAKEN BY RFC ON CHICAGO BONDS

41 Million Sanitary District Loan Sold.

An issue of $41,469,000 of 4 per cent bonds of the Sanitary District of Chicago, purchased early yesterday from the Reconstruction Finance corporation by a banking syndicate headed by the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was reoffered later in the day and heavily oversubscribed, the bank reported. Fifty-five instiutions participated in the deal, which was said to be the largest single sale of municipal securities ever handled in the middle west.

The RFC sold the bonds at 101 and collected a premium of $414,690, including accrued interest. It was the second big windfall for the government in its dealings with Chicago municipalities. The RFC purchased $22,300,000 of Chicago Board of Education bonds in June of 1934 for the payment of back salaries to teachers. The bonds were sold subsequently to Chicago banks at a premium of $223,000.

Originally Sold to PWA.

The Sanitary District bonds had originally been sold to the Public Works administration in order to carry on the building of the heavy sewage disposal program in Chicago made necessary by the Supreme court ruling in the lake level case, cutting Chicago's diversion from Lake Michigan to 1,500 cubic feet per second by the end of 1938.

The issue had been handed over to the RFC for sale under an authorization of congress that permits the lending corporation to hold 250 million dollars' worth of PWA securities at one time.

Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes declared in Washington that the bond sale vindicated the judgment of PWA in advancing the funds to the district. He said that the price paid by the syndicate was approximately $8,000,000 above that at which the district securities could have been purchased in the depressed market a few years ago.

The bonds offered yesterday are due in 1955 but can mature optionally in varying amounts from 1937 to 1954. Public offering was made at prices to yield 1 to 3.77 per cent, according to maturity.

Bank Repays 35 Millions.

The RFC reported it had received $35,706,038 from the receiver of the First National Bank of Detroit, which paid the receiver's indebtedness to the corporation in full. The payment was made possible, through a loan to the receiver by the Manufacturers' National Bank of Detroit.

The RFC had made three loans to the Detroit bank. They were as follows: Oct. 31, 1933, $38,000,000; Dec. 15, 1933, $35,609,000; and Aug. 24, 1934, $91,000,000.

According to the most recent figures the RFC has authorized $1,199,245,775 for distribution to depositors of 2,671 closed banks. Of this amount $213,260,938 was canceled or withdrawn and $100,985,173 remains available to borrowers. Disbursements amounted to $884,999,663, of which $676,357,845 has been repaid.

PUBLIC SERVICE (N. J.) NET SINKS TO $2.53 A SHARE

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Consolidated net income of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and subsidiaries in 1935 amounted to $23,773,509, equal to $2.53 a share on the common stock, after preferred dividends, compared with $2.82 a share earned in 1934. The decline amounted to $1,579,442.

Operating revenues were $119,226,428, against $120,430,038 in 1934, a decline of $1,203,610. Net operating income after expenses, depreciation, and taxes was $1,207,453 lower at $38,564,133. Taxes were $18,946,466, those applicable to subsidiaries equaling 15.5 per cent of gross revenue and 32.4 per cent of combined net earnings.

Sales of electricity increased 7 per cent over 1934 and were nearly 6 per cent over 1931, the previous best year. All classes of consumers used more electricity, but revenues declined owing to rate reductions aggregating $5,177,300 a year made effective in June.

BUTT WELD PIPE PRICES REDUCED FIVE PER CENT

Youngstown, O., March 6.—(AP)—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company announced today a 5 per cent price reduction on butt weld pipe and a "lesser reduction on lap weld pipe." The company said that no other prices have been announced, adding there is "no change in the price of oil country goods."

Month's Steel Output Lower.

New York, March 6.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute announced today that steel ingot production in February amounted to 2,967,803 tons, a daily average of 118,712 tons, compared with production of 3,049,439 tons in January, or a daily average of 112,942 tons. The industry operated at a rate of 54.09 per cent of capacity last month, against 41.46 per cent in the previous month.

A year ago the February output was 2,777,765 tons, an average of 115,740 tons a day, or 52.28 per cent of capacity.

Taxes 4 Times '35 Net Profit of U.S. Rubber

F. B. DAVIS JR.
[U. & U. Photo.]

Takes paid by the United States Rubber company in 1935 exceeded net profits more than four times and equaled a full year's dividend on preferred stock plus $3.34 a share on common stock, the company's annual report disclosed yesterday. In contrast, earnings were equivalent to only $3.24 a share on the preferred stock, or far short of the $8 annual requirement. Nothing was left for common stockholders.

The report, issued by F. B. Davis Jr., chairman, shows net profit for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, of $2,231,378, compared with a deficit of $573,634 in the preceding year. Net sales amounted to $127,793,615, an increase of $22,316,734, or 21 per cent, over 1934.

Shows Burden of Taxes.

"Taxes," said Davis in his message to stockholders accompanying the statement, "are an increasingly heavy burden. Their cost last year was $10,105,000, exclusive of the invisible taxes included in the cost of materials and of wages. Processing taxes have been declared unconstitutional but relief from this source is largely offset by an increase in excise taxes.

"A new tax for the social security act must be provided in 1936 equal to 1 per cent of the total salaries and wages paid by the company. This addition to the tax burden will approximate $350,000. In 1937 the cost will be 3 per cent to the company and 1 per cent to employés, increasing subsequently to 6 per cent for the company and 3 per cent for employés. At these maximum rates the company's cost, based on 1935 pay rolls, will be $2,100,000 and the amount contributed by employés $1,050,000."

Current Assets Increase.

Total current assets at the close of the year amounted to $62,545,527, including $11,141,828 in cash. Current and accrued liabilities totaled $15,266,616. At the close of 1934 current liabilities were $57,743,651 and current liabilities $14,178,463. Net quick assets on Dec. 31, 1935, amounted to $47,278,911, compared with $43,565,188 a year earlier.

Net book value of all properties, according to the report, was $66,941,851 at the end of 1935, a reduction of $6,804,989 for the year. Net worth of common stock, of which 1,464,371 shares were outstanding, was $13,696,563, or $9.35 a share, excluding goodwill, patents, and other items carried in the balance sheet.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—The General Electric company today reported that profits for 1935 were the highest in four years. At the same time directors raised the dividend rate on the company's common stock and announced the distribution of $1,070,000 to employés under the company's profit-sharing plan.

Directors authorized the distribution of a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share to be paid April 25 to stockholders of record March 13. This was an incerase of 5 cents a share over the 20 cent rate that has been in effect during the last two quarters. Total dividends of 65 cents a share were paid in 1935.

Net Near 28 Millions.

Net income for 1935 was $27,843,000, equal to 97 cents a share on common, the best showing made since 1931. In 1934 the company earned $19,726,000, or 59 cents a share.

Business billed in 1935 totaled $208,733,000, an increase of 27 per cent over 1934 billings of $164,797,000. Orders received during the year were $217,361,000, a gain of 18 per cent over the preceding year.

The company ended the year in a well fortified financial position, with current assets of $166,965,000, including cash and marketable securities of $93,710,000. Current liabilities were $26,666,000.

The company paid a total of $88,746,000 wages to 55,706 employés in 1935 as compared with payments of $75,227,000 to 42,642 workers in 1934. The average wage in 1935 was $1,593, against $1,515 in 1934.

Plant Valuation Lower.

The company listed the net value of all plants at the close of 1935 at $35,836,000, against $39,852,000 a year earlier. The decrease in plant value resulted from the excess of abandonment and depreciation over new additions.

The first distribution under the general profit sharing plan for employés who do not participate in the extra compensation plans amounts to $655,000 and will be paid early this year. Additional payments of $415,000, depending upon the earnings of General Electric company, will be made or credited to bondholders among this same group of employés.

There also will be extra compensation for employés in important and supervisory position, but the amount and number of employés have not been determined. Last year this amounted to $854,000 to 352 employés.

STOCKS FORGE AHEAD DESPITE PROFIT TAKING

Many Old Line Industrial Issues Set New Peaks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 6.—Despite a tendency of traders to take profits, enough support came into the share market today to raise prices generally higher, although minus signs were by no means absent from the final table.

Trading was relatively quiet, but a strong undercurrent was evident throughout practically the entire list. Persistent buying of old line industrial leaders, many of which approached or went through their old tops, kept the rank and file in line. Motors, alcohols, and metals contributed the greatest firmness.

Profit taking increased late in the day after a fair sized runup through most of the list, and the advances of the best performers and others were reduced slightly.

Pace of Trading Steady.

Volume did not greatly exceed that of the previous session, approximately 2,895,000 shares being the total for the day.

The speculative fraternity, for a change, did not interpret bearishly the lip service given to the cause of a stable currency by Secretary Hull. It was pointed out that were the markets less accustomed to words spoken by politicians for obvious purposes the secretary's remarks might have caused a bit of a flutter. Industrial news was generally favorable to the constructive element.

Much encouragement was given to the street by the performances of pivotal issues. General Motors and United States Steel in particular turned in excellent results, the former setting a new high mark of 64¼ and the latter reaching 67⅞, also a new high. Although both issues dropped back later, their gains amounted to a point or more.

Chemical Issues Strong.

Chemicals were among the strongest issues in the list. Allied Chemical set the pace, climbing 6 points to make the week's gain more than 27 points. It also just missed breaking anew into the $200 a share class, as it touched 199⅞ at its high point of the day. Du Pont and Monsanto were also buoyant.

Carrier issues failed to do anything spectacular. Most issues were about firm, with Union Pacific an exception.

As in yesterday's session a number of miscellaneous issues chalked up real gains. Outstanding among them were Checker Cab, American Chain, Manhattan Shirt, Reynolds Spring, Ritter Dental and Snider Packing. Gains in these issues amounted to as much as 4 points.

Utilities moved in a narrow range, while tobaccos were again weak. Liggett & Myers slipped below par on a drop of over 5 points.

Silver mining shares hardened considerably on the treasury's assurances of purchases. United States Smelting led the group with a gain of almost 3 points, with American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco treading close on its heels.

Chrysler came back strong, following its dip of yesterday, to reach its best price since 1929.

Shawinigan Water Power Bonds Are Oversubscribed

An issue of $17,000,000 of 25 year 4 per cent refunding first mortgage collateral trust sinking fund bonds, series F, of the Shawinigan Water and Power company, offered recently in Canada, has been oversubscribed, it was reported yesterday by Aldred & Co., Ltd., syndicate manager.

FREIGHT TRAFIC REBOUNDS FROM WINTER'S SLUMP

Total Is Highest Since Early in November.

Soaring trafic in miscellaneous freight last week boosted the total freight movement in the United States to the highest level since early last November, besides being the largest total for the week since 1931. The upward movement in miscellaneous represented a normal rebound from conditions that in previous weeks had held up most classes of freight except coal.

A total gain of 86,411 cars, or 14.7 per cent, over the preceding holiday week was a much larger than seasonable upturn, and placed the total for the week at 673,123 cars, according to figures released yesterday by the Association of American Railroads.

Gain Over Last Two Years.

This total represented an increase of 68,792 cars, or 11.4 per cent, over the corresponding week of last year and 67,406 cars, or 11.1 per cent, over two years ago. The gain over 1935 was the largest year-to-year increase since last December.

The movement last week, according to the various classifications, was as follows:

	Total.	—Rise over— Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscellaneous	246,720	45,330	21,239

HOGS ARE LOWER DESPITE BETTER TRADE IN PORK

An extremely unsettled trade developed for yesterday's light run of hogs, with the trend of prices weak to lower despite further improvement in the wholesale markets for fresh pork. Advances of 50 cents brought top fresh pork loins in Chicago up to $20.50, the highest level in two weeks.

Ordinarily such a situation would stimulate hog buying, but there was no increase in demand yesterday and reductions in some classes of hogs ranged upward to 25 cents compared with Thursday. Both the top and average prices indicated 10 cents decline, at $10.55 and $10, respectively.

Sheep receipts yesterday at 8,000 were smallest for a Friday in five weeks, resulting in further advances of 10 to 15 cents, with the general market 25 to 40 cents above the midweek low spot. Top sales at $10.15 equaled the highest price since Feb. 21.

Packers exerted pressure on steer prices yesterday, and with the exception of some of the cheapest of the grades that are selling in competition with the relatively high priced hefer stock, the trend of prices was weak to lower. Most of the lower priced steers brought [illegible]ly prices. Hefers ruled stronger. Several carloads of steers were [illegible] off the market on unsatisfactory bids to be carried over for next week. A part load topped at $10.75, [illegible] the bulk of sales at $7.25 to $9.

WHEAT RECEDES ON SELLING BY BIG OPERATORS

May Delivery Is Lowest in Two Weeks.

Liquidation in wheat futures broke prices on the May contract as much as 2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, driving that delivery down to 98¼ cents a bushel, the lowest in two weeks. The break brought in larger outside buying and also a better demand for soft red winter cash wheat, the close showing net losses of 1 to 1¾ cents.

According to trade comment, the heaviest selling was by houses which frequently act for large professional operators.

There was nothing in the news to account for the selling movement yesterday. Dry weather was again reported in the southwest, with the forecast holding little prospect of relief in the immediate future.

Larger Crop Expected.

A bearish construction was placed on an estimate by leading Chicago statisticians suggesting a winter wheat crop of about 525,000,000 bushels might be harvested this year based on the current outlook. This would compare with the 433,000,000 bushel crop in 1935.

Condition on March 1, as reported by Nat C. Murray, was 70.2, or 8 points lower than the government returns of Dec. 1, the loss comparing with a nine year average for the same period of 2.9 points. R. O. Cromwell made the condition 75, against 71.4 last year.

Milling Demand Improves.

Considerable improvement was indicated in the milling demand for cash wheat yesterday. Chicago handlers reported sales of 50,000 bushels following several days of dullness. Flour sales were said to have been of a routine character. About 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were reported to have been sold for export.

Closing prices on the May delivery of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .98¼	$1.00	$1.00¼
Corn	.60⅝	.61⅛	.60¼
Oats	.27⅞	.28⅜	.29
Rye	.55⅞	.56¾	.56⅝

Weakness in wheat tended to increase pressure on corn and other grains. Corn declined a major fraction, while rye was off about 1 cent at the extreme. Part of the selling of the latter grain was attributed to the same professionals who were credited with having been active on the selling side of wheat.

CHICAGO CAR CONCERN PLANS STOCK OFFERING TO FINANCE MERGER

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—The General American Transportation corporation, of Chicago, has filed a registration statement under the securities act of 1933 covering 169,600 shares of $5 par value common stock, the net proceeds from which would be used to obtain control of the assets of the Pressed Steel corporation, to purchase equipment and for other corporate purposes.

The offering price and underwriting discounts are to be given in an amendment, but the corporation placed the tentative maximum price at $50 per share, on which basis the issue would involve $8,480,000.

The new shares will be offered for subscription pro rata to stockholders of the corporation in the ratio of one share for each five old shares held on a date in April to be fixed. Trans-Transferable warants will be issued.

The statement said approximately $1,165,000 may be used for acquisition of 233,334 shares of the 5 per cent cumulative convertible preferred stock of a new corporation to be organized to acquire the assets of Pressed Steel Car. It is expected, the statement added, that all or part of the balance of the proceeds may be used from time to time for the acquisition of additional equipment or for other corporate purposes.

BUTTER PRICES MOVE LOWER AS RECEIPTS RISE

Fresh Eggs Are Fairly Active and Higher.

Butter futures and spot prices moved lower here yesterday as a result of larger receipts and an abnormally heavy movement of supplies into storage for this season. Spot prices declined ¾ to 1¼ cents a pound and futures dipped ¼ to ⅜ cent.

Fresh eggs encountered a fairly active demand and advanced ¾ cent in some instances with current receipts leading the upturn. October contracts rose to 22 cents a dozen, a net gain of ⅜ cent. April futures advanced an equal amount to 20¾ cents, a new high for the year.

Butter was influenced by the storage of approximately 300,000 pounds of foreign butter which arrived at New York during the day. Eggs were affected by smaller receipts at Chicago and other principal markets and the failure of storage holdings to increase as rapidly as had been expected.

Future transactions in butter on the Chicago Mercantile exchange totaled 87 cars. Eggs totaled 29 cars. Price range of futures follows:

HEDGING SALES AND BREAK IN GRAINS DEPRESS LARD

Scattered selling of lard futures by commission houses, part of which was attributed to hedging operations against purchases of cottonseed oil, and the break in grains carried lard prices lower yesterday. Support came mainly from shorts and cash interests, but the finish was at net losses of 10 to 17½ cents, with May equaling the lowest level of the season.

Cash lard was quoted at $10.42, loose $9.97, leaf $10.00, and clear bellies $14.62 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

BIG GAIN SHOWN IN CONSOLIDATED OIL 1935 PROFIT

Change in Capital Setup Cuts Fixed Charges.

H. F. SINCLAIR.
[Acme Photo.]

A sharp rise in earnings during 1935 was disclosed by Consolidated Oil corporation in its annual report, issued last night. The report, signed by H. F. Sinclair, chairman of the executive committee, also calls attention to substantial savings in fixed charges as a result of changes in capital structure.

Last year's net income was $11,306,904, compared with $553,281 in 1934. Based on the present capitalization these figures are equivalent to 77.5 and 1.9 cents, respectively, on the common stock, after preferred dividend requirements. Gross operating earnings rose $19,344,519 to $187,770,101. Costs and operating expenses rose $8,476,025 to $154,716,543.

Preferred Stock Reduced.

The 100,533 shares of 8 per cent $100 par preferred have been retired, 48,935 shares through redemption Jan. 15 at 110, or $5,382,850. The balance was exchanged for new $5 preferred stock on the basis of 1.1 new for each 1 old share. As a result, 56,690 new preferred shares now are outstanding and dividend requirements reduced from $804,264 to $283,450 annually, a difference of approximately 4 cents a share on the common.

Sinclair also pointed to retirement of $48,781,700 of 6½ and 7 per cent bonds through treasury funds and bank loans for $40,000,000 bearing an average interest rate of 2.68 per cent. Interest charges of $2,412,571 last year reflected a saving of $695,196 from 1934. This saving, however, applied only to about one-third of the year, the bonds not having been redeemed until Aug. 12. The full saving is approximately $1,300,000 a year.

Oil Situation Improved.

The oil industry, said Sinclair, is in the soundest statistical position it has occupied for some years. Stocks of crude oil at the end of 1935 were the lowest since April, 1923, and demand for oil products was greater than at any time since 1929.

Discussing the fact that the industry put forth its own efforts to stabilize production and preserve orderly market conditions after the death of NRA, Sinclair said:

"The demonstration of the industry's capacity for self-government and ability to conduct itself in a manner consonant with public interest and its own welfare encourages the belief that no further measures of governmental regulation will be considered necessary."

LIGHT TRADE IN COTTON; GAINS OF 1 TO 7 POINTS

Trade in cotton was restricted yesterday with prices holding within a narrow range. Chicago closed 1 to 7 points higher and other markets 3 to 7 points higher. [A point is equal to 1-100 cent.]

Reports from abroad indicated European buyers were taking less interest in American cotton due to larger supplies in Brazil and India.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 6 points higher with New Orleans at 11.20 cents, Houston 11.15 cents, Galveston 11.10 cents, and New York 11:30 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

'WINTER-CURED' AUTOMOBILE

STUDEBAKER

SALES CO. OF CHICAGO offers cars that have been kept in steam-heated showrooms during the winter. Cars that are kept outside during the cold winter months cannot give you good performance now. The motors and parts deteriorate and rust.

During the slack winter season all Studebaker's mechanics were kept busy reconditioning, re-checking and renewing these autos—so now they are all ready to go and give you new-car satisfaction today. They are truly "WINTER-CURED" cars.

AUTOMOBILE LOANS.

BUY A CAR BORROW ON A CAR

There isn't an automobile dealer in town who isn't prepared to make the sale of a new or used car and let you pay for it "on time." That is one of the reasons why the price of an automobile—new or used—is so low. Manufacturers can make so many, and dealers can sell so many—mass production it is called and mass selling.

If the price of a car—new or used—is low because of time financing, should not time financing be low, too, because of the mass of time financing!

We think so.

And that is the reason we are offering low rates and liberal terms to the buyers of cars or those who own a car and who wish to borrow on it.

FOR EXAMPLE—

Balance to be financed.	Total yearly charge.	Total amount of note.	12 monthly deposits.
$100	$12.08	$112.08	$ 9.34
$200	19.00	219.00	18.25
$300	23.04	323.04	26.92
$400	29.00	429.00	35.75
$500	35.08	535.08	44.59

Fire and theft insurance only is required —you may place the insurance with your own broker or agent.

Cheering Throng of 21,302 Sees Dramatic Battles Concluding Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions

THRONG OF 21,302 SHRIEKS ITSELF HOARSE DURING FIVE HOUR SHOW CONCLUDING TRIBUNE'S NINTH ANNUAL GOLDEN GLOVES TOURNAMENT OF CHAMPIONS—General view of crowd that filled the Chicago Stadium last night for finals and semi-finals of boxing tournament sponsored by The Tribune. The ticket sale totaled $35,026.05. Winning 23 points out of a total of 33, the Catholic Youth Organization ran away with the team trophy offered to Chicago clubs which sent boxers into arena. The teams representing the Cleveland Plain-Dealer and the Omaha World-Herald tied at 13 points each for out of town trophy, and Cleveland won toss of a coin. The eight champions crowned are survivors from a field of 17,000 from 16 states who started out in quest of Golden Gloves two months ago. Last night's winners will battle New York News champions in Madison Square Garden, New York, March 27.
